

HAS FINISHED ITS SESSION.

Women's Board of Missions of the Interior Gets Through Business.

OFFICERS HONORED BY RE-ELECTION.

Resolved to Raise Eighty Thousand Dollars Next Year—Toledo Gets the Next Year—Closing Efforts.

The second day's session of the Women's Board of Missions of the Interior opened promptly at 9 o'clock with devotional exercises, followed by the reading of the minutes of the first day's meeting.

After the reading of the branch reports by the representatives of the various states. The showing from Wisconsin, Missouri and Minnesota showed a flattering success in the work during the year and a healthy growth in the number of auxiliary societies.

The branches of these states had raised the amounts assigned to them and the feeling was very hopeful.

The reports from Kansas and South Dakota were not so encouraging with regard to the amount raised, but the outlook was encouraging and the reports spoke hopefully of the future.

It was announced that Mrs. J. H. Williams, the state secretary of Missouri, had met with a severe accident and was confined to her bed. A prayer for her speedy relief was offered by Mrs. J. B. Leake, treasurer of the board.

President Smith brought to the attention of the board the needs of Kobe college in Japan. It was necessary that land be purchased and two buildings erected for college purposes. For this work $12,000 would be required which must be considered as entirely outside the usual work of the society.

She expressed the hope that this need would be promptly met by the members of the auxiliary societies.

Work in Turkey. Next of the program was a paper on the progress of the work of the board in Mexico and Turkey, by Mrs. E. M. Williams, covering the number and location of missionaries supported by the board in those countries.

In Turkey especially there was a crying need for more women and children. Five more women were needed to go at once to that field. In Asiatic Turkey the missionaries sent out by the board are the only ones in that field and more help is needed there.

Miss Mary P. Wright, a missionary from Turkey, was then introduced and paid her compliments to Osman Bey's article in a leading magazine which she characterized as thoroughly misleading and full of misstatements, especially with reference to the condition of the women of that country.

Referring to the general policy of Turkey, Mrs. Wright said it was caused by the system of taxation. Whoever paid into the state treasury the largest lump sum, was allowed to collect the taxes and to make what he could out of the operation. As a result, he robbed the people right left.

Speaking of the habits of the Turk, the speaker sang a song which she said was the liveliest native song she had ever heard in that country. It was a drinking song and was one of the most beautiful, melodious ever heard, sounding more like the wail of the American Indian singing his death song than anything else she had ever heard.

The speaker also related several interesting details of every day life in Turkey in a lively style which was highly instructive.

Miss Sarah Pollock then read a paper on work among the children which had been crowded out yesterday. The paper was exhaustive and dealt with the best method of carrying on the work among the children and teaching them to be a thorough and true conversion of the little heathen children.

A solo by Mrs. Whitney of Omaha was followed by a consecration meeting, led by Mrs. J. B. Leake, one of the home secretaries, formerly a missionary in India for thirty years.

Officers Re-Elected. After the usual devotional exercises, reports from Illinois, Nebraska and the Rocky Mountain branch were read by the several secretaries.

The nominating committee was called for and made its report, recommending the reelection of the old officers and the addition of other officers. The report of the committee was adopted and the following declared elected.

The complete list is as follows: President, Mrs. Moses Smith, Chicago; first vice president, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; second vice president, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; secretary, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; home secretary, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; foreign secretary, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; recording secretary, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; executive committee, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of managers, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of directors, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of trustees, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of auxiliaries, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of education, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of health, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of music, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of prayer, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of singing, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of social, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of work, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of witness, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of prayer, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of singing, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of social, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of work, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago; board of witness, Mrs. J. B. Leake, Chicago.

Additional managers were appointed in the person of four young ladies, as follows: The Misses H. Wentworth, May Pritch and May Lyman of Chicago and Margaret Kendall of Evanston, Ill.

Toledo Next Time. The committee on place of meeting reported in favor of Toledo, O., as the next place of meeting. The report was adopted.

The reports of the committees on home reports and treasurer's report were next read and taken up for discussion.

The report of the treasurer's report recommended that $75,000 be raised during the coming year for the work of the board. This was amended by increasing the amount to $80,000 after several of the delegates had expressed themselves very heartily in favor of increasing the amount.

