

VICTORY FOR THE VISITORS.

The Union Pacific Taken Into Camp by the St. Joe Reds.

SUNDAY AT THE EXPOSITION.

Buried in Haste—Looking For a Lost German Melodrama at Boyd's—Other Local—A Surveyor's Death.

The Reds Victorious.

The second game between the St. Joe Reds and the Union Pacific was played at Athletic park yesterday afternoon in the presence of about one thousand spectators. The visitors were strengthened by a change of battery, Gethron occupying the box, with Jumbo behind the bat. The game was a pretty one and played in earnest from start to finish. Bandle, Dwyer and Jones slugged the sphere for three runs in the first inning and held the visitors down to two scores. The second inning showed a goose egg for each nine. The home team were left out in the third and fourth innings, Dwyer scoring by a hard hit and fine base-running in the fifth. The visitors scored three runs in the third, leaving the score 5 to 4 in their favor until the eighth inning, when, by a run of luck on two by the home team, they crossed seven men over the home plate giving them an advantage that the home team could not hope to overcome. The rest of the game was featureless and resulted in a victory for the visitors by a score of 12 to 4. There is only one way to account for the result and that is that the Reds are the better ball players. The home team appeared to a fine advantage and played the strongest game of the season. Bandle caught, as usual, without an error. Salisbury pitched a fair game, but the batting ability of the visitors was too much for him. Rockwell did good work on the mound. Dwyer's short and McKelvey's third formed the features of the game, all of them deserving credit for some brilliant and effective work. Brimblecom and Anderson did excellent fielding. Miles was not in place in right field and his work was not effective. The visitors played excellently in all places. Smith is the finest first baseman and Tolan the heaviest batter that have played on the home grounds this year. The game was satisfactorily umpired by Stroek. The following is the score in detail:

SUNDAY AT THE EXPOSITION.

The Great Attraction Visited by Crowds From the City and Abroad. The exposition yesterday called forth a large attendance. In the morning an excursion from Creston visited the show, returning home in the evening. The throng filled the building until a late hour in the evening, when it was dismissed by the ringing of the gong.

The musical features last evening consisted of a sacred concert, given by the Musical Union orchestra. It comprised a number of excellent features, and all of these were rendered under the direction of Mr. Naham Franco, who, although a stranger here, is not the less a favorite among our music-loving people. It was he who conducted the preparatory work of the June festival just after he had returned from a season's work with the renowned Mendelssohn Quintette club, of Boston, and he was married to Miss Edith Edwards, the late soprano of the quintette club, who has also decided to remain in our city. Both Mr. and Mrs. Franco are a decided addition to the larger circles of our more accomplished musicians, and their determination to make a home in the Gate city is something which our people should appreciate and of which they should be proud.

The children of all the public and private schools will be admitted to-day. The former have already been supplied with tickets and the latter when coming in a body, will be admitted to the building. This will be the last night of the exposition. Its equal will never be seen in this city, at least for a year. It is therefore suggested that everybody should be present this evening. The music will be delightful and the exposition will be just as attractive as it has been up to the present time.

BURIED IN HASTE.

Suspicious Circumstances Connected With the Death of Lena Vetter. Mention has already been made in the BEE of the indignation of friends over the hasty disposition of the remains of Lena Vetter, who died at the Star house on Harney street a few days ago, after a brief illness. The charge has since been made by parties in a position to know that the hasty burial of the poor girl was for the purpose of concealing facts connected with the cause of her death that it would not be a needless expense to the county to grant the request made by the girl's parents and friends that the body be taken to the county burial place and interred. The girl's death will be reported that her death had been caused by apoplexy, induced by overwork. Coroner Drexel accepted the physician's statement and decided that it would only be a needless expense to the county to grant the request made by the girl's parents and friends that an inquest should be held. These relatives are strongly of the opinion that there were other causes for the girl's death and will push for a further investigation of the case.

GERMAN ACTORS.

They Appear in Melodrama at Boyd's Opera House.

Last evening the enterprise of a German theatre was undertaken at Boyd's opera house, under the management of Messrs. Barois, Puls and Schmitz. All of these gentlemen are well known in this community. They are actors of ability, and each of them has played in the best theatres, and in connection with some of the best actors which both America and Europe have produced. The experiment of a German theatre on Sunday nights, has already been tried at Boyd's, and the showing has been such as to warrant the belief that such an enterprise can be maintained. With this belief the present enterprise has been undertaken. Last night the audience was larger than had been expected. It was also discriminating and enthusiastic. It applauded a number of the features, and several shows called some of the performers before the curtain. The play was "Gebrüder Bock." It is a bright and interesting melo-drama, with an interesting story, emphasized with many suggestions of an interesting climax. Each of the performers seemed to appreciate the beauties of the piece and entered into its representation with the devotion of actors who were disposed to enter into their auditors.

