

THE DAILY BEE.

E. ROSEWATER, EDITOR. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily Bee (without Sunday) One Year, $8.00; Daily and Sunday, One Year, $10.00; Six Months, $5.00; Three Months, $3.00; Sunday Bee One Year, $3.00; Weekly Bee, One Year, $1.00.

OFFICES: Omaha, The Bee Building, South Omaha, corner N and 24th Streets. Council Bluffs, 12 Pearl Street. Chicago Office, 25 Exchange, Commerce. New York, Rooms 14, 15 and 16, Tribune Building, Washington, 35 Fourteenth Street.

CORRESPONDENCE: All communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed to the Editor of the Bee.

BUSINESS LETTERS: All business letters and remittances should be addressed to The Bee Publishing Company, Omaha, Nebraska, and should be made payable to the order of the company.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietors THE BEE BUILDING.

SWORN STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION.

State of Nebraska, ss. County of Douglas, ss. George H. Tschickler, secretary of The Bee Publishing Company, being duly sworn, deposes and says that the actual circulation of The Daily Bee for the week ending September 29, 1891, was as follows: Sunday, 28,925 copies; Monday, 29,179 copies; Tuesday, 29,179 copies; Wednesday, 29,179 copies; Thursday, 29,179 copies; Friday, 29,179 copies; Saturday, 29,179 copies.

Average, 28,177. Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 30th day of September, 1891. Notary Public.

FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

In order to give every reader in this state and Iowa an opportunity to keep posted on the progress of the campaign in both those states we have decided to offer THE WEEKLY BEE for the balance of this year, for twenty-five cents, sent in your order only. Two dollars will be accepted for a club of ten names. THE BEE PUBLISHING CO., Omaha, Neb.

ON THE honest dollar proposition the republican party is a unit. MR. O. H. BALLOU manages to keep out of the way of the council furniture contract investigation with surprising skill.

A MID-OCTOBER jubilee with fireworks and merry will simply emphasize the humiliation of the defeat which will follow in the first week in November. A SINGLE conviction of selling liquor without license within the two mile limit will force every saloonkeeper within the belt to comply with the law or quit business.

MR. MAHONEY's partner has secured the demerit of nomination by district judge yet Mr. Mahoney's partner was not long since a republican and very recently an independent. Is he now really a democrat?

SECRETARY PROCTOR has approved the new tactics for the army. This fact is made the more interesting by the information that it was a New York militia officer and not one of the regular army who invented them.

By the time the democratic national convention meets next year the bourbon party will be wholly at sea on the silver question. Thus far no two democratic state conventions have expressed the same views upon the money problem.

JUDGING from the names selected by the democratic judicial district convention for the judicial ticket in this district Allen Root's remark that the independents are short of judicial timber might also apply to the democratic party.

GOVERNOR RUSSELL of Massachusetts has been nominated by the democrats. The governor will discover by the time the election returns are in that he has a very different light on hands this time from that of 1889. The republicans of the Bay state are a unit and this is a republican off year.

OMAHA'S exposition opens tonight. There has been very little said about this enterprise, but the managers have gone on quietly preparing for the occasion and the Coliseum building is well worth visiting. The space for exhibits is all taken, and the show is a genuine success. Every citizen of Omaha should give the managers the encouragement of visiting the exposition.

SNYDER'S dynamite projectile has just been tested in Wales and has proved that war with such an engine of destruction is well nigh out of the question. It is an annihilator invented by an American and if it strikes a man-of-war or an armored cruiser there will be nothing and nobody to record the result. If it should throw a shell into the midst of an army it would simply blow the army to pieces. If it should be adopted by all the nations of the earth war will cease for the very good reason that war will mean an absolute destruction to all who engage in it.

NOMINATE GOOD MEN.

