The Forts Will Be Rebuilt.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The people on the west side are again excited over a choice bit of scandal in the shape of a family quarrel which has resulted in a divorce case. Walter S. Gardner and his wife Grace were married in New York City, June 11, 1884, and moved to Framingham, Minn., early in 1885. Thence they moved to St. Paul, September of the same year. For some time past they have occupied apartments in Lawton block and appeared to be living a quiet life until Wednesday morning when Mrs. Gardner had her husband arrested for assault and battery.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Harrison Garret Drowned in a Collision—His Yacht Run Down.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—Harrison Garret, a brother of Robert Garret, was drowned last night in the Patuxent river. His yacht, the Gleam, in which he and a party of friends were coming to Baltimore from Annapolis, was run down off Seven-Foot Knoll by the yacht of a Mr. J. J. Smith, being struck amid ship and almost cut in two. All hands on the Gleam were rescued except Garret. The steward of the Gleam, near where the Joppa struck her, he grabbed the chains of the Joppa, which were hanging from the rigging, and tried to climb up the side of the steamer, but the chains and boat gave way and Garret fell overboard with them. He remained on board for several hours, but was saved. Garret was manager of the firm of Robert Garret & Sons, which was founded by his father, his grandfather, Garret was a member of the Maryland club, and one of the directors of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

WYOMING WET.

Heavy Rains Regarding Crops—Cattle in Good Form.

BUFFALO, Wyo., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—It has rained almost every day in northwestern Wyoming for the past month. The season is the wettest known for years, and the spring crops are greatly retarded in growth, but the grass and hay is fine. The stock men pronounce the ranges in better condition for cattle and horses than ever before known since they came to the country. The number of cows on the ranges the calf crop is very large. Some of the old cows, as if ashamed of themselves for past losses, have calved with twins. The stock interests are looking up and the stock men are encouraged and smiling. There were no losses of any moment last week, and the cattle and sheep crops have been branched this year will put Wyoming back on the basis where she was before the hard winter of 1886.

WANTED RECORD VINDICATION

Why the Rev. Luther Sues Two of His Flock.

A WORKMAN'S FRIGHTFUL FALL.

First Serious Accident on the Nebraska City Bridge—Died of Glanders—Smothered in a Corn Bin—Commencements.

The Preacher's Slander Suit.

OAKLAND, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The particulars of the two $5,000 damage suits for slander spoken of in yesterday's BEEL, are as follows: Rev. Luther, in connection with his charge at Herman, has been holding meetings in a school house eight miles southeast of Craig, with a small but earnest congregation of Methodists. Some time during January or February he was holding meeting at this school house and remained all night with Mr. Addison Farnsworth, one of his members. Farnsworth left his pocketbook containing $15 in his pants pocket in the room that the theologian occupied during the night. The next day Mr. Farnsworth found his pocketbook empty. His suspicions were aroused and he called on Mr. Luther, who maintained his innocence and demanded a retraction. The wrangle broke up the meetings and religion at that place came to a standstill. Mr. Luther, it is claimed, followed the minister to his home at Herman, to see if he spent the money. Mr. Farnsworth afterwards found his money in a different place, he claims. He thereupon went to Rev. Luther with an apology. The reverend denied the charge, and the matter was referred in the county clerk's office, so that if the charges ever came before the conference against him he could vindicate himself of the charges by the retractions of Mr. Luther. Mr. Luther then, to vindicate himself to the public, commenced suit for slander, alleging his character to be damaged to the tune of $5,000 by each gentleman. Luther formerly preached at Craig and all the brethren speak in the highest terms of his honesty and his character as a christian gentleman. Mr. Farnsworth and Luther are two of Burt county's most respected men and are well-to-do farmers.

A Liquor Case.

GENEVA, Neb., June 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The following case which has caused a great deal of comment in this community, and which has just been decided at the May term of district court in Fillmore county, will, I think, be of great interest to your readers. One Arlington Walrath some months ago had several of his old friends at his house to drink beer. After waiting months, and hard feeling having originated between the parties, Walrath was arrested for serving a liquor license. He was taken to the district court. At the court Walrath was represented by F. B. Donisthorpe, of this place, an attorney of well known ability, through whose management and presentation of the case the court made the following decision: "That defendant gave the liquor to the parties as alleged in the information, but without in any way being intended as a sale; or for gain in any manner whatever, and under section 11 of chapter 50 the court finds as a matter of law that the section only refers to the giving away of liquor for the purpose of evading the license required by law and for some gain. Therefore the defendant is not liable for the charge, and no fine under section 11 and defendant is discharged." Upon the discharge of the accused, the court house being full, loud demonstrations of approval were made, and the probals were very much dissatisfied, wanting blood.