The hour having arrived which had been set apart for the young ladies, the front part of the church was cleared and about 100 of the young ladies of the church were assigned seats there.

While this was taking place all the missionaries in the meeting and all ladies who were related to missionaries were invited to take seats on the platform, where they were introduced to the meeting by Mrs. E. W. Blatchford.

Mrs. S. B. Capron then addressed the young ladies and announced as the motto for the coming year the words, "Whom, Having Not Seen, Ye Love."

Miss Mary H. Porter, chairman of the young ladies' committee, then addressed the young ladies on the work of the committee and sketched for them the work which they should take upon themselves during the year.

President Smith then addressed the young ladies on the covenant, speaking briefly of the duty of each to promise to do their best in aid of the service of spreading the gospel among foreign lands.

Miss Ada Haven, a missionary from China, spoke of the work in that country and the needs of those who are working among those people.

The singing of the covenant hymn, written by Mrs. G. B. Wilcox, closed the afternoon session.

Talks Last Evening. The evening session opened with a song service, followed by an interesting address by Miss Ada Haven, who spoke of the social life of the people of China, referring to the relations existing between man and wife, father and son, etc., and the difficulty of reaching the people in missionary work.

She spoke also of the possibilities of the work and appealed to the people to assist in rescuing those brighthearts from the depths of filigthy.

Mr. B. Capron of Chicago, the head of the Women's Branch of the Bible society, and for many years a missionary in India, made an interesting and brief address on the work done by the women.

The committee on resolutions presented resolutions thanking everybody who was present for their interest and courtesies which were unanimously adopted.

BEFORE THE CORONER'S JURY

Testimony Taken in the Official Investigation of George Smith's Death.

RESULT OF DR. ALLISON'S AUTOPSY.

He Claims That Death Resulted from Frigate—Deputy Jailor Decker's Story of the Assault on the Jail.

Coroner Harrigan's jury in the George Smith lynching case got down to work at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Charles E. Allison testified that he had made a post mortem examination of the body and in answer to questions put by County Attorney Mahoney told of the bruises which gave external evidence of violence.

There were contusions on the left side of the head, on the left elbow, left leg and shoulder, also on the right hip, besides the marks on the neck. The doctor said that the bruises would not have been regarded seriously if the man had been alive.

A bloody, frothy mucus in the passages of the lungs showed evidence of strangulation. The heart was very much contracted and somewhat flattened near the apex, also slightly turned, produced, no doubt, by a violent contraction of the heart's muscles. There were three dislocations of the vertebrae, any one of which would have caused instant death.

Death from Frigate. That death resulted from frigate, said the doctor, was evident from the marked contraction of the heart muscle, producing a flattening and twisting of the apex of the heart.

"This condition of the heart," continued the physician, "and the blood clots in the kidneys, along with the contusions of the liver, are my chief guides in stating that the man came to his death from frigate. The heart being before the lungs, the blood clots, also, we would have found a relaxed condition of the heart muscles. If death had been from strangulation we would have found the heart to the right side and contracted on the left."

Manager Vance Lane of the Nebraska Telephone company, who called, testified that he was at the court house yard about 10 p. m. and got within 100 feet of the jail door. He did not recognize any one, but a man since he had been arrested, he saw a man stand on the window casing, flourish his cane, and then break the glass in the window. Witnesses said that the man remained until about midnight, but left before the negro was brought out.

Jailor Decker's Story. Deputy Jailor Oliver G. Decker took the stand. He said that he was inside the county jail on the night of October 9. First saw George Smith about 8:30 p. m., when I was ordered by Sheriff Boyd to remove the prisoner from his cell. He was in the steel stock. After the removal of the crowd demanded admittance. I refused; then they demanded the key which I refused. When the mob commenced battering at the window and I again told them to go away. It took about thirty-five minutes to get through the door and into the jail office. Captain Cormack, Sergeant Sigwart and Mr. Lynch were in the office with me when the mob entered. I saw a man, Jimmie Cannon, who was helped into the window, but backed down when confronted by Mr. Lynch with a revolver in his hand. We were then driven back by a black being, through the window, and the mob, headed by Cannon, rushed in. Once inside the mob soon broke the door and entered the jail behind which we stood, advising them to go away.

