

QUIN BOHANAN AT LIBERTY.

Charlie Cook's Murderer Escapes From Jail at Nebraska City.

GONE TO JOIN SIMMERMAN.

One of the Guards Arrested For Liberating the Prisoner - A Number of Rewards Offered For His Capture.

Bohanan's Escape.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 23.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Last night, while the guards—the deputy sheriff and his assistants—were asleep, Quin Bohanan, who murdered Charlie Cook at Waverly, Neb., and who was confined in our jail awaiting the action of the United States supreme court to see whether he should have a new trial or not, made good his escape, and is now a free man. The guards were sleeping on the inside of the corridor, and it being impossible to open the gates and doors from without, it looks very suspicious and the feeling here is that there must have been treachery done. The city is quite excited, and upon the sheriff offering a reward squads of men are now out searching for him, but the majority of the people are inclined to believe he has gone never to return. In his bed was found a dummy, and so well was it put together that the county judge had to feel of it to believe it was not a human being. The bird must have flown in the night and was not discovered until breakfast time this morning. It remains a mystery how he secured other clothes which he must have done in order to use his old ones for a dummy. The sheriff of Lancaster county, where the crime was committed, has offered a reward of $100 in addition to the others. As the day rolled on the feeling grew more bitter regarding our criminals, and there may be a picnic in store for those left behind.

Another Account.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 23.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—When Jailer McCallum made his rounds this morning of the prison cells, no response came from that of Quin Bohanan. From appearances the prisoner was in bed, and was at first thought to be dead, but investigation disclosed the startling fact that Bohanan had escaped during the night, and had left a dummy in his bed. No trace of any kind can be found as to how he made his escape. The jail is a very strong one, and so arranged that a prisoner could not liberate himself from the inside, even if he had keys, and he must have had assistance from the outside. Several years ago Bohanan attempted to bribe a former jailer for his release, but his scheme was discovered. It was to be frustrated. The sheriff has wired all over the country, and all efforts will be used for his recapture, but there is very little hope, as few believe Bohanan would ever be taken alive, judging from his character and the hopelessness of his case. Great excitement prevails and particulars are scarce. Bohanan was under sentence of death, awaiting the decision of the United States supreme court. Dick Glocke, guard at the jail, was arrested to-night for letting Bohanan out of jail. The other prisoners all assert that Glocke opened the doors about 9 o'clock last night and saw Bohanan walk out. It is supposed that he did the work for a money consideration from Bohanan's friends on the outside.

The Killings at Lincoln.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 23.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The talk on the streets to-day is the escape of Quin Bohanan, who broke jail at Nebraska City last night, the news of which reached this city this morning. George Cook, brother of the man murdered by Bohanan at Waverly, offers $500 reward for Bohanan's capture and Sheriff Melick has telegraphed the sheriff of Otoe county that he will personally add $100 to the reward offered. The commissioners of this county, in which the murder was committed, were discussing the question of offering a reward on the part of Lancaster county, but have not yet acted. It is remembered that at Bohanan's trial five or six men from Missouri were present watching the proceedings as Bohanan's friends, and the impression among those acquainted with the inside facts is that old friends on the outside have helped secure his escape from the jail.

Doane College Graduates.

CRETE, Neb., June 23.—[Special to the Bee.]—The final closing exercises of the commencement of Doane college were held at the city hall to-day. Butterworth's Circular.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Representative Butterworth has sent out another circular to subscribers of the American telephone urging them again to withdraw from the company and receive back the money expended for the stock. Mr. Butterworth said to-day that he proposed to resign the presidency of the company in a few days, as he did not care to be connected with it on account of not being able to spare the time for the management of his business. "Properly managed," he said to-day, "the enterprise is a good one, but I shall not continue my connection with it, and there is a possibility that some persons took the stock under some misapprehension. I trust they shall soon be satisfied with the result they desire, start over. The fault is not in the merits of the enterprise, but in the fact that the chief promoter failed to have a record laid out for the project to attacks at any and all times."