West Point Commencement.

WEST POINT, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—With the 12:25 train Governor John Thayer arrived in West Point and received a hearty welcome at the hands of the faculty and the students. The exercises of the occasion. The large auditorium was literally jammed. The class of 1888 consisted of eleven members, and is the largest one ever turned out by our schools. There Mattie Marshall, Lida Hamilton, Eva Lewis, and several others. The exercises were held at the opera house and our citizens only realized what a genial and large hearted gentleman this great state had at its head when they had the privilege of shaking the governor's hand. The second and third years of our exercises of our city schools began at 8 p. m. and were largely attended. The graduating class consisted of five of West Point's bright young ladies and Mr. John P. Neigh. The orators were good and well delivered. They gave evidence of the efficacy of the instructor, Prof. D. S. Dusenberry. These addresses were interspersed with musical numbers of a vocal cornet band and some of our city's best vocal talent. Governor John M. Thayer then favored the audience with one of his best addresses. He spoke of the importance of education. Following the governor's address came the presentation of diplomas to the members of the graduating class by Mr. Thayer. His address was a most impressive one. The exercises closed with a song by the class and a benediction by Rev. J. C. Jacoby.

Outraged by a Tramp.

HEMLOCK, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—This city was thrown into a fever of excitement last evening by the report that the beautiful eighteen-year-old daughter of H. S. Belden, one of Grant county's most respected farmers, had been raped and ruined by a tramp. The BEEL reporter hastened to the scene and learned the following horrible story: It seems that the young lady took her pony and rode about two miles from her father's house to the Nemaha river for the purpose of picking gooseberries. She tied her pony and commenced to pick when she was approached by a tramp, who seized her and made the dastardly attempt, in which he finally succeeded by knocking her senseless. When she recovered consciousness the villain had fled up to date has not been captured, although bodies of armed men are scouring the country. The poor girl fought bravely, but the brute force of the villain overcame her. She is in a very precarious condition and it is feared her life will be forfeit. A reward of $250 is offered for the apprehension of the rascal. He is described as about five feet ten inches high, dark complexion, with a scar on the right cheek that is very noticeable.

New Street Railways.

HASTINGS, July 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The street railway company began operations yesterday with a large force of men on the corner of Dexter avenue and Fifth street to build a new line of street railway. The line will be constructed about half mile to the waterworks and south through the city to the Missouri Pacific railway depot. Connection will also be made via First and Second streets with the Burlington street railway. The plans laid out by the company contemplate the construction of about three miles of street car lines this summer. In addition to nearly fifteen miles now in successful operation, this will give Hastings a large system of street railways, reaching all parts of the city.

Severe Storm.

FRANKLIN, Neb., June 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—A severe thunder storm visited Franklin this morning, accompanied by heavy rain. The house of Mr. F. L. Bing

WAS STRUCK AND BADLY DEMOLISHED.

The house stands with its end to the east and an L for a kitchen on the south side. The lightning passed directly through the kitchen and followed the main wall of the main building, tearing off a considerable portion of the roof, and hurling a screen door out into the front yard. The shock occurred at 4:30 in the morning. Six persons were sleeping in the house but no one received a slightest injury, although the beds were covered with shattered plastering from the demolished walls. The building did not take fire.

Smothered in a Corn Bin.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—This morning about half-past 10 o'clock Wesley Davis, a boy aged about twelve years, was smothered to death with about 1,000 bushels of corn on top of his body. He fell off a plank into a bin filled with shelled corn. The chute at the bottom was opened by workmen unaware of his whereabouts and he was carried downward to the chute where his body lodged, stopping the passage of the grain. His father, who visited the elevator, noticed the smothering, and was wrong and investigating found his son underneath the immense weight of grain. His mouth and nostrils were filled with it, and he died nearly suffocated. All his efforts proved futile to revive him. The funeral services will occur Sunday morning.

A Man Dies of Glanders.

