

THE OMAHA BEE.

COUNCIL BLUFFS.

OFFICE: - NO. 12 PEARL STREET.

Delivered by Carrier in any part of the City.

B. W. TILTON, - MANAGER.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 43

Night Editor, No. 43

MINOR MENTIONS.

N. Y. P. Co.

Council Bluffs Lumber Co., coal.

Crater's chatted last night, 304 Stapp block.

Pay your water rent today and get discount.

Born - To Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Babcock, a daughter.

If you want water in your yard, have hose go to Babcock's, 302 Merriam block.

Thomas Gleicher and Lillie McDonald, both of Council Bluffs, were united in marriage yesterday by Justice Cones.

Henry Wolters and Katie Christian, both of Boomer township, Pottawattamie county, took out a license to wed yesterday.

William Kane was given thirty days in the county jail by Judge yesterday, after a morning for the juries of a horse thieft from Charles Zimberli's harness shop.

Julius Zimberli has returned from New York, where he was married recently.

Miss Ida Huber - Swisslander, Mr. and Mrs. Zimberli will reside in this city.

A party was given last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Smith, corner of Sixteenth avenue and Seventh street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Powell, who are visiting them. About eight couples were present, and the evening was spent in playing in music, dancing, and other amusements. Refreshments were served.

Judge Macy took two cases from the jury in the district court yesterday, after instructing

it to bring in a verdict in each case for the defendant, which was the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company. In the first case, Mary

Mary McAnulty was the plaintiff, the suit being brought to recover $1,950 damages on account of injuries sustained in a fall upon the Illinois & Missouri street car.

John G. Jones was the plaintiff in the second case, he having sued the company for damages for the killing of an ill dog that was run over by the cars.

25 dozen ladies' misfit kid gloves,

worth from $1.00 to $2.50, for tonight

from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

BOSTON STORE,

Fotheringham, Whitelaw & Co.

Keep Posted.

Commencing Saturday, Oct. 10,

for eight days we will inaugurate our first fall and winter sale.

We have the largest and best assorted stock we have ever had the pleasure of showing to the citizens of Council Bluffs and vicinity.

Every department in our store is complete in every respect, and conspicuous bargains in each and every one will be the feature of our eight days' fall sale.

Our coat and fur departments are the talk of all customers that pass them.

Fur trimmed garments from $5.00 to $30.00, besides all the latest novelties in coats and long coat capes.

Furs of every description in both capes and mufflers.

Martin, mink, beaver, krummer, coney, astrachan, monkey, cape seal with astrachan collar, plucked coney with mountain collar, the latest novelty in furs.

Keep posted on the date of our sale.

See daily paper for prices and further announcements.

FOTHERINGHAM, WHITELAW & CO.,

BOSTON STORE,

Council Bluffs, Iowa.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Estep left last evening for Sioux City to take in the corn plough.

C. M. Ross has returned from a visit of several months to Mobile, Ala. He will return in a few days.

Miss Jennie Ellis of Hillsdale, Mich., is in the city, the guest of her sister, Mrs. John L. Judd, on Bluff street.

H. D. Harter, of Dubuque, and A. W. Rieck

man, J. W. Perego and Harry Haworth

have come on a week's hunting trip in western Nebraska.

Dillon Ross has returned from Des Moines,

where he went to pass examination for admission to the bar of Iowa. He went through the trial and was very creditably and has returned to settle down in the practice of law with his father, L. W. Ross.

25 dozen ladies' misfit kid gloves,

worth from $1.00 to $2.50, for tonight

from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

BOSTON STORE,

Fotheringham, Whitelaw & Co.

Wanted - A girl to do general housework. Mrs. C. T. Officer, 121 South Seventh street.

Now fall goods, finest line in the city,

just received at Ketter's the tailor's, 310

Broadway.

Mandel & Klein sell furniture, carpets, cooking and heating stoves at cost to quit business.

The Rector Received.

The residence of J. T. Stewart on Bluff street was the scene of a pleasant affair last evening, in the shape of a reception tendered

Rev. E. J. Babcock and wife by their parishioners of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Mrs.

Stewart was assisted in the entertainment

by Mrs. J. N. Baldwin, Mrs. J. L.

Stewart, Mrs. D. W. Bushnell, Mrs. D. C.

Bloomer, Mrs. D. J. Kocak, Mrs. H. C. Cory.

