

SULPHUR SPRINGS AS A PARK.

Joe Rodman Tells the Ketchers Club a Nice Little Indian Story.

BURIAL PLACE OF CHIEF WHITE EAGLE.

Last Ruler of the Omahas Rests There—Club Decides to Build a Boulevard Comprehending the Springs.

The Fifth Ward Kickers club met last evening for their bi-weekly kick, at 1154 Sherman avenue. John T. Catners occupied the chair, and T. H. Dalley held down the secretary's table.

Joe Rodman explained the object of the meeting, which was called for the purpose of discussing the park question. He said that he favored the idea of a system of parks and thought that the Fifth ward should not be forgotten. His idea was to secure a few acres at the Sulphur Springs on a little plateau overlooking the Missouri river, Council Bluffs and the valley for miles and miles. Furthermore, the spot is the resting place of White Eagle, the last chief of the Omahas, whose bones have been buried there for the past forty years.

Mr. Rodman said that he was not only eminently proper that the chief's last resting place should be fittingly marked, but that the spot was a slightly one and by nature fitted for a park. He thought that visitors to the city would be glad to visit the place because of the story connected with it.

Frank Garrity, a government employe, said that he was certain that White Eagle was buried there. He had been on a trip to the Omahas reservations, when an Omaha guide told him that the bones of the chief were buried there for a great many years and that the last chief died and was buried at this place, describing it so accurately that Mr. Garrity could recognize it.

Not So Romantic. Mr. Munnecke said he wanted a park, but he was a little suspicious of Mr. Rodman's proposition because it would have the result of selling the gentleman's property, which was situated close by.

Mr. Rodman replied that he had no land to sell for park purposes and was talking as any ordinary interested citizen of Omaha. Counselman T. J. Conway said that he was in favor of parks first, last and all the time. He knew that the Fifth ward had never gotten what was justly her due. It was a comparatively level ward and had required no great expenditures of money for grading purposes, and had not been rewarded with the expenditure of half the money that had gone to benefit some of the other wards in the city.

Mr. Dalley was called for. He said that he understood that when the park bonds were voted it was specified what was to be done with them. He was of the opinion, however, that the bondholders' question was not included and he thought he saw a way out of the difficulty. He was of the opinion that inasmuch as there was no bondholders in the city, one should be constructed, but he knew that the most slightly place for one was along the edge of the bluff north of Grace street to the very spot proposed by Mr. Rodman. It would make an excellent dirt drive and would draw all the horse owners in the city. It could be widened at the point referred to so as to virtually make it a little park, and could then be continued as a boulevard to take in all or a part of the proposed system of parks.

Mr. Dalley then offered the following resolution: Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that a boulevard be built east of Grace avenue, commencing at some point north of Grace street, thence east to the bluff, the corner of the bluff to the south line of Sulphur Springs reserve, at which point that parcel of land shown on the plat of the city of Sulphur Springs reserve be included within the bounds of the boulevard, and that from the north line of the said Sulphur Springs reserve the boulevard be continued along the edge of the bluff to the proposed park tract on the north side of the city.

Will Build a Boulevard. George McKelvie understood that the expenditure of the park bonds was already provided for, but was not included in the proposed outline.

Mr. Rodman moved that a committee of three be appointed to lay the matter before the park commissioners, and the chair appointed Messrs. J. J. Brown, Joseph Rodman and T. H. Dalley.

Mr. Munnecke exercised his prerogative of kicking and objected to Mr. Rodman because he was "too sharp" but the meeting concluded that it wanted sharp men and Mr. Rodman was allowed to live.

Mr. Rodman put in another plea for Sulphur Springs, and in his imagination placed an Indian monument in the center of his proposed park, with an equestrian statue of General Crook at the entrance, at the corner of Fifteenth and Spencer streets. He thought that Omaha ought to have something to perpetuate the memory of the red man—Joe Rodman he declared, but the aboriginal proprietors of this neck-of-the-woods.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the executive committee, to listen to the report of the committee appointed to consult with the park commissioners.