LONG PINE, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—William George, of Springview, Neb., a hotel man, owned a very fine blooded trotting horse that was shot on the 6th by the state veterinary surgeon on account of having the glanders, and yesterday Mr. George died from the same disease. He had been riding the horse while taking care of his horse. He did not know the horse had the glanders and it soothed, throwing the pus all over his face, and every place it touched he suffered. He suffered untold agony for two weeks and did not know what was the matter himself. None of the local doctors could tell him until the state veterinarian told him of it on the 6th of this month.

Fatal Fall From a Bridge.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The first serious and probably fatal accident during the construction of the B. & M. bridge here occurred to-day. While at work on the top trestle Orange Howard, a carpenter, lost his balance and fell to the ground, a distance of fifty feet. In falling he struck a cross beam and the braces of the trestle, somewhat breaking the force of the fall. His left arm was broken in two places. He also sustained a fracture of the right thigh and a slight leg is broken twice. The physicians think he cannot recover.

Not the Man.

FRIEND, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—There has been considerable excitement in regard to a notice that appeared Tuesday about a man being killed at Kearney, Neb., by the name of Michael Schmidt, who it is claimed, was the brother of our townsman Joseph Geis. The Schmidt referred to is another Michael Schmidt and not Mr. Geis' brother-in-law. The man who was killed was a German, and his friends are worth a thousand dollar man yet. He is but twenty-one years old and instead of leaving a mother and sisters as is rumored can be seen any time.

The Third City.

HASTINGS, Neb., June 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The claim of Hastings as being the third largest city in the state is again firmly established by the result obtained in the compilation just completed for a new city directory. The number of names taken, excluding firm names and duplicates, is 4,413, and by using the low multiple of 3, the actual population is ascertained to be 13,239. This population is not only a record for the city of Nebraska, but also a record for any city of the same size in the state. The city of Hastings enjoys a steady growth in population and wealth, and maintains its proud position among the cities of the state.

Commencement at Fremont.

FREMONT, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The ninth annual commencement of the Fremont high school took place last evening, the exercises being held in the Congregational church on the corner of 10th and 11th streets. The exercises were held at the opera house and our citizens only realized what a genial and large hearted gentleman this great state had at its head when they had the privilege of shaking the governor's hand. The second and third years of our exercises of our city schools began at 8 p. m. and were largely attended. The graduating class consisted of five of West Point's bright young ladies and Mr. John P. Items From Fullerton.

FULLERTON, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The prohibitionists held quite an enthusiastic ratification meeting at the Methodist church in Fullerton last night. The Methodists have been holding a district conference here during the past week. It was well attended, nearly every minister in the district being present. The democrats of Nance county have at last established a paper. It will make its appearance in a few days under the name of the Fullerton Post.

Hog Thieves Sentenced.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—Perry Summers and Charles Budd, the hog thieves, were sentenced to the penitentiary this morning, the former for three, and the latter for four years. They have been confined in the jail here several months, during which time they have worked in the penitentiary, and have been digging out, and twice setting fire to the jail.

Commencement at Nebraska City.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—The commencement exercises of the Nebraska City high school were held at the opera house to-night. There were no members of the class, all of whom were not in the exercises, which were highly successful.

Burglary at Nebraska City.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—F. E. Gerhardt's residence was robbed last night, the thieves securing only $17 in cash. It was probably the work of town thieves, as valuable jewelry was left undisturbed.

A Telephone Fight.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—The Bell Telephone company threatens to quit business in St. Louis owing to the recent ordinance passed reducing the annual rental of telephones from $100 to $50. Already they have taken steps to have all their own way at the expense of the public. The city council has refused to follow the ordinance, and they will go out of business, are preparing to resist the removal of the wires and poles, and they received the right to establish the service in this fall. Correspondents Call on Thurman.

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—By invitation of Editor Holden of the Cleveland Plaindealer, the Washington correspondent stopped over in Columbus this morning to call on Judge Thurman, after which they dined at the Neil house. They were escorted in open carriages by a band and the Thurman club through the principal streets of the city to the judge's residence. As his house was undergoing repairs the reception was held in the home of his son adjoining. Three of the judge's grandsons were celebrating in the yard with a red tablecloth, tacked to a clothes pole, when the ex-senator walked slowly up the porch and in a few moments was shaking hands with his guests. From reports at St. Louis it is believed that the judge is at least a bent and bowed-down old man. While Thurman is not strong on his legs, owing to the effects of rheumatism, his form is remarkably erect, his mind as clear, his mind as active and his voice as strong as when he led the hosts of democracy in the senate. His beard and hair are whiter and his face more lined than when he was in the senate, but all the evidences of age discernible. His speech in reply to the remarks of the Ohio delegation, when he was in the senate, was in the happiest vein. His request that the correspondents should compare his vigor with that of John L. Sullivan, and write just before he left for Cleveland, was very greatly appreciated. Judge Thurman's appearance belies the reports of decrepitude, and he is threatening to take the stump and do some staid work on behalf of the ticket.