The ladies performed their duties in the most admirable manner, and added much to the enjoyment of the evening. About 100 guests were present, representing every denomination and nearly every church in the city. Refreshments were served to all who were invited. Mrs. Stewart expressed her pleasure in the reception by the cordial reception that she had enjoyed since the arrival of Council Bluffs, and was glad of the opportunity of receiving her better acquainted with her new neighbors.

All kinds of goods stored, 22 Pearl street. Rates reasonable. J. R. Snyder.

Swanson Music Co., Masonic temple.

Frank Trimble, atty, Baldwin blk, bet 303

Broke Her Father's Heart.

Yesterday morning two men and a woman giving their names as John Murphy, Charles

Jones and Grace Kane were arrested on Second avenue near the Northwestern tracks, charged with being inmates of a house of prostitution. The girl is said to be well conscious, and her father is completely crushed

by the discovery of his daughter's disgrace.

The three were locked up in the city jail and will have a hearing in police court this morning.

A Dye Works Fraud.

The undersigned wishes to notify the public that an agent, canvassing Council

Bluffs and vicinity, as representative of the Twin City Dye works, is a fraud.

We have no solicitor out. All our work is called for or left at our works, corner

Avenue A and Twenty-sixth street, or the offices, 621 Broadway, Council

Bluffs, and 1521 Farnam, Omaha.

G. A. SCHOEDSACK,

Prop. Twin City Dye Works.

Democratic Headquarters.

The democrats have secured the building at 330 Broadway for their headquarters instead of the hall in the James building on

Pearl street, as heretofore announced, on account of a desire to be on the ground floor.

They will open their rooms to the public on Monday evening with appropriate exercises, consisting of speeches by prominent democrats of this city and vicinity.

The public is cordially invited to call at room 306, Merriam block, third floor,

and see the public things in oil paintings, crayons, pastels, fancy needlework by the Misses Laughlin. Instruction in any branch of art, 50c a lesson.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Story of an Unhappy Marriage Learned Through an Arrest.

KOPPLEKOW'S RATHER HARD LUCK.

He Incurs His Wife's Displeasure by Beating Her and Lands in Jail Under a Serious Charge.

The arrest of Joseph Koppelkom Thursday night on the charge of sodomy has led to the publishing of a story of a short but unhappy married life. Koppelkom was married last June to Miss Kossie Simons, and immediately after the marriage the couple went to housekeeping over Deerwater's second hand store on Upper Broadway. Koppelkom at the time was keeping a small fruit stand, but soon closed it out and began traveling for the "Egyptian Mystery," which held forth about a week ago on upper Broadway at the foot of Park avenue. As soon as the company reached this city Mr. and Mrs. Koppelkom commenced keeping house at the corner of Farnam and Grace streets, but from that time on they disagreed. The woman claims that her husband abused her frequently, and one day after he had administered a severe beating to her, he left for Omaha, saying he would return in a short time and take away her furniture. She decided to prevent this and so had the furniture moved to her father's house. Since then her time has been mainly occupied in keeping out of the way of her husband.

There are some who are well acquainted with the affairs of the family who insist that the story told by Mrs. Koppelkom is all made up for the purpose of placing Koppelkom in a bad light before the public. They also claim that the little boy, who is said to be the child of Koppelkom, is a party to the scheme, and that the arrest was made out of revenge. Koppelkom has always had a good reputation, while Simons, it is said, is not so fortunate.

GREAT EIGHT-DAY SALE.

At the Boston Store, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Our fall stock being now complete, we take great pleasure in announcing this our great fall sale, which will open this morning at 8 o'clock sharp. Note the prices: see Sunday papers for a fuller and more complete list.

3,500 yards dark prints (fast colors), 5c goods for 3c. 2 cases steel gray prints 7c, for 5c. 32-inch wide challie, medium colors, just the thing for comforters, sold for 10c and 12c, in one lot 5c a yard. 36-inch linings, sold for 8c, to close at 5c. Simpson's fine satines (colors only), sold early in the season for 22c, now to close at 12c.

50 pieces 9-4 unbleached sheeting 22c, goods during sale 17c.

40 pieces 27-inch red flannel (Shaker all-wool), worth 35c, during sale 25c.

65 pieces Canton flannel worth 8c for 3c.

2 cases Canton flannel worth 8c for 6c.

Light prints during sale 31c, marked down from 5c.

Lonsdale cambric 10c a yard.

CLOAK DEPARTMENT.

