

THE DAILY BEE.

Monday Morning, September 21 LOCAL BREVITIES.

The friends of Gen. Bruno Tschuck, consul at Vera Cruz, Mexico, will be glad to learn that he is rapidly recovering from a severe attack of yellow fever which has been raging at that place for several months.

A woman calling herself Mrs. Donovan, and living on the bottom, came up to police headquarters Saturday and lodged a complaint against John Baker, the son of a neighbor, who had hit her in the eye with a stone.

Ed. Pyle, of Humboldt, one of the leading turfmen in the state, was in the city attending Saturday's races with the following horses from his large stable: Chas. Caffrey, Jennie Cobb, Captain Pyle, McFarland, Annie B, Coffey Colt.

An important meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall this evening at 8 o'clock, when the subject of a building for the association will be discussed. No collection will be taken up or funds solicited. Every body at all interested is invited to be present, that the best plans of work may be discovered.

The city jail was the scene of a short but lively combat Saturday. Edgerton, the colored assistant, fought one round with Charley Williams, another darky, gaining a decisive victory over him. Williams, he claims, was trying to oust him from his position by making secret overtures to his employers.

Joseph Liska and his family of wife and two daughters, will be sent to Running Water to-day, their passage being provided for by some of the kind hearted Bohemians of this city. Liska, with his family, arrived in Omaha Thursday after a weary travel of three days from Nebraska City. His passage was paid from Bohemia to Nebraska, but by some mistake the railroad company set him down at Nebraska City.

He Would Act Like a Cowboy.

Officer Horrigan, standing on the post-office corner Saturday about eight o'clock, was suddenly attracted by a violent disturbance a block above. Glancing in that direction he saw a man on horseback upon the sidewalk trying to force his steed into Hans's Harry's saloon at the corner of Dodge and Sixteenth streets. The animal was refractory and plunged and bucked over the pavement scattering terror among the pedestrians who were passing.

"Whoop," yelled the horseman, plying a blacksnake whip across his horse's flank, "whoop, I say, I'll have an eye opener over that bar and I will send you down. Go in there you cursed critter or I'll cut you to shoe-strings," and he attempted to urge forward the frightened beast, lashing its sides most cruelly with his ugly whip. But at that instant the policeman reached the scene, and seizing the man by the neck brought him to the ground with a jerk.

An Interesting Question.

The wheeler of this city are at present discussing a matter which promises at no distant day to assume important and interesting shape.

Last week it will be remembered, there was a bicycle race at the fair grounds, in which a number of the members of the Omaha Wheel club were contestants, also Helphrey, a professional roller skater, who is a first rate bicyclist. Now the rules of the League of American Wheelmen to which all the racers belong provide that no L. A. W. man shall enter into any sort of a bicycle contest for money or prize with a professional, on pain of expulsion from the league. It is claimed that the circumstance of these members of the L. A. W. racing with the professional roller skater, Helphrey, even though he is not a professional wheelman is enough to expel them from the league. The rules of the organization are very strict on this point. The local wheelmen who engaged in the contest are in hot water, lest their action may cause trouble. The outcome is awaited with no small interest.

The Omaha Light Guards.

"What has become of the Omaha Light Guards?" was asked Saturday of a member of the organization. "We are getting along finely," was the reply. "We are practicing every day, and are able now to make a very respectable drill. Yes, we drill with regulation muskets, and thanks to Captain Gray, we shall soon be able to astonish the people of Omaha by the precision we have made. There are now about forty-five members in the organization." The guards now drill in their new armory hall in the rooms over Williams' store, formerly occupied by the public and board of education. The hall has been undergoing the renovating process of painting, varnishing and kalsomining, and presents a very handsome appearance. The floor has also been especially prepared for drilling and for dancing, and when not used by the guards is to be let for balls and parties. The apartments formerly occupied by the board of education have been turned into a reception room for ladies, having been carpeted and papered. A door has been run through from the ante-room into the main room. The hall is certainly one of the prettiest and most perfectly appointed in the city, and the guards are to be congratulated upon it.