Thurman to the Ohio Men.

COLUMBUS, June 8.—The Brice train carrying the Ohio delegation on its return from St. Louis arrived here this afternoon. The delegation marched to the residence of Judge Thurman. After three cheers for Cleveland and Thurman, Judge Thurman spoke as follows: "I understand that many people say I am too old to run for vice-president. Why, I feel about ten years younger at the least calculation. You know, gentlemen of the Ohio delegation, that when you were kind enough to call on me before you went to St. Louis, I told you I did not want the nomination. Gentlemen, I do not undertake to speak in this hurry or without having done wisely or not, but I do speak for myself and say that you have done fairly and honorably. I am glad to hear that you have done so, and whether I shall be successful or not, there is one thing of which I cannot be deprived, and that is the gratification of having done my duty for the people of my state and of the United States. There scarcely ever happened in the history of the world a sublimer spectacle than the renomination of Grover Cleveland by the unanimous voice of the convention. The people of the United States have chosen a man, a Cleveland, a brave man; they love an honest man; they love a man who is an honest man; they love a man of good sound judgment, and I do not know of any man of sound judgment that they love a man who stands up for the people and for principle, and does not fear to take the consequences, and such a man is Grover Cleveland. Now, I thank you and will bid you good night."

A Flower That Blooms With Joy.

CINCINNATI, June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—Russell P. Flower, Chairman Barnum and Patrick Kelly were resting themselves at the Pacific to-day on their return from St. Louis. To a reporter who called Mr. Flower was very affable. "The nomination of Allen G. Thurman," he said, "is the strongest that could possibly have been made. The election of the Ohio delegation will silence every man in the democratic party that has had the slightest grievance against the administration of Grover Cleveland. No ticket of the republicans can possibly put in a new deaf tariff reform. Cleveland's vote in New York will be increased and Thurman will bring to the ticket the soundest democracy. The Pacific coast is particularly grateful to Thurman for his stand on the Chinese question, and will surely give him a solid majority."

Just So! Mr. Curtis.

NEW YORK, June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—George William Curtis, president of the National Civil Service Reform League, said: "The object of the convention is to secure the reform of the civil service. How will the civil service reform league regard the platform?" "It was exactly what was to have been expected. The president in his message, which is virtually the platform, omitted all allusion to reform. The silence of the platform was what the subject of civil service reform can therefore be no surprise to the friends of civil service reform." "The civil service reform league supports Mr. Cleveland?" "Undoubtedly some of them will oppose him on the ground that to vote for him is to vote for their judgment. The nomination of his course upon the subject. Others, however, who hold that with whatever drawbacks and disappointments the cause of civil service reform is advanced under Cleveland, and those who are strongly interested in tariff reform will undoubtedly support him warmly as the best practical alternative."

A Candid Opinion.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—Governor Gray said that he was not at all surprised that Thurman was nominated. He had known for two days that such a result was inevitable. He did not feel badly over it. He knew that he would have been nominated without content had it not been for the Thurman boom springing up. He was now prepared to work like a beaver for the ticket, Cleveland and Thurman, and had every hope of success for it in the event of a fall, even should Thurman's name added strength to the ticket.

An Old Rascal.

NEW ORLEANS, June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—Peter McCartney, the celebrated fourth cornerer, finished a fifteen year term at Missouri City (La.) penitentiary four months ago and said on his release that he was going to his Illinois farm and lead a respectable life the rest of his days. Two months ago he was arrested here for passing some very splendid counterfeiters. The result was a fine of $5,000, imprisonment, hard labor and a fine of $5,000. McCartney is over sixty years of age now.

He favored the picked nine and the result was the score above given.

Milwaukee 3, Chicago 2.

CHICAGO, June 8.—[Special Telegram to THE BEEL.]—To-day's game was fought hard, but it should have been won by the Maroons. They were much better players, and had judgment in the chief reason for the defeat. The Milwaukee did all they could and the Maroons did not do all they might have done. Chance after chance to