We have just enlarged this department about one-half, making it by far the best coat room in the city. The stock we show this season is composed of all the latest, noblest and newest designs of both foreign and domestic styles. One of the popular garments this season is fur trimmed. We show a full line from $5.00 to $30.00, trimmed in all kinds of fur.

Fotheringham, Whitelaw & Co., Council Bluffs, Ia.

Broke Three Ribs.

Conney Brown an employe of Wheeler & Herald, is laid up at his home on Benton street as the result of some severe injuries he sustained Thursday evening. He was repairing the floor of the barn connected with the bottling works, when he slipped and fell, breaking three ribs. He was picked up almost unconscious from pain and carried home, where a physician attended him. He suffered considerably during the night, but at last accounts was resting easily.

A Petrified Woman.

Mr. L. N. Barrett, a Council Bluffs gentleman who left the city last fall and spent the winter in Fresno, Cal., and signaled his stay there by the discovery of a petrified giant, which has attracted the attention of the scientific world, reached the city yesterday with another extraordinary petrification. He has rented the room, 537 Broadway, formerly occupied by Hart's jewelry store, and has placed the wonder on exhibition. It is a perfectly formed woman lying on her back with her hands peacefully folded across her breast. The corrugations of the skin on the hands can be traced to the minutest wrinkles, and every muscle is as natural as life. The face is clean cut and handsome, and the whole form conveys the impression that the woman, while peacefully sleeping in rocky health, was suddenly turned into stone. The drapery about the form has fallen away and petrified in little tufts, giving a ragged appearance in some places. The hair, eyelashes, finger and toe nails are clear and distinct, the former being petrified in tufts. A portion of the upper lip has been cut out, revealing two teeth to which the enamel is still adhering. The petrification was found by a little boy within a few feet of where Barrett found the giant. It will be on exhibition here for two weeks. Ladies will be admitted from 2 till 4 p. m., and will be shown the wonder by a lady attendant. Physicians will be admitted free, and Mr. Barrett invites the closest investigation.

Drs. Woodbury, dentists, 30 Pearl street, next to Grand hotel. Telephone 145. Council Bluffs a specialty.

25 dozen ladies' misfit kid gloves, worth from $1.00 to $2.50, for tonight from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

BOSTON STORE,

Fotheringham, Whitelaw & Co.

China Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Brown celebrated the twelfth anniversary of their marriage last evening at their residence on Bluff street. Invitations had been issued to about fifty of their friends, all of whom responded. The evening was passed very enjoyably, and the guests remembered the bride and groom of twenty years ago with a large number of gifts of china ware.

Waterworks Improvements.

Some waterworks are now being made in the waterworks plant, amounting almost to the putting in of an entirely new system, so far as everything excepting machinery is concerned. The improvements have been going on for some time past, and are so far completed that it will probably take not to exceed a couple of weeks to make the new system put its new plant into active operation.

Reservoirs are being put in, to be used in addition to the two now in use. One of the old ones is also being covered, inside and out, with a heavy coat of concrete. This has made it necessary to do away with the portion of the top for the past month or two, and the water has consequently been more impure than usual.

When the three reservoirs have been completed they will be arranged on the overflow system, which is now in use in most of the cities of the country. They will form a chain so connected that the water from the top of the first will flow over the rim into the next, and so on to the end. This will allow the sediment of each to settle to the bottom of the reservoir instead of being transmitted to the pipes, so that by the time the water has had the three chances to settle and has been taken to the Park avenue avenue, it will be as clean as it can be made.

THE HARVEST OF FAITH.

Amelia E. Burr in New York Ledger:

Under the shadow of a great fig tree to a young girl sat, in a deep reverie. Such a tender light was in her eyes, such a sweet smile of full satisfaction on her face, that a stranger would certainly have said: "She is thinking of her lover."

She is thinking of her lover, and her pleasure springs from a far less dangerous source - from the hand of a tuberose in her lap. Their spiritual, dreamy beauty and rare, rich perfume always held her as in a spell of measureless content. The tuberose was used to fill her soul with holy and tender thoughts, and the lovely waxes flowers, pale, pure and white as moonshine, haunted her heart and imagination, and received from her a perpetual love and worship.

There she sat until the heat and stillness of the tropic noon drove her to the garden, a grand old home hid among giant live-oaks gray with the solemn waving southern moss. She went first to the large dim parlors, intending to put her favorites among the damp moss of the hanging baskets; but the dreamy languor of the darkened room overcame every desire to move, and she lay down on the nearest couch, holding her flowers in her hands.

