Peerless Refrigerators

The Peerless Refrigerators are made of oak, antique finish, mineral fibre filling. They are made open to allow a perfect circulation of dry cold air. The construction of the upper horizontal flue is such that it can be opened or closed at any time. This is an important new device not employed in any other refrigerator, and is patented. The space between the outer and inner cases is filled closely with a mineral fibre which is superior for its purpose to anything ever before used. Other makers use saw-dust or charcoal as a filling or leave the space empty. The saw-dust will rot and decay, the charcoal will settle and leave blank spaces here and there. The mineral fibre in the Peerless will never settle or shake out; it is colorless, odorless and indestructible by heat or cold; it warms or cools cannot exist in it; as a non-conductor of heat it is double that of charcoal and greater than that of any known substance. The Peerless is the only refrigerator using mineral fibre filling, giving you the best refrigerator made in the world for the least money.