The coming election is one of vast importance to Nebraska and Omaha and especially to the republicans of the state and city. It will in all probability determine whether the business integrity of the state shall be maintained or relinquished and traduced by men in high official position. Already we have experienced the evils of a want of confidence in the withdrawal of capital from this state and if our people are foolish enough to perpetuate the crowd of howlers who were recently thrown by a political convulsion into prominence, they will inflict lasting injury upon our business interests. If the independents elect their candidates for associate justice of the supreme court and district judges, we shall discover when it is too late that eastern capital will hesitate a long time before it will take the chances of a system of courts some of whose officers have distinctly declared themselves in favor of repudiation of honest debts. The business men and agricultural farmers of Nebraska cannot afford to follow an ignominious fate which is certain to lead them into the quagmire of financial distress.

We have named a good state ticket, one that should command the unqualified support of every honest man in Nebraska. Judge Post is honorable, competent, experienced and will be a credit to the supreme bench. He is conservative, but fair to all interests. His opponent of the candidacy party is a man having neither the natural nor acquired ability to preside over so important a tribunal. He has been a failure as a lawyer and is absolutely without experience or training for any important judicial position.

With this condition before the republicans of Douglas county the field is clear for the election of republican candidates for all the offices to be voted on at the coming election. The state ticket is strong and will help the local tickets, provided, of course, the local tickets are equally unassailable. They must be made so. We cannot afford to name any hummers, disreputables or weaklings for county or city offices this fall. Every man who is given a nomination should be selected because he will strengthen the entire ticket from justice of the supreme court to city justice.

We want the city and county redeemed from democratic misrule and we want to help carry Nebraska for the republican party so as to be in position to hold the state steady and true to the republican nominee for the presidency in 1892. To this end THE BEE urges every earnest republican in Omaha to participate in all the preliminary work of caucuses and primaries, so that when the conventions meet the representative business republicans will be in the majority and there will be but one sentiment, and that is the caption of this article: Nominate good men.

THE MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRATS.

The renomination of Governor Russell by the democrats of Massachusetts was a foregone conclusion, and undoubtedly they could have no safer or more popular leader. The governor made three races for the office of chief executive before he won it, his election last year being by a plurality of about 9,000. The republicans electing all other candidates on their state ticket except one. The way in which his party has adhered to him evinces the strong hold that Governor Russell has upon its respect and confidence, and he is unquestionably worthy of it. Among the younger political leaders of the country he ranks well for ability, and he has made a creditable record in public life. But he will not be re-elected, because the conditions which contributed to his success last year are not now operative. Massachusetts was not so much affected by the landslide of 1890 as most of the other states, but the influences then at work were strong enough there to reduce the republican vote about 50,000. This year, it is reasonably to be expected, the full vote will be cast, and in that case the republicans will carry the state by a generous plurality. There is no evidence of any serious disaffection in the party, and if it continues united and harmonious it will elect its ticket.

The attitude of the democrats of Massachusetts on the silver question is clear and unequivocal, and is even a more direct rebuke of the southern and western wings of the party than that administered by the democracy of New York. It opposes the free and unlimited coinage of silver, declares that all dollars coined by the government should be of equal intrinsic value, and that all paper currency issued should be redeemed in either gold or silver. Indeed, so hostile is the democracy of Massachusetts to silver inflation that the platform of the party attacks the existing law as dangerous, and it was also condemned by the permanent chairman of the convention. A curious feature of the platform of the democratic party regarding civil service reform is the arrangement of the national administration for not having made appointments in the census bureau subject to the civil service law. Of course there is a demand for the repeal of the tariff law and for the enactment of a reform measure, but it is not clearly indicated what the party desires, an omission quite common to democratic platform utterances regarding the tariff.

Massachusetts has elected two democratic governors in thirty years. It is not at all probable that she will choose one this year.

A GOOD secretary of the Manufacturers and Consumers' association can make that organization a power in the business world of Omaha.

A WITNESS on the stand should always be protected from the insults of cross-examiners whether in court or before a council committee.

AS THE investigation by the council proceeds the necessity of a session of the grand jury becomes more apparent.

THE investigation will clear up the atmosphere if it does nothing more. BOODLERS must be exposed, disgraced, convicted and punished. WHERE there is so much smoke reform in the United States that shall be as free from causes of complaint as the system in England. At any rate no American citizen would care to admit that this country is incapable of emulating English excellence in this matter, or that it is less practicable to effectively carry out such a reform under republican than under monarchical institutions. It may be admitted that there are reasons why the process of extending the reform should be slower here, but whatever results have been attained in England ought to be ultimately reached here, if popular sentiment continues to sustain the policy.