Half an hour later, Mr. Rae opened the door, and ushered in a gentleman had accompanied him from New Orleans.

"Sit down, Allan," he said. "I will soon arouse the house. You see, it is the hour for siesta, and I believe all take it at the same time when I am away."

For a few minutes the young man believed himself alone. The subtle, powerful perfume - quite unknown, but delicious beyond expression - was his first acquaintance. The tuberose, which he had accustomed to the dim light of the carefully closed shutters, he saw a picture that he never more forgot - a most lovely girl, in the first bloom of maidenhood, with a most ardent, glowing color was on a low divan. Her white robes made a kind of glory in the darkened corner. One hand had fallen down, and the flowers gemmed the carpet at her side; the other lay across her breast, as if embracing the tuberose which it had scattered there.

Allan Monteith was a young Scotchman, the only son of a gentleman with whom in early life Mr. Rae had formed a most ardent friendship. Allan was rich, and by nature and birth equally noble, but he was utterly devoid as yet of any experiences but such as his college and his mountain home had brought him. Never before had he seen the grandeur of the traditional business capacity of his house, as some late transactions in cotton and sugar in New Orleans had proven to Mr. Rae. And partly because he liked the young man, and partly because of the interest he had taken in his home among the woods and lagoons of the Evergreen bayou, Mabel, in this transaction, had scarcely been properly considered; but to her father she was yet a child. The friends who recognized her wonderful beauty, and was proud of it, he knew, too, that she possessed an exquisite voice and great skill in music and the passing idea of showing his pearl of price to the young man, who flattered his vanity than alarmed his fears. He did not dream that he was introducing a new claimant for his possession.

With the fall, however, there came imperative letters from Scotland, and Allan could no longer delay. Love has its business as well as its romance, and this side was not so satisfactory. Mr. Rae, who was not so content for two years, by which time, he said, he hoped to be able to give Mabel such a fortune as would make her acceptable in the eyes of Allan's father. But for the present he absolutely declined to give up Mabel to his home among the woods and lagoons of either side.

"In less than two years, when the first tuberose bloom, I will be here again, Mabel, darling," he said. "As I have sown the seed, I will be here to reap the harvest. My arms and kissed again and again the face dearer than all the world to him. And Mabel smiled through her tears and hid the little handkerchief in her bosom to his lips for a parting pledge."

But the two years brought many and unexpected changes. That very winter the first war cloud gathered, and long before Allan could redeem his promise the little island plantation had been deserted. Mr. Rae had gone to the war, and Mabel boarded in a ladies' school in New Orleans. These were but the beginning of sorrows. Another year had seen her orphaned and cruelly orphaned, and she was left to her own resources. Claimants without number appeared against the Rae estate, and creditors forced the plantation into the market at the most unfavorable time. Mabel's father had no home to return to, and she was left to her own resources. She was left to her own resources. She was left to her own resources.

But the two years brought many and unexpected changes. That very winter the first war cloud gathered, and long before Allan could redeem his promise the little island plantation had been deserted. Mr. Rae had gone to the war, and Mabel boarded in a ladies' school in New Orleans. These were but the beginning of sorrows. Another year had seen her orphaned and cruelly orphaned, and she was left to her own resources. Claimants without number appeared against the Rae estate, and creditors forced the plantation into the market at the most unfavorable time. Mabel's father had no home to return to, and she was left to her own resources. She was left to her own resources. She was left to her own resources.

But the two years brought many and unexpected changes. That very winter the first war cloud gathered, and long before Allan could redeem his promise the little island plantation had been deserted. Mr. Rae had gone to the war, and Mabel boarded in a ladies' school in New Orleans. These were but the beginning of sorrows. Another year had seen her orphaned and cruelly orphaned, and she was left to her own resources. Claimants without number appeared against the Rae estate, and creditors forced the plantation into the market at the most unfavorable time. Mabel's father had no home to return to, and she was left to her own resources. She was left to her own resources. She was left to her own resources.

But the two years brought many and unexpected changes. That very winter the first war cloud gathered, and long before Allan could redeem his promise the little island plantation had been deserted. Mr. Rae had gone to the war, and Mabel boarded in a ladies' school in New Orleans. These were but the beginning of sorrows. Another year had seen her orphaned and cruelly orphaned, and she