"Gebrüder Bock" tests the strength of the company, and at the same time tests the ability of Louis Koch and Frieda Koch-Rosenack. Both of these are strangers in our midst, and each of them found a hearty welcome last night. Among the visitors were the best known Germans in town, and many of these were accompanied by their families from youth to man and womanhood. The play is an excellent one of its kind. It gave unlimited opportunity to both Mrs. Barois and Mrs. Puls-Ahl, and their work was greatly appreciated. Mr. Barois' acting as "Anton Bock" was as fine a piece of work as is expected in an old man's part from any of the actors who have played in this city, and his performance was irresistible. Mrs. Puls-Ahl was irresistible, and Mr. Hauck found grateful work in the unsavory part of "Jacob Bock." Although an experienced actor, his histrionic ability warranted his being always secured in the heavier lines of the German melo-drama. Mrs. Puls-Ahl was as sprightly and entertaining as ever, while Mr. Puls made a number of happy hits in the performance of his line. The new leading man, Louis Koch, displays excellent knowledge of his business, though his ability, last night, was by no means tested by the part which fell to his lot. The whole play was splendidly set and the latter was greatly appreciated by everybody. The same company will appear next Sunday evening, and will continue during the fall and winter season.

A CHILD IN BAD TROUBLE.

The Daughter of a Farmer Runs Away With a Rake.

The lost girl mania continues. Two young men from the McArdle precinct came into the city last night in search of the daughter of a well known farmer in the part of the county. The girl, but thirteen years of age but has been allowed by her parents to receive the attentions of the young men of her neighborhood. She has of late been the subject of the attentions of a rather rakish young fellow named Battin, who has been employed in the neighborhood. Yesterday Battin took the girl out for a buggy ride without the knowledge of her parents. The girl's father learned of the fact, and being suspicious of Battin's intentions, started in search of the party. The matter was reported to Marshal Cummings, who detailed an officer to accompany the searching party on a trip through the city, up to a late hour the runaways had not been found.

NEW OUTFITS FOR NEWSPAPERS.

The Omaha Type Foundry and Supply Publishers. The Western Newspaper Union at Omaha prepared at all times to outfit publishers on short notice with presses, type, rules, borders, inks, composition, sticks and rules, and in fact everything in the line of printers' and publishers' supplies. Better terms and more liberal prices can be secured than by sending to Chicago or elsewhere. Save money by buying near home. Second hand goods in the printing line bought and sold. We often have great bargains in this particular. Send for THE PRINTERS' ASSISTANT, our monthly trade journal, that gives lists of goods and prices and from time to time proclaims unequalled bargains in new and second hand material.

Another Fight Probable.

James H. McCormick, who seconded Fitzgerald in the glove contest between him and Al Marx, the Texas cowboy, is anxious now to meet Marx himself, and has issued a challenge to fight any heavy weight in Nebraska. Al Marx preferred, to a finish, for $100 to $250 a side and the Nebraska championship medal now held by Marx—the fight to take place within two weeks from date of challenge. The fight will doubtless be arranged, as Marx is not afraid to defend his title to the championship of the state.

A BOY TRAMP.

His Long Walk All the Way from Florida to Salt Lake.

Salt Lake Democrat: A reporter of this paper who happened to be walking up Main street at a late hour last night was stopped by a boy not over fifteen years of age, who asked for a little cash to get a bed with.

On being questioned as to why he did not go to work, where he had come from and what he was doing, he said he was in five in Jacksonville, Fla. My father is a horrible drunker, and it got so I couldn't stand it at home. Early last winter my mother died from ill treatment, and as soon as the funeral was over, I got to gether what few clothes I had and, selling them at a second hand store, I started north. The weather was fearfully cold and I suffered a good deal, but I was determined that I wouldn't give up. New Year's day I arrived in Washington, and that night I slept under the steps of the capitol. Next morning early I spent my last cent for a breakfast of thin griddle cakes, and following the line of the Ohio road, I had to beg my meals all the way, until at a little town in Illinois I got two weeks' work, and with what little I had after I had paid my board I started out again. It was about the last of February when I reached Des Moines, where I had an uncle. I found his house, but as he had never seen me he would not believe that I was his brother's son, and although the night was fearful cold he refused to take me in and would not even let me sleep in the barn. I then decided to bull for California, where I have another uncle, who visited us several years ago, before father started to drink so hard. Uncle Dan is rich and I expect to strike a snap when I get out there.