SOUTH OMAHA.

Loved His Neighbor's Wife. James Holmes got into the police court yesterday on account of his mashing proclivities. His latest conquest was Mrs. D. Williams, the wife of a poor but hard working and respectable citizen. Sunday after a week of toil, Mr. Williams expected to pass the Sabbath with his family, but early in the morning the wife disappeared. The husband waited until the middle of the afternoon for her to return, but she failed to do so. He then started out to hunt her, but did not find her until late in the evening. He discovered her on a spree with Holmes. Hot words ensued between the two men and Captain O'Hara of the police force was attracted to the spot by the language used. He found that Williams was endeavoring to coax his wife to go home with him, but Holmes was cursing and docting the husband and the captain was siding with her paramour. The officer ordered them to stop their outrageous language or he would have to arrest them. This quieted them temporarily and the captain left. But he had not gone a hundred feet before the quarrelling was resumed and Holmes was pouncing on his head and hitting him again. O'Hara went back and informed Holmes that he had no right with Williams' wife, and if he did not leave the couple alone he would arrest him.

Holmes then commenced cursing the officer and uttering dirty threats. Captain O'Hara is a peaceful man, but this was more than he could stand. He drew his strong right fist back to his shoulder and let it fly at the fount-mouthed fellow with the force of a catapult. Holmes dropped like a struck steer. The officer, lifting him up by the collar of his coat, held him at arm's length and left the impression of his right foot on the seat of the fellow's trousers. He then piloted him to the city jail to nurse his wounds.

Holmes' trial was held yesterday afternoon, and Williams' wife was on hand

ANARCHY HAS LOST ITS GRIP.

Chicago Practically Freed from the Disciples of the Red Flag.

OLD LEADERS DEAD OR IN PRISON.

Hattie Estelle's Captain Died in His Efforts to Keep His Word—Story of a Shipwreck.

Chicago Bureau of the Bee, Chicago, Ill., Nov. 23. For the benefit of the nervously inclined, the Herald has been making a systematic investigation as to the present status of the anarchist organizations in this city, and in an elaborate report of three columns states, on what it claims as the best authority, that "there is no organized anarchy in Chicago; that there are no groups of societies or unions which preach or countenance anarchy; that the old leaders are dead or buried in the penitentiary, or wanderers through the country, or have settled down and become conservative property owners, and that probably there are not any more men in Chicago today who would do murder for a theory of social reform than there are in any great community."

Dead Doing His Duty. Captain Estelle of the schooner Hattie Estelle, which sank off Manistowic, lost his life through his effort to save Annie Connors, the cook, from drowning. During the storm the cook was greatly frightened and Captain Estelle promised to save her if the boat was wrecked. When the boat struck a bar, despite the protests of the mate, the captain attempted to carry out his word, but before he could reach the woman the boat had broken in two and all retreat was cut off. He climbed to the mizen rigging and held there for two hours, but in trying to come down was washed overboard.

Donnelly's Book Failed to Pay. Ignatius Donnelly, the politician and author, has been suing the circuit court, say R. S. Peirce & Co., printers, for $6,000 damages. "Some time ago," says N. A. Partridge, attorney for the plaintiff, "Donnelly went to Mr. Peirce to have his Baconian Cryptogram published. Mr. Donnelly confessed being in great straits for funds and Mr. Peirce advanced him $1,000 and took a note for it. Of course Donnelly hoped to pay the note out of the profits of his book, but the book failed to do so. Not alone were there no profits, but there was a great loss. When the business was incorporated the note was assigned to the plaintiff and remained unpaid. It was not until September, 1887, and became due six months later. Mr. Donnelly is a resident of Minnesota and while in Chicago Saturday was served with notice of this suit."