It is pleasing to find the annual address to the reform league acknowledging that President Harrison's selection of civil service commissioners was in strict conformity to the spirit of the platform upon which he was elected and to his own professions and pledges as a candidate, but the value of this acknowledgment is greatly reduced by the subsequent attack on the administration for permitting the decapitation of so many democratic postmasters. What is remarkable in this connection is that the reformers appear to attach no importance to the great improvement that has taken place in the postal service, due in no small degree to the more intelligent and efficient manner put into the service under the present administration. The most serious complaint, however, is with reference to the refusal of the president to extend the reform system to appointments under the census bureau, and this is made to justify an attack on the accuracy and trustworthiness of the census which suggests a desire on the part of the special committee of the league to furnish the democratic party with ammunition.

The complaints of the reform league are really not very serious or important, while its admissions of the progress that has been made ought to satisfy every reasonable man who understands the difficulties which have been in the way of advancing the reform. The present administration merits the heartiest commendation for what it has done in the extension of the reform and in giving the policy a stronger claim to popular favor and support. It can justly be said that in no other respect has President Harrison been more faithful to his own and his party's pledges.

NOTWITHSTANDING the financial stringency which has retarded industrial development in every section of the country, the statistics of new enterprises in the south during the third quarter of the present year show a very gratifying progress. The number of new industries established during the past three months is stated to have been one thousand, which is but little less than for the corresponding quarter of last year and considerably larger than for the same period of 1889. The industries established embrace a great variety of enterprises, and perhaps the most remarkable fact in connection with these statistics is the statement that 126 railroad companies have been organized, promising an extraordinary development of the transportation interests in the near future and also indicating the faith of capital in the growth of the business of the south. Perhaps the most gratifying feature in the industrial development is the establishment of machine shops and foundries. In view of the rapid industrial progress of that section it would seem inevitable that the domination of the party of free trade cannot be much longer maintained.

A QUESTION has been raised in Oklahoma regarding the right of the government to enforce the attendance of Indian children at schools, which promises to be a serious obstacle in the way of educating Indian youth. The last congress gave the Indian department authority to compel the children of Indians to attend school. Under this law a boy was placed in Chilocco school near Arkansas City. The father of the boy instituted habeas corpus proceedings and the court held that the detention of the boy against the will of his parents was illegal. The Indian office proposes to make a trial case of this in the hope that the higher courts may sustain the congressional act. For the sake of the Indians it is hoped that the Indian office is right and the Oklahoma judge wrong.

ALL the independent nominees for county offices in Dakota county except the county commissioner, have hitherto been rampant, red hot democrats. Dakota county may be regarded as a vindication of Congressman Bryan's theory that the democrats and independents are twin-sisters.

MR. SHOEMAKER was not so conspicuous on the Monday night investigation as in that of Saturday night. The assistant city attorney can take a hint when it is accompanied by a vigorous kick.

PRICES range from $200 to $1,500 for votes in the city council according to the testimony of witnesses more or less competent in the furniture contract investigation.

F. F. MORHARTY, councilman at large, resident of the Seventh ward, figuratively speaking, occupies the front seat in the furniture contract scandal and the investigation.

THE new medical law has not thus far accomplished any good. It has merely embarrassed a few physicians who had incurred enmities among their brethren.

A GOOD secretary of the Manufacturers and Consumers' association can make that organization a power in the business world of Omaha.

A WITNESS on the stand should always be protected from the insults of cross-examiners whether in court or before a council committee.

AS THE investigation by the council proceeds the necessity of a session of the grand jury becomes more apparent.

THE investigation will clear up the atmosphere if it does nothing more. BOODLERS must be exposed, disgraced, convicted and punished. WHERE there is so much smoke proper inspection is likely to reveal smouldering fire.

OPEN your doors to the press and the public or go in of business entirely, gentlemen of the State Board of Health.