A Collapsed Concern.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The American Telephone company has made but little progress in regaining the confidence of the public since discovery was made by the stockholders, president and general manager, that an inmate of the penitentiary. The basis of the company's claims for consideration consisted of an alleged franchise from the government of Venezuela to use their telephone in that country. This concession, however, was obtained by one Senor Padron, May 3, 1884. Newspapers which reached here from Venezuela yesterday, state that the inmate who had been given the concession, had been revoked and a new franchise, to include the territory of the United States, was granted to Signor Aquilino Orta, a native who has no connection with the American company. The new franchise was refused to credit the report, but if true it will knock the bottom out of the concern.

McGlynn Talks Back.

He Assails the Propaganda as a "Bourgeois Lie." BUFFALO, June 23.—Father McGlynn, in an interview to-day, presented his case as that of a man who has been sentenced being forced to appeal without any idea but that the result was a foregone conclusion and that he would be snubbed and insulted by the propagandists. He assails the church in Rome as a "Bourgeois machine," and closed as follows: "The engineers of the machine who are profiting by its power and its emoluments, are really laughing in their sleeves at the suffering of the poor. They are using Peter's name to the support of the white army of lackeys and flunkies, both lay and clerical, who are engaged in the barbaric pomp and circumstance of the imperial despotism."

Early's Compliments to Rosser.

RICHMOND, Va., June 23.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—In 1868, in a written letter to a friend, General Early spoke of the noble of Jubal A. Early as his "noble friend." Recently, in a published card, he said that Early ought to have been hanged for burning Chambersburg. In the State to-day Early publishes a reply, in which he says: "I regret that I cannot do more for the noble friend of my youth, but I have made in the army of northern Virginia, and especially in the Shenandoah valley in 1864, and I have fully demonstrated the falsity of many of his statements. Having been a member of the staff of General Early, I am in a position to know the truth of his character. He is a consummate ass, and it must be confessed that he proved his worth in that character. I am surprised that Rosser, Judas Iscariot, and suggests that he make some atonement for his apostasy to the Confederate cause by the same means as Judas did when he became aware of the effect of his treachery."

PARLOR OPERA.

Christine Nilsson's Jubilee Reception in London.

LONDON, June 23.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to the Bee.]—Christine Nilsson, as Countess Miranda, gave a jubilee at her home this afternoon, the first London reception since her second marriage, at her mansion in Kensington court, not far from the charmed palace where the queen was born. She wore a navy blue silk trimmed with rare old lace, and wearing earrings, brooch, rings, bracelets, diamonds and sapphires. She was assisted by her stepdaughter, Miss Miranda, who wore a white and chocolate-striped silk, and had a modest coiffure, front hair in maiden form style. Among the guests were several Americans—the three Misses Saunderson of Cincinnati, Senators McPherson and Hale, Dr. Waller of Chicago, Mr. Rolling of Boston. Naturally, much received more attention than the jubilee strawberries and cream, early peaches or the a la russe, Madame Nilsson sang, recalling to many a guest the words which Ferdinand addressed to Prospero, "By my own magic, I have charmed the air about me." She gave "Serenade Delicate," accompanied by Herr Vanz on the piano and a girl, American violinist, who wore a white crepe dress. The bow used by the latter was a gift to the younger Countess by her father-in-law. Madame Nilsson presented another protege, a young countrywoman, Miss Sigrid Arnoldson, of the Derry Lane opera house, who was dressed unpretentiously in silk, figured with miniature black and white diamonds, and sang a morsel of an Italian song. She had just heard Madame Nilsson say with much naïveté to the group, "If my voice lasts she will be my successor in public estimation." Miss Sigrid sang, "The Song of the Sea," and it became an open secret that he is endeavoring to make a second voyage to America, and next winter to America with Nilsson and Misses Arnoldson and Carpenter, they to travel at the end of the month.