Horse This Week.

A telegram from Lincoln to the city marshal was received at police headquarters early Sunday morning asking that a lookout be kept for two horse thieves and a top buggy and team which were supposed to be in the city. The cut fit was stolen from Osborne county, Kansas, last week by two young men named Fred and John Reynolds. They were traced as far as Lincoln, where they tried to dispose of the rig but failed. They then started for Omaha, but as far nothing has been seen of them here by the police.

UNRULY UTAH.

Senator Manderson Among the Latter-Day Saints.

His Views Upon the Situation and His Ideas of the Reform Required—Pointed Illustrations—An Interesting Interview.

Senator Manderson and his wife returned Saturday after more than four weeks spent in the western territories. The senator is a member of the senate committee on territories, and was detailed for this summer to the work of inspecting the condition of the nation's embryo commonwealths. His journeys, however, accompanied by Mrs. Manderson, have been performed this season as much for his own diversion, and altogether at his own expense. After the intelligent and interesting account he rendered of Arizona and New Mexico, which he first visited, it was known that the senator could afford most interesting points upon the territories of the west and northwest, from which he just returns, and which being tributary in a large degree to Omaha, command in no small measure the attention of the local public. A reporter for the Bee called upon him at the Millard hotel Saturday and during a long conversation, in which the full information obtained would exceed the capacity of a legitimate press interview, many valuable and deeply interesting points were produced upon the great new region of mountain and slope.

The senator first visited Salt Lake going thence in a few days to the Yellowstone whither his duties as a member of the sub-committee on the National Park led him. From his wonderland, he went to Portland and then again in the interest of the sub-committee on Washington territory, of which he is also a member (this committee reported favorably last year upon the admission of the territory) he made a tour of the sound cities and other points of interest in the territory. Turning eastward, he passed through Idaho, visited Shoshone Falls, and thence returned to Salt Lake, where he made a visit of more than a week. He devoted his entire time to the study of Utah and its people, and by good fortune was much assisted in this pursuit by the stirring events occurring at the time.

The people of Utah, that is the Mormons, for they constitute the entire population, with a small gentile element," said the senator, "are virtually an alien nationality. They hate the national government and chafe at the restrictions of the country's laws and the presence of federal officials as an unholy interference and a barbaric invasion. The spirit of sedition is so deep seated that no one could contemplate the situation without wondering that it has not long since broken out in open rebellion. Outside of Salt Lake City the people are environed with no other influences than that of the Mormon church. They read nothing but the Mormon organs, hear nothing but 'salutary' exhortations and see none but Mormons and practitioners of a polygamous creed. It is no credit to the church of Joseph Smith that its followers are thus densely ignorant. Education is not a vital principle in the social and moral ethics of Mormonism, and its devotees run more to tangled hair, spare visages and gaunt limbs than to brains. There must be some legislation of a most heroic and vigorous character enacted to crush out the 'hydrated monster,' as it has so often been denounced in editorial thunders. I believe that the people of the United States and their representatives in congress are awakening to the realization of the fact, and that a few months will witness the passage of some law through the national legislature which will attain the end so much required.

"You would be astonished to witness the proceedings of the federal courts and see how perjury and outright contempt of court prevail in the administering of justice. I was in court the other day when a woman, indisputably the second or two living wives, was on the stand, brought there in evidence against her husband who was on trial for polygamy. 'How many children have you?' asked the United States attorney. 'Three. Aged five years, three years and three months,' she replied. 'What is the father of those children?' 'I don't know.' 'Is not your husband the father of those children?' 'I don't know,' the woman replied doggedly.