TITUS far M.E. Specht is having things his own way in the furniture contract scandal investigation.

SOME people hereabouts are very much afraid of a grand jury.

Building Possibilities. It will be well enough to keep an eye on the Ohio road. There may be a dark complexioned presidential candidate in the heap.

Republican Crop Year. Wheat is pretty near all harvested and corn is out of danger. Thus the last hope that the democrats had for victory this year has been crushed.

A Three-Bait Black Eye. The Omaha platform got a black eye in the Georgia legislature Wednesday, the resolutions of indorsement being defeated by a vote of 51 to 63. The alliance men of that state draw the line on the sub-treasury and land-laundering.

Gross Erosy. The democratic convention in Nebraska was guilty of the grossest heresy in thanking God for the bountiful harvest. The McKinley law is the cause of our prosperity, and gratitude, if nothing else, should lead the people to make the proper acknowledgment.

Gets There Just the Same. Among the curiosities of credulity is the belief that the person calling himself "Frank Mebourne" can shut himself up in a shed with a hole in the roof and do something inside to make it rain. A great many people are so glibly credulous about such things as they were about witchcraft 300 years ago.

A Triangular Contest. Nebraska is to hold an interesting election this fall, with three parties in the field supposed to have almost equal strength. Nobody pretends to guess what the result will be, except in a bluffing way. There may be great changes in the relative strength of the parties since the last election, but they cannot be foretold with any certainty, hence the campaign is sure to be exciting and interesting.

Financial Sense. The silver dollar, which is intrinsically worth only about 75 cents, is able to buy 100 cents worth of commodities, or services, because the gold dollar which stands behind it adds the extra 25 cents to purchasing power. However, this is not a good thing to coin so many of these silver dollars that the existing stock of gold would not be able to hold them up to the 100-cent mark, in which case the 25 cents of fictitious value would vanish and the clipped dollars and their paper substitutes would drop to 75 cents and a few shillings of idiosyncrasy and villainy the republican party is stoutly opposing.

Credulous Philanthropists. Ex-Senator Saunders of Nebraska, who is a member of the National Utah commission, says that it will state in its forthcoming report that "polygamy is gradually dying out in the territory" and that "the Mormons are becoming convinced that they cannot sustain their peculiar and distinctive religious tenet against the adverse sentiment of the whole country."

The City Hall Furniture Deal. The ungrateful and treacherous act of the city council in contracting with the Ketcham Furniture company of Toledo, O., to supply the furniture to equip the city hall has created the wholesale indignation of thousands of Omaha residents, more especially has the resolve of the trades union people been aroused to demand that the city council should rescind its resolution to resort to strenuous work, if it becomes necessary to have Omaha furniture dealers consummate this sale. When considering the fact that our home dealers submitted the lowest bid, it leads to no astonishment to know that the workmen declare they will not accept of any furniture with the help of many others, an undertaking to have the benefit given to those who are justly entitled to it.

We call an immediate halt to this "red tape" scheme, and urge every true lover of home industry to combine with their fellow-workers in the struggle for that which is honorable and just.

The resolution offered by the workmen to the members of the city council is fair and reasonable, and should such a deserving and sincere request be ignored instead of granted, there is one thing positive, and that is, the workmen will not accept of any furniture in endeavoring to further this nefarious plan will attach a "million" to its neck which will sink him into oblivion. The most extreme efforts to go contrary to the wish of the majority will certainly be thwarted.

able strangle well calculated to put the form permanently out of shape. The republican considering the execrable circumstances should have been more merciful, and stopped when they snatched to the bone.

Nobler Pioneer: The low methods of politics were fully displayed by the Cobb and Taylor forces at Lincoln. But the better element of the republican party stood out against this cob-pipe brigade and finally nominated Judge Post of Columbus, who has been district judge of his district for the past eleven years. It is a good, clear nomination.

Premont Tribune: The World-Herald undertakes to prove that Post was nominated by the railroads. It reminds us of the boy's essay on pins. He said that pins had saved the lives of thousands and thousands of people. Being asked how, by his teacher, he said "by not swallowing them." The railroads nominated Post because they did not and could not prevent it.