An Atrocious Murder Recalled. One of the most atrocious murders in the annals of Cook county is recalled by a dispatch from Springfield announcing that Governor Fifer had pardoned James H. Strain, a ten year convict. The crime was committed in June, 1888. The woman saturated the clothing of her husband with coal oil and then set him on fire. In the crime and claimed that he was a drunkard and had the unpleasant habit of coming home and beating her. She tried to have him put on his hands and feet, but he refused to do so. He intended to take his life. The petition circulated for his release this view of the case and was largely signed and it was upon this petition that Governor Fifer's action was based.

Dr. Strecker's Creed Resolution. The local presbytery today, after a good deal of opposition, adopted the following short creed resolution asking the general assembly to "turn entirely from the project of revising the Westminster confession of faith and to take diligent heed to the truth of the church such a simple and scriptural declaration of those things which are most surely believed and confessed by all our members and to the edification of all our members and for a testimony to the world of the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints."

She Was Determined to Die. Last evening Officers Bowen and Porter of the Cottage Grove avenue station, who were patrolling the lake front, saw a woman with a boy about ten years of age, who was crying bitterly and was being dragged along by the hair of her head. The boy had a most determined look upon his face. The officers stopped the pair and asked what was the trouble. The little boy said the woman who held his hand was his mother and that she was going to throw him into the lake and jump in herself. Investigation revealed that the woman was Mrs. Griswold. The woman, whose name was Mrs. Griswold, said she had been driven to desperation by her husband's infidelity. She says she is determined to die.

Starting in Early. One Big Building for Next Year Already Secured.

Negotiations have been completed, and now will be commenced in a few days in carrying out abutting scheme of considerable importance. It is nothing less than the erection of an immense apartment building on the southeast corner of Twenty-first and Leavenworth that is designed to accommodate thirty families.

The building will be 130x102 feet and six stories high, and will cost $175,000. The plans were completed some time ago and call for a large amount of structural steel, finished and fitted up with several elevators and all improvements and conveniences. The architect is George A. Bierhoff of this city, and the gentlemen who are pushing the work are Lorenzo D. Fowler, Joel West and Mr. J. E. Koel.

All arrangements have been made, and the bonds are now on the Boston market, and are nearly all disposed of. As soon as this is done the building will be suit ordered work commenced at once.

Closed to Business. The Bryan Commission Company Contemplating a Change.

The Bryan Commission company, located on the first floor of the New York Life building, refused to do business yesterday. Quotations were received as usual, but no trades in grain, meats, stocks and bonds were taken.

Mr. Bryan, the head of the firm, was seen at noon and said that financial troubles had nothing to do with the refusal to accept orders. The firm was sound financially, but he was anxious to get out of the brokerage business. His health had been failing for a number of months and he desired a change. He expected the firm would sell out, as three different parties had made propositions, some of which would be accepted. Mr. Bryan could not say whether or not the purchasers would continue the business, but thought they would. He refused to give the name of his successor, stating that if it were given it might affect the sale.

WE WANT PHOTOGRAPHS.

Our advertising department will pay Twenty-five Dollars in Gold for Cabinet Photographs of the five handsomest boys, ages 4 to 18, received by us up to January 1st, 1892. The Twenty-five Dollars to be divided as follows: $10 to the first, $5 to the second, $5 to the third, $3 to the fourth and $2 to the fifth. In order that you may not confound this offer with a certain style of sensational advertising frequently indulged in, we will plainly state our reasons for it. Twice each year we issue a number of thousand catalogues which we mail to our out-of-town customers. It is necessary that we illustrate these catalogues to a certain extent. We can, and so far have, used what are known as "stock cuts," that is, ready-made cuts. Aside from the fact that these cuts never look like "real boys," anybody can buy them, and we frequently run across catalogues containing cuts exactly like ours. As our advertising department aims, in a certain degree, at originality, we desire for our next catalogue a set of cuts of typical "western boys."