"The prosecutor, fully cognizant of palpable deception the woman was practicing on a matter in which she indisputably knew the truth, appealed to the court. The judge was compelled to rule that she had answered the questions put to her and the case would have to go on in the hope that the recollection of the paternity of her children would come to the witness. In another case wherein a certain white was arranged, as was Starkey, who was beyond all question the maternal wife, was called to the witness stand. She absolutely refused to testify in any particular and was finally committed to the penitentiary for contempt of court. I held a conversation with White and endeavored to influence him to a proper source of conduct. I told him that it was his duty to save the woman from punishment. He held it in his power and should be too honorable to let any one, above all a woman, suffer for him. If Miss Starkey was not his wife, he could prevail upon her to absolve herself from the commitment of the court and at once acquit himself. If on the other hand she was his wife, was it not the better part of manhood for him to step forth and say it, that at least, whatever his fate might be, should not suffer for her a guiltless penalty. He replied coldly that he could not see it in that light.

"I then conversed with her and found her far more intelligent than him, by long odds, albeit she was a very ladylike person as a woman of her class. She reasoned to me that she was a Mormon and believed in its precepts and teachings. It was there fore her duty to protest from persecution, as she deemed it, all followers of its gospel. She remained firm and was sent to the penitentiary.

"I see by the morning telegrams that Bishop John Sharp has pleaded guilty of the leading charge, and has offered the imposition of a merely nominal fine. It will be interesting to observe the effect of his action, as Sharp is one of the leading men of the Mormon church, and in my judgment, a diplomat and business gentleman, with few equals in the west. It may set a precedent that will prove salutary to Utah, and be the first step of the territory's self-redemption. I have frequently been asked if the Edmunds law would prove effective in this great dilemma, and I have been constrained to express my doubts about it. Something of a more vigorous nature is demanded, and Senator Hoar's bill for which I had the pleasure of voting last session is nearer to the point. The Utah question is in my judgment the most important of all matters which now press for consideration."

THE SECRET ORDERS.

Notes From the Various Lodges of the City.

A New Division of the Uniformed Rank, K. of P.—Other Matters of Interest.

Secret society matters in this city are at present rather dull. The lodges of this jurisdiction are enjoying a prosperous steady growth, but are contemplating no great or important movements. Most of the lodges are putting out no branches, but simply "building up" by taking in members one by one.

The Masons have nothing to talk about, barring their new building, which has already been described in the secret society columns of the Bee. It is going up rapidly and promises to be a beauty. Grand Lodge, A. F. & M. took in a new member last week, James W. Bodwell.

Pythian Points. Myrtle lodge K. of P. held an interesting meeting last week but transacted no business of importance, besides taking in four new members.

The meeting of Nebraska Lodge No. 1 K. of P. Wednesday evening was particularly interesting this week. Supreme Representative J. J. Monell was present, and his presence greatly enlivened the session. Arrangements were made to buy new paraphernalia, something which, it must be confessed, the lodge stands in need of.

Another important move taken in the meeting contemplated the formation of a new division of the uniformed rank, K. of P., to be under the espionage of Nebraska lodge. It was decided to hold a meeting next Monday night to take the first necessary steps to the formation of the new division. Most of the members of Nebraska Lodge No. 1, have obtained their withdrawal cards from Myrtle Division Uniformed Rank, and will join the new division.

"What has become of the scheme to put up a Pythian building in this city, by stock subscription?" was asked of a prominent Knight Saturday.

"I am afraid that you will hear nothing more of that for some time," was the reply. "The plan was put forth for a consideration at first, but lately the projectors seem to have given it up. Yes, it must be admitted that the Pythian order in this city is very strong. The lodges, however, do not seem to 'pull together' as well as they might. Then again the members are, for the most part, of the younger and poorer class of business men, who can have no time to subscribe so handsomely to any such scheme as their wealthier brethren of the Masonic order." It is hardly probable that anything will be done toward the erection of the building for two or three years.

Supreme Representative J. J. Monell has returned from a vacation trip in the east.