Probably twenty minutes were occupied in opening this door and then the crowd rushed up stairs to the solitary steel cages. Many in the mob had handcuffs over their feet. They were taken to the roof and finally got at the cell which held the prisoner. It took about two hours to get the mob out of the jail. The man who broke Smith was taken to the office, where he was identified by someone and taken out of the window. That was the last I ever saw of him.

Were on the Inside. Patrick Lynch, into death watch for Neal, told his story, which was substantially the same as Deputy Decker. Witness said he recognized Captain O'Donoghue, the "General" Meagher in the crowd, but that they were trying to keep the mob back. Thomas McNamee, a brother of the prisoner, was inside with the jailers, said that they did not know any one in the crowd except the three mentioned by Lynch and that they were doing what they could to hold the mob in check.

Sergeant of Police Sigwart said that he went to the jail about 10 o'clock, and that he was admitted. He remained inside until after Smith had been taken out. Witness said he saw "General" Meagher pass along the corridor with a crowd of men holding a coil of rope in his hand, part of which was dragging on the floor. He also recognized George Grevy, a man who was on the case. Grevy appeared to be boasting of the job, and was acting as door-keeper. Also saw "General" Meagher and a crowd of men; was hustled out himself.

The officer testified to seeing Ed Fitzgerald, Pat O'Herne, Captain O'Donoghue, John Hudson and William Bloom there. After recognizing Smith, O'Donoghue called to him and did not see him again until he was hanged from a trolley wire at Seventeenth and Harney streets.

Detectives Haze and Ellis testified that they had seen the body of the negro at Healey's and it was the same person they arrested for the assault. After listening to the testimony of one or two unimportant witnesses the session adjourned until 10 a. m. today.

Are you a criminal man, or only a chump? Your horse has chafed his neck until it is abnormally cruel to sting the horse, or he has cut himself on a wire or a nail. Now do you know that one bottle of Haller's Barb Wire Remedy will absolutely cure every cut, bruise or old sore? Just try it.

The republican county central committee will meet at Republican Headquarters Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FLYERS DESTROYED BY FIRE. Very Disastrous Blaze at the Council Bluffs Driving Park.

One of the most serious fires that has visited Council Bluffs for some time occurred about 3 o'clock this morning at the Union Driving Park. It was nearly an hour later before an alarm was sent in, and before the fire department arrived sixty stalls near the south end of the grounds had been destroyed. The loss will probably reach $50,000, on which there is no insurance.

The fire originated in the box occupied by Guepik, blk. s., by Princess, owned by T. A. Turley & Sons, Beatrice, and was without doubt incendiary.

Enemies of the owner tried some time ago to poison the horse, but failing in this it is believed that he made another attempt to get him out of the way.

The heaviest loser is Newton Chamberlain of Denver, his estimated loss being $7,000. He owned a pair of colts, Philo Sweet of Denver lost about $3,000. Chief, worth $2,500, had both eyes burned out and was a handsome animal. He was owned by Jacob Houck and other witnesses said he had one eye burned out but will probably recover.

J. W. Hileret of St. Joseph lost $600 worth of poles, harness and clothing. Peter Garretty of West Superior, Wis., lost $500 in the same way. J. W. Hileret of St. Joseph lost $200 worth of poles, harness and clothing. Peter Garretty of West Superior, Wis., lost $500 in the same way. J. W. Grand opera house, Friday evening. AMUSEMENTS. One of the largest audiences, if not the largest, in point of numbers, of the season, assisted at the opening performance of Hoyt's "A Midnight Bell" last evening at Boyd's theater, and the verdict was unanimous in favor of the play.

It is a pleasing sign of the times that people can get so much genuine enjoyment out of a comedy as they did last evening. And it should be a "gentle pointer" to Mr. Hoyt that theater-goers are growing very weary of his "Bachelors" and "It's a Wonderful Life" to him for something more serious, more in the line of true dramatic construction than he shows in "A Trip to Chinatown," and "Morning After."

There is a great deal of merit in "A Midnight Bell" and its pronounced success shows that even truth can be novel when presented in so delightful a way. For there is a great deal of adherence to things as they exist in the "down east" communities, in one of which the comedy of the story is set.

The play is humorous and not infrequently witty; it has here and there the suspicion of the comedy which is not altogether a bad thing in a great deal of adherence to things as they exist in the "down east" communities, in one of which the comedy of the story is set.

