

ABOUT THE STATE'S REALTY.

Interesting Facts Concerning Public Lands and Buildings.

NEBRASKA'S AMATEUR SOLDIERS

A So-called Pet Lacerates the Anatomy of a Lincoln Citizen—Capital City News Notes.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE, 1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, July 31.

The routine work of the office of commission of public lands and buildings is not without interest. Since the establishment of the office in 1877, 2,000 deeds of school bonds have been made, about one-third of which were issued on lots and the balance for bodies of land ranging from 40 to 640 acres each, and thus passed from the ownership of the state to individual ownership, aggregating at least 100,000 acres.

THE MILITIA EXERCISES.

Recent Malitia of Kearney, was in Lincoln to-day at the instance of the board of trade of that city. The veterans of the state were in camp there during the month of September and Mr. Malitia was here to offer the state militia inducements to join them, and remain in camp with them during that month.

AN EXPENSIVE PET.

Milton Shipman, by his attorney, to-day filed his petition in the district court of Lancaster county, alleging that Manger Bros. had before the 4th of March kept an untamed wolf tied in front of their place of business on P street, between Ninth and Tenth streets, and that the said wolf was wild, vicious and dangerous to the public.

STILL CHEERFUL AT WORK.

The state board of equalization continues its work from day to day. Owing to a careful showing, yesterday obtained a substantial reduction. Just how much, however, is not stated. The board, in the matter of tax reductions, has evidenced a fair spirit, and it is reasonable to suppose that the taxable valuation of some counties will be reduced.

HOUSING BONDS.

Twenty-one sets of school bonds passed through the hands of the auditor and secretary of state to-day. They were registered. They came from the counties of Adams, Kearney, Colfax, Gage, Hamilton, Butler, Wayne, Cheyenne, Holt, Custer, Franklin, Cuming, Furness, Sherman, Gosper, Sheridan, Harlan and Nempe and aggregate $15,285, which will be put into new school houses.

CITY NEWS AND NOTES.

Like the Light Weights.

Of the profession, pugilists, the kidneys are small, but active. The blood is thin, and the secretion contains impurities productive of rheumatism, gout and dropsy, if allowed to remain. When they are inactive the blood becomes choked with animal debris capable of destroying life.

TEN DOLLARS REWARD.

The Magnificent Sum Offered by a Boston Citizen for the Capture of Frederick Ziegler, who resides on a small farm six miles west of Florence, came into teen-year-old daughter, Cora. Ziegler said the girl had run away from home Saturday night, and he has been unable to learn anything of her whereabouts. The father said he thought that his daughter was denuded; that for weeks she had been acting strangely and seemed to be oppressed with the fear that somebody was after her to harm her. She is but a green country girl, has never been in the city in her life, and he fears that if she came here, serious harm has befallen her. While coming to town yesterday he was informed at Fort Omaha that a young girl answering the description of his daughter was seen Sunday night walking along the road toward Omaha.

"It almost kills me," said Ziegler, "this uncertainty, and I'll give $10 for the return of my child."

A FAITHLESS HUSBAND.

Jennie Kyle Asks For a Divorce From Her Sister's Lover.

The facts connected with the Kyle scandal have already been published in The Bee. The last chapter but one was written this morning and read after it had been filed in the district court. Jennie H. Kyle filed an application for a divorce from her husband, Charles W. Kyle, on the ground of adultery with Ellen Louise Hart, alias Mrs. Miller. The application states that the plaintiff and defendant were married the 21st of September, 1884, in York, York county, Neb.; that in February, 1887, the defendant cohabited with Ellen Louise Hart in Council Bluffs, and that from February until May, 1887, he was with her in a cottage at the corner of Twelfth and Vinton streets in this city; that from May 25, 1887, until June 25, he was with her at the Barker hotel, where she resided under the name of Watson; and that since June 25 they have occupied rooms in the Lower block on Tenth street. She asks that the court allow her alimony and the custody of their child, Fred Lee Gordon Kyle, aged three years, who is now in Denver. Mrs. Kyle has also served notice on her husband that she will have the deposition of her sister Ellen Louise Hart, who is his paramour, taken in this case.

Inherited Diseases.

In the realm of disease the facts of inheritance are most numerous and are daily accumulating. Here, alas, they become terrible, fatal and overwhelming. No fact of nature is more pregnant with calamity than the fact of the inheritance of disease. It meets the physician on his daily rounds, paralyzing his art and filling him with dismay. The legend of the ancient Greeks pictures the Furies as pursuing families from generation to generation, rendering them desolate. The Furies still ply their work of terror and death, but they are not now clothed in the garb of superstition, but appear in the more intelligible but no less awful form of hereditary disease. Modern science, which has illuminated so many dark corners of nature, has shed a new light on the ominous words of the Sophocles, "The acts of fathers shall be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation." Instances of hereditary disease abound. Fifty per cent. of cases of consumption, that is, of tuberculosis of the lungs, of cancer and scrofula, run in families through inheritance. Insanity is hereditary in a marked degree, but, fortunately, many other hereditary diseases tend to wear itself out, the stock becoming extinct. A distinguished scientist truly says: "No organ or tissue of the body is exempt from the chance of being the subject of hereditary disease." Probably more chronic disease, which permanently modifies the structure and functions of the body, are more or less liable to be inherited. The important and far-reaching practical deductions from such facts—advice so powerfully the happiness of individuals and families and the welfare of the nation—are obvious to reflecting minds, and the last means for preventing or curing these diseases is a subject of intense interest to all. Fortunately nature has provided a remedy, which experience has attested as infallible, and the remedy is the world-famous Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. A pure vegetable compound—nature's antidote for all blood poisons. To the afflicted it is a blessing of inestimable value.