The fellow who said that there would be a split in the ranks of the republican party in the state when they came to hold their conventions come almost as near hitting the truth as the average weather prophet comes to forecasting the weather. The solid phalanx of the republican party will stand firm against the enemies of the same is already striking terror to the hearts of its traitors.

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

Chicago Tribune: "How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this street?" "I don't know," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village, "but I have heard that the street is to be paved with asphalt." "I am president of the town board, sir."

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, 511 FORTNEY STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 29.—At its meeting today the cabinet discussed the surroundings of the United States legation at Santiago, Chili. The president explained what had been done after the conference of diplomatic and naval officers yesterday, which being thoroughly arranged in the direct line of the general policy of this administration, the cabinet unhesitatingly approved and the president was practically requested to take whatever action he and the State department officials may deem best, without further cabinet consultation. The situation remains unchanged. It is not known what effect the instructions to Minister Egan, if they have been conveyed to the Chilean authorities, relative to the removal of the menacing police cord on about the United States legation headquarters, will be believed the restriction thrown about the legation will go removed and that the friction will end.

Last night's advice on this subject have been corroborated in every material point. The instructions which were sent to the commanders of the men-of-war, Baltimore and San Francisco, did not contemplate the immediate course which the readiness to report at Santiago if so ordered. The instructions were, to all intents and purposes, absolutely correct. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to send any of the marines to the capital of Chili for the protection of American citizens or any other respect before leaving and after taking the harbor of Valparaiso will be a sufficient earnest of the government's intention to respect the rights of the Chilean people, which probably been made by Minister Egan for the removal of armed forces about the legation, that all may have for the future, with the diplomatic and commercial representatives.

Mr. E. Rosewater, editor of THE BEE, who left for Chicago at 11 o'clock this morning and who is to arrive in Omaha on Thursday morning, before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Major Pollock, the superintendent of the free delivery service, Postoffice department, said today that the Omaha postoffice would be allowed no additional copies of the old practice of counting the number of pieces of mail received and forwarded has been abolished the carrier can accomplish much more work than formerly.

A. J. Scheib was today appointed postmaster at Nashville, Jackson county, Ia., where he has been for two years. F. L. Dickey of Dubuque, Ia., is at the Arlington. Otto Stroos of Omaha is at the Howard. The postoffice of Anna Sheridan, Iowa, has been abolished. Mail will be sent to Hay Springs.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

It was stated this afternoon to THE BEE correspondents by the highest possible authority on the subject that no change in the quartermaster generalship at Omaha was contemplated before leaving and after taking on the subject with President Harrison, that the prospects were very bright for the appointment of Edward G. M. Lamont as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission.

MUST ANSWER FOR MURDER.

Edward Hutchinson on Trial for Slaying Jennie Green. STATE'S CHIEF WITNESS DISAPPEARS. Deputy Sheriff McFarland Bostly Engaged in Hunting for Miss Lou Rice—Said to Be in Kansas.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 29.—[Special to THE BEE.] The case of the State of Nebraska vs. Edward W. Hutchinson, charged with murder, was called in the district court before Judge Field this morning, but it created little interest in the city. Hutchinson came into court leaning on the arm of his son, E. W. Hutchinson, Jr. He looked haggard and careworn, but he was, however, that he did the morning of his capture, when he sat with bowed head before the stove in police headquarters. He appeared to take but little interest in the proceedings, which thus far have been of a formal nature. His pleadings in reply to the indictment, and the work of empanelling a jury was begun.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

There are a host of witnesses already summoned on the case. The state has issued subpoenas for thirty witnesses, while the defense asks for twenty-nine. The defendant's witnesses are mostly from Lincoln county, four residing in Lancaster and four in Cass. The chief witness for the state is Miss Lou Rice, but she has not yet been subpoenaed. In fact, she has not been seen since she was formerly employed as a trimmer at the military establishment of the "Thornburn sisters" near the right bank of the Missouri in the adjoining river. Deputy Sheriff McFarland is at present in Kansas looking up her whereabouts.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report. Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE