MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 4.—Judge Hammond, of the United States court, has forwarded to James G. Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress" a copy of his opinion before Judge Sagein, of Ohio, and is said to go further than any previous decision in the protection of author's property in books. But an agent went to Ohio and sent copies for delivery, sold the books to a dealer and pocketed the money.

STATION OF ENGLAND. They need funds not in a week from then, not in a month from then, but at that very moment.

Therefore those who give must give at once. Let there be no delay.

At the office of Mr. McShane, a subscription list was opened that those present might contribute. They did so most generously; $892.50 were paid in.

In addition, the following committees were appointed to canvass the city for further donations: North Omaha, Messrs. Charles Moran and John Teaney; West Omaha, Messrs. Peter O'Malley and John Groves; Central Omaha, Messrs. M. D. Mather and J. A. Gray; South Omaha, Messrs. S. J. Broderick, T. B. Minihan and E. J. Brennan.

These committees were instructed to go to work at once and to present to the report on Tuesday afternoon next.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again on next Wednesday evening at the same place.

It may be well to note that those of our citizens who intend to contribute should be prepared when the solicitors call. The money, to be of any avail, must be called on next Thursday at Parrell.

MERRILL MATED.

The Marriage of Mr. S. Hirschberg and Miss Rosa Kline.

Yesterday afternoon the marriage of Sigmund Hirschberg to Rosa Kline, was solemnized at Germania hall in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

Rabbi Benson performed the ceremony. It was carried out according to the Hebrew ritual, and was most impressively and feelingly interpreted by the clergyman mentioned.

The civil marriage was first performed on the east side of the hall above mentioned.

Following it came the marriage according to the Moslem law. The rabbi took a position upon the stage. He was draped in a black gown which reached to the floor, while over his shoulder and falling toward the waist in front was a white stole, emblematic of innocence, which was crossed behind with black at the bottom.

Upon his head he wore a black velvet beretta. Immediately in front of him stood four men, each of whom held a support to a canopy of blue and white satin trimmed with gold and at the same time held a lighted candle.

This canopy the groom and bride took a position. They were addressed in a most practical and sympathetic manner by the clergyman, in which he referred to the duties of the married life, the well-mated people in the married life, and the enhancement of that happiness, occasioned by the practice of religion and the blessing of God, which ought to characterize the life of the married people.

The marriage formula from the Hebrew ritual, at the conclusion of which he handed a glass of wine to the brother of the bride, who then handed it to his sister, who merely pressed the glass to her lips. The same glass was then passed to the father of the bride, who presented it to the groom, and from which both a sip was taken.

The field work, followed by a golden ring, was placed on the right finger of the bride, after which the ritual, in English, was read by the rabbi, and the couple were pronounced man and wife.

A second glass of wine was then presented above mentioned, and then kisses were exchanged by the bride and groom and the father and mother of the young lady.

The ceremony was followed by a bountiful dinner, which was held in the hall in one of the halls of the upper story.

This was followed by a private dance in which nearly everybody took part.

At Hirschberg's home, on the continental works of A. Dornum, 608 South Tenth street, the bride is the amiable daughter of A. Klein, formerly in business on Douglas street but now retired.

She is a young lady of refined tastes, and her groom's attendant was A. Klein, while the supporters of the bride were her sister, Miss Eva, and Miss Newman.

The festivities lasted until about midnight and were greatly appreciated by everybody.

DOWN THE HOME STRETCH.

The Closing Races of the Nebraska Trotting Horse Breeders' Association.

The closing races of the Nebraska Trotting Horse Breeders' association drew a large attendance at the Driving park on Saturday afternoon.

THE FIRST RACE.

The first race was for four-year-olds, best three in five, mile heats. Ted McMahon won. Time—2:39, 2:38, 2:38, 2:41.

THE SECOND RACE.

The second contest was for five-year-olds. Jennie Cobb won. Time—3:03, 3:01, 3:03. Miss Maggie got second place.

THE THIRD RACE.

The third race was for 2-45 stallion class, best three in five-mile heats. Six horses entered: Ethan Allen won, with Robbie Dunbar second. Time—2:37; 2:38; 2:41.

THE FOURTH RACE.

The fourth race, between Dick Wilde, Ed Payne, horse, and Cyclone, belonging to M. T. Patrick, did not come off. Patrick's horse having been protested. The protest set forth that the horse was older than the class, and therefore ought to be protested. The class was four-year-olds.

The judges decided that the race should be deferred, and the protest will be looked into by the executive committee of the association.

FORECAST OF CONGRESS.

Legislation to Come Before the Senate and House This Week.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The programme outlined by the committee for the conduct of business in the house during the coming week is as follows: The appropriation bill and land grant forfeiture bills. When the house meets to-morrow the appropriating committee will make an effort to have the regular suspension day passed over in order to continue the consideration of the deficiency appropriation bill. Before actual action is taken on that measure the certain appropriation bill will have been placed on the calendar. The committee has cut down the appropriations far below the departmental estimates in preparing that bill. Its consideration in the house is likely to lead to debate. The public land committee expects to secure action upon some of its land grant forfeiture bills about the middle of the week, and to report to the house on the 11th inst. It is awaiting conference reports the house may act upon the Reagan interstate commerce bill and Mr. Morrison's surplus disposition bill. The committee on the committee on public buildings, which has bills appropriating four and eight million dollars in aid of the construction of the new post office building at St. Paul, Minn., will probably be devoted to the river and harbor bill, the land and water bill, and the oceanographic bill. The caucus planned to devote a day last week to executive business, but failed to carry out the plan. The committee on the case of Sublet Goolsb, adversely reported from the judiciary committee, is the first and kindest of the problems with which the executive body will attempt to wrestle. The work may be attempted this week if Senator Hoar, who has the matter in charge, returns to Washington in time. The following is the session of the six regular appropriation bills which still remain to be considered: The legislative bill has passed both houses and awaits the action of the conferees. The river and harbor bill is unfinished. The land and water bill is unfinished. The oceanographic bill has been reported by the committee on appropriations, and is upon the senate calendar. The surplus disposition bill is under consideration in the house, and the fortifications bill has not yet been reported from the subcommittee. The new bill has been introduced by the committee on appropriations, and is upon the senate calendar. The surplus disposition bill is under consideration in the house, and the fortifications bill has not yet been reported from the subcommittee. The new bill has been introduced by the committee on appropriations, and is upon the senate calendar.