The play is humorous and not infrequently witty; it has here and there the suspicion of the comedy which is not altogether a bad thing in a great deal of adherence to things as they exist in the "down east" communities, in one of which the comedy of the story is set.

Eugene Campbell is still the "bad boy" of the company and gives an excellent portrayal of a very funny part. George Richards is as droll as in the early days of his association with Mr. Hoyt. "The Stranger in the Hole in the Ground," by Mr. Dillon as the clergyman, makes a very great deal of what was originally intended as a small part. He has been elaborated and strengthened until now it is one of the best studies in the play.

Miss Loring is the new schoolmistress, and baring a slight nervousness, played the part intelligently and well. She is a comedy more ally of the versatile order than any man upon the American stage, will, during his forthcoming engagement at Boyd's theater, present a new play, his most recent success, "The Nonnie."

W. H. Currie as the lawyer and Earle Sterling as Ned O'Leary, were excellent, both being actors of ability.

Miss L. B. Slattery and Miss Ayers were thoroughly on rapport with the characters they assumed.

Colonel Slattery of the Metropolitan Street Railway company denounced the whole production as a farce and a string of lies. He had been upon the streets all the afternoon. He had seen Messrs. Smith and Goodrich talking with certain gentlemen, and had heard them tell those gentlemen to stay away from the meeting.

President Lowry demanded the names of the gentlemen referred to.

Mr. Slattery replied that he knew them, but refused to give their names.

"If you know them," said President Lowry, "in the future you ought to be refused admission to this council chamber."

Mr. Slattery said that he did not want to tell their names, but he would get justice if the applicant was not on the inside of the ring.

There was a prospect of more talk but the electric lights were dimmed and the crowd filed out of the hall to continue the discussion on the streets.

FAILED TO GET ANY ACTION.

Neither the Council Nor the Committee Could Transact Business.

WAITING FOR BLUMER TO RETRACT.

McLeerie Will Not Attend Until He Has Been Mollified—The Metropolitan Ordinance Still Hanging Fire.

There was a special meeting of the council and another session of the committee appointed to ascertain whether or not blade had induced certain members of the council to vote to award the city hall furniture contract to the Ketchum Furniture company looked for last night. The special session was for the purpose of disposing of the Metropolitan street railway ordinance. These meetings, both together, occupied only fifteen minutes' time, but they were interesting in the lobby.

The committee had the first inning with three members, Chairman Tuttle, Messrs. Chaffee and Osthoff, present.

Some Private Opinions. Attorney Wharton was the first speaker and after the committee had been called to order said that he had been informed that Mr. McLeerie had refused to sit with the committee. Mr. McLeerie had been grossly insulted by Mr. Blumer Wednesday night and would not act until an apology was offered, or until Mr. Blumer had retracted.

Mr. Chaffee said that he was getting tired of such foolishness and again characterized the investigation as a mud-slinging contest at which lawyers and others were blowing wind.

Mr. Osthoff once more stated that he had feared that they were out of repair. He was anxious, he said, to get out and do his fall plowing, but in fairness to all parties the investigation should conclude with all of the members of the committee present.

President Lowry was of the opinion that if the committee adjourned until next Monday night could be poured upon the members of the council and between Messrs. McLeerie and Blumer could be restored.

Didn't Have a Quorum. Mr. Chaffee moved that the committee adjourn to meet Monday night. The motion prevailed and President Lowry took the chair for the purpose of calling the council to order.

City Clerk Groves called the roll, but only Messrs. Chaffee, Osthoff, Tuttle and Mr. President responded. The call was read and the sergeant-at-arms stated that he had notified nearly all of the members of the special meeting.

President Lowry declared that there was not a quorum present and that it would be illegal to transact business.

Mr. Tuttle remarked that the failure to pass the Metropolitan ordinance would throw the matter out and place it in such a position that the question of granting a charter could not be submitted at the November election.

Mr. Slattery Then Said. Colonel Slattery of the Metropolitan Street Railway company denounced the whole production as a farce and a string of lies. He had been upon the streets all the afternoon. He had seen Messrs. Smith and Goodrich talking with certain gentlemen, and had heard them tell those gentlemen to stay away from the meeting.
