

FALLING HOSPITAL WALLS

Another Section of the County's Building Drops of Its Own Weight.

CLOSE CALL FOR THE SLEEPING INMATES

Judge Hopewell Issues a Mandate That Will Prevent Interested Parties From Conducting Foreclosure Sales—Other District Court Cases.

The officials, employes and inmates at the county hospital were frightened nearly out of their wits again yesterday morning. For a time confusion reigned and all those persons who tarry at the institution thought that they were booked for eternity over the shortest and most direct route to the hereafter.

This was caused by the falling of another section of the corridors in the north wing of the building. At 5 o'clock, with the exception of the night engineer and the watchman, the place was as quiet and still as the grave.

Suddenly and without any warning twenty feet of the third floor of the corridor gave way and fell to the floor. The floor was unable to stand the weight of this mass of brick and iron, which was hurled down upon it.

With a crack and a report like the explosion of a blast of gunpowder the brick arches gave way and down to the next floor the debris went. Then there was another report and a shock which shook the entire building, and the whole mass was springing to the ground.

Superintendent Mahoney with one spring passed from the family sleeping apartments into the main corridor, expecting to see the south wing in ruins. The inmates, the sick and the paupers set up an unearthly yell and pounded at their doors, begging to be released. An investigation assured that they were not to be crushed beneath falling walls, quiet was restored.

The section of the corridor that fell was just south of that portion that fell some time ago, and had been considered in an unsafe condition for several weeks. Braces had been put beneath the floor joists, but they would hold until the workmen could rod that portion of the building. The other portions of the building, however, were safe and braced, and the opinion prevails that this will be the last wreck.

AS TO SPECIAL MASTERS.

Judge Hopewell Issues an Order Calculated to Stop Abuses—Court Notes.

It was with some interest that the courts this morning took up the business of the term. All of the judges were upon the bench, except Judge Scott.

Judge Hopewell shot a broadside into the ranks of the special master commissioners and it will be many days ere they recover from its effects. This was brought about by the proceedings of last Saturday, in which the judge had something to say regarding the manner in which some of those gentlemen have conducted sales under foreclosure of real estate mortgages.

Judge Keyser's court Peter Kelly has started out to gather in $5,000 of William Deering's good money. The plaintiff proposes to allow a jury to decide whether or not he is entitled to this money. In the usual petition in such cases Kelly alleges that defendant and prior to January 27, 1892, employed him as an excavator at Ninth street and Capitol avenue.

On January 4, 1892, Kelly was watching a pile driver force piles into the basement of the building. While he was so watching, the 1,000-pound hammer bit him a tap on the head, and he fell, striking his head on a three inch length, laying bare his skull and sending him to the hospital. He now alleges that the accident was caused by the carelessness of the engineer whose duty it was to manipulate the affair. A verdict for defendant was returned.

Wants Damages from the City.

Josephine J. Gardner is making an effort to convince Judge Perry that a jury that the city of Omaha should pay her $5,000 from the general fund. It was sometime during the spring of 1891 that she was walking along Burdette street from Nineteenth to Twentieth. It was in the nighttime and that particular night was dark and rainy. As she walked she stepped into a hole, breaking her right ankle and spraining her left knee. Now she says the city was to blame and that it should foot the bill.

Other Court Doings.

In the criminal court Judge Davis and the jury labor with the case of the state against Henry W. Sylvester. The state charges that on May 11 the defendant with malice aforethought stole from the person of Charles W. Blanchard a watch and chain, valued at $25, without a first putting the said Blanchard in fear of good bodily harm. Sylvester was convicted.

Rev. Wm. Hollister, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Sparta, N. J., voluntarily writes strongly in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. He says: "I have known of it for years, and it stimulates the liver or cleans the blood, and I have been cured by it."

The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy, yet efficient action.

UNIVERSITY COMMENCEMENT.

Exercises of the Week began at Bellevue College Sunday.

Sunday morning began the exercises of the ninth annual commencement week of Bellevue college, now a part of the University of Omaha.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by the president, Rev. Dr. Kerr, in the Bellevue Presbyterian church. He took for his text the words, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever," found in Hebrews xlii, 3, and gave the best of food for future thought.

Yesterday was held day and the beautiful playlet covering the history of the college and sloping down to the sleepy little village was sprinkled with the figures of the young athletes in the graceful attitudes of the college campus and white robed figures of the co-eds. There was an interesting program of events in which was displayed an ability which sufficiently demonstrated that the year's course had not been like the one which made Jack a dull boy.