Other Matters. Friendship lodge K. & L. of H. has proposed to hold a meeting to effect a consolidation. It is believed that the interests of the order can be just as well subserved in the existence of one strong lodge, as of two lodges of but ordinary strength. Committees will be appointed to discuss the matter.

The Knights of the various lodges are preparing to turn out in full numbers at the silver wedding anniversary of Capt. Geo. H. and Mrs. Orator, which occurs Tuesday evening.

Manual Training. Something About the Preparations—The Tools—Drawing Lessons—Commenced—Other Notes.

Prof. Bumann, the new teacher of manual training, is busied at present preparing for active operations, which will begin as soon as all the necessary carpenter tools can be procured from the east. A reporter visited Saturday the room in the basement of the High School building, which is being fitted for the manual training work. The room is situated in a light and airy part of the building, being well provided with windows and ventilating apparatus. In size it is about 40x40.

The long work tables range around the side of the room, being divided into twenty benches, each with three drawers. The accommodations are intended for about 60 pupils, to be divided into three classes, each wood-worker to have his own drawer, with separate tools. These classes will receive instruction, of course, at different hours of the day, being graded according to the ability and natural skill of the scholars. At first, as already indicated, nothing but plain woodwork will be attempted. In due time, with the growth of the system, it is hoped to add other more difficult branches of manual training.

The mallets and planes are already at hand, sixty in number, and the saws and other necessary tools will be delivered in a few days. In the meantime Prof. Bumann is giving his scholars lessons on the elementary principles of drawing. When all arrangements are in progress are complete, he will start out with thorough equipment for doing good work.

The following programme for the day's operations will probably be carried out: 9:30-10:30 Shop 10:30-12:30 Recess 12:30-1:30 Drawing 1:30-2:30 Shop 2:30-3:30 Shop

Believing that cleanliness is a good lesson to inculcate in connection with the manual training work, Prof. Bumann has fitted up in the basement hall a lot of wash benches, the regular and thorough use of which will be insisted upon. Each boy will be required to furnish his own basin, soap and towel, and to keep them in his separate drawer.

"The play's the thing, wherein I'll reach the conscience of the king." And equally true is it that Dr. Pierce's "Pain-Expeller" (the original Little Liver Pills) are the most effectual means that can be used to reach the seat of disease, cleansing the bowels and system, and assisting nature in her recuperative work. By druggists.

They Wanted a Warrant. Mrs. Patrick Daily, and a friend William Fitzpatrick, stood up before Judge Stenberg Saturday, and pleaded eloquently for the issuance of a warrant against one J. J. Cavanaugh. Their side of the story was that Cavanaugh shot a dog belonging to Patrick Daily, and when, yesterday, the owner of the murdered canine threatened to whip him, that he drew a revolver and threatened to kill any one who dared to touch him. "He used some very offensive language," said Fitzpatrick, "and we want him arrested."

Judge Stenberg ordered them to bring Daily into police court and have him swear out the complaint against the dog-killer. It is understood that Cavanaugh claims to have carried the revolver in self-defense, thinking that Daily and his friends would do him injury.

A Shameful Wholesale Swindle. There are about seventy men in this city and in Council Bluffs who would lynch a certain Mr. Walker if they should find him. The object of their unassuming wrath is a gentleman who came here from Cheyenne representing himself as senior member of the contracting firm of Walker & Bowers, with a contract for seven miles of construction upon the extension of the C. B. & Q. out of Savannah, Ill. He was anxious in the extreme to employ a large number of men for this work, and opened an office in the saloon at No. 611 North Sixteenth street. By dint of extensive soliciting he secured about seventy men receiving from each one $2.50 for transportation expenses. He sold the whole number to be at the Council Bluffs transfer yesterday morning and the men posted over there. Trial time came and no contractor. The day passed and with it another scheduled train hour, but no contractor. The victimized crowd was suddenly struck with the idea that it had been victimized, and an apoplectic indignation meeting was held on the spot. Many of them returned to Omaha Saturday, but large numbers had not enough money to get out of Council Bluffs.