The boy seemed very conversant with the different points in the towns he had mentioned, so it is evident that he has seen them all, whether the story of his long walk is true or not. He named all the principal cities and towns he had been in, Jacksonville, Washington and Chicago, and was well up in the names of towns along the road between these places. He said he would be fifteen years old next month, and he expected to celebrate his birthday with his uncle in the golden state. He seldom tried to steal rides, but each time he had he had been caught, so he settled down to hard walking. He said that he would like to know more of his uncle, and when he reached the goal he would drop the pencil-pusher a line and let him know how he was getting along. He first gave his name as George Newcomb, but before leaving he explained that that was the title he trumped under, but that his real name was George Newland, Jr., a name well known in his native town a dozen years ago, but which had now somewhat degenerated. The boy was well educated and talked with a good deal of force. If all he says is true he deserves a little good luck in the future.

TO THE ODD FELLOWS OF OMAHA

In order to correct previous announcements and any misunderstandings that may arise therefrom which might tend to mislead members of the order in Omaha who intend to accompany the grand excursion of Odd Fellows to Boston, Mass., September 17, we beg leave to make the following announcement: After a thorough investigation and due consideration of this matter, we have decided to recommend to our respective lodges and to members of the order in general, the Chicago & Northwestern railway, this well known and popular line, having arranged to run a special through train of sleeping cars from Council Bluffs to Boston for the accommodation of the members of the order and their families in Nebraska and suggest that those going on this excursion can secure sleeping car berths by calling at the city ticket office of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, 1411 Farnam street, as soon as possible.

W. A. KELLEY, F. B. BRYANT, G. STRIFFLER, Members of committee on transportation.

The Fast Steppers.

Most of the fast horses which took part in the speed contests of the great Omaha fair were taken by special train yesterday evening to Kansas City, to be entered in the races there this week and next. The fact that pool playing is prohibited at Lincoln has caused the owners of the horses to take them to more profitable fields.

Brunswick, Bälke, Collender & Co.

The visitor to the exposition could not fail to see the elegant bar fixtures and pool tables just to the left as they entered the annex. The immense French plate mirror, whose perfect reflection was almost startling, its polished surface showing to us ourselves as others see us. The diamond-shaped mirrors, set in Linerusted walnut, were exceedingly ornamental. The counter was one of the most complete, useful and ornamental the writer has ever seen. The frame work and counter proper was of solid ash of most tasteful design and almost perfect finish. The panels were veneered with beautiful bird's-eye maple and capped with a polished plank of clearest cherry. The cooling sinks, drawers, etc., were in cash from the complete. The side case for display goods was in keeping with the other pieces of the set. This firm have hundreds of outfits in banks, saloons, and pool rooms all over Nebraska. Their billiard and pool tables are of the latest design and of elegant finish. They make outfits from original designs to order. The workmanship and material are guaranteed to be equal to that of any manufacturer of such goods. The splendid success that has been their is an recommendation of the work performed. Call and see them, examine their work and get estimates at their office, 509 south Tenth street.

Lost Two Gold Watches.

Mr. H. Heyman, a member of the new clothing firm of Block & Heyman, had a rather unpleasant introduction to the enterprising class of sneak thieves who ply their vocation with such satisfactory results in Omaha. His room at Mrs. Larson's, 1518 Cass street, was entered the other night and robbed of two fine solid gold watches, valued at $250. "There is no clue to the thieves."

Death of a Civil Engineer.

Mr. H. K. Burkett, the undertaker, went to the train yesterday to receive the remains of a young man named Frank Calfrey, who was killed last week in an accident on the Julesburg branch of the Union Pacific. Calfrey belonged to the civil engineering corps of the Union Pacific. His relatives are somewhere in the east, and efforts are being made to find them. The remains have been embalmed.

Cattle on a Stampede.

Yesterday afternoon two steers belonging to a carload of cattle that were being shipped to the stock yards by Oberne, Hosack & Co., became apparently wild and went on a stampede in the car horn and the other cattle and acting like mad. They finally became so rampant that it was found necessary to shoot them.

V. Walters' Exhibit.

At the fair grounds was acknowledged to be the best. Their Ivens & Pond piano came in last of a scheme of villainy that has been hatching for several years among that class desiring to pose as respectable. But as this particular matter will be prosecuted, and the lies to Marshal Cummings not well as true, I decline at present to say more.

A Very Desirable Corner For Sale.

The property of the late Martin W. Kennedy, corner of Seventeenth and Jackson streets, will be offered for sale by the heirs at the court house on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Van Etten Rises to Remark.

To the editor of the BEE: Your expected account of the assault of Harry Taggar upon "D. C. Van Etten" is untrue in every particular. Van Etten don't retract anything he has said and didn't on that occasion. It was simply a step and not the opening in a scheme of villainy that has been hatching for several years among that class desiring to pose as respectable. But as this particular matter will be prosecuted, and the lies to Marshal Cummings not well as true, I decline at present to say more. While you are privileged to publish this I do not expect you will be sufficiently far to do so. DAVID VAN ETEN.
