Asphalt on Farnam Street. To the Mayor and City Council of Omaha: Gentlemen—We, the undersigned, proprietors of the Farnam street, between Ninth and Fifteenth street, hereby represent that our business and property interests have for the past several years been seriously impaired because of the noisy, rough and unclean character of the pavement on this thoroughfare to a degree that carriages and pleasure traffic is diverted therefrom, hence our rents and the trades suffer seriously.

Therefore, we respectfully petition your honorable body that a district be created for the purpose of having invited for surfacing the present undesirable stone block pavement with two inches of Trinidad sheet asphaltum, under a five-year guarantee. In this way we feel assured the former prestige of Farnam street will not only be restored, but increased several fold.

Her Husband Had on Many Occasions Described Her. While they sewed for the bazaar the conversation had turned to the subject of woman, her rights and wrongs, what she should do, the merits and shortcomings of a good many absent friends not being neglected, says Life.

"Oh, well," remarked Mrs. Noft, as she finished stitching a fourteen-inch collar on a nightgown that would have otherwise fitted John L. Sullivan, and began bustling a sleeve in the wrong armhole of a child's dress, which from its unnatural proportions was evidently intended for a new variety of humanity.

"Oh, well! no doubt there never was an altogether perfect woman. Did you ever hear of one, Mrs. Meek?" "Yes," quietly replied a patient-looking little woman, who had not been taking much part in the discussion, "there was one—I've often heard of her—but she's dead now. She was my husband's first wife."

W. J. Miner, for stealing a watch from one Murphy, was committed to the district court in the sum of $1,000. The charge of stealing a suit of clothes has been lodged against W. J. Miner and John Smith by James C. Miller, who has been charged with embezzlement, was dismissed yesterday, no one appearing to prosecute.

Officer Fahy placed M. J. Cavanaugh and Mike Gavin under arrest on Douglas street yesterday for trying to pass counterfeit money. The charge of vagrancy was also lodged against them.

A man by the name of Murphy lost his watch in a saloon on Tenth and Jackson streets Friday afternoon. W. J. Miner, superintendent of police, has been notified of the timepiece contrary to law by cutting the buckskin strap with which it was fastened to the buttonhole.

Were Prepared for the Outlaws. INDEPENDENCE, Kan., May 6.—Yesterday afternoon the members of the Starr gang rode into Caney with the intention of making a raid upon the banks. The report that they were coming reached town before they did, they having been recognized on the road, and when they appeared they found the banks and stores closed and meeting and made no attempt to rob them.

This is the same town the outlaws made an attempt to rob last night, but they were driven off by a posse of about 200 men, with some thousand dollars belonging to the Caney Valley bank. The Montgomery County Bankers' association has offered a reward to a posse of about any of the parties implicated.

Struck His Daughter. As Joseph Lewis, a man about 50 years of age, at 1914 Cummer street, was taking his daughter, Sofronia, to a social last evening, he suddenly changed his mind and concluded not to go. Because she insisted upon going he struck her hard in the face. She refused to accompany him to a policeman and the father was arrested. He says the daughter "sassied" him and he was only administering a little judicious parental discipline.

WELL-BEHAVED YOUNG GIRLS

Original and Instructive Ideas Advanced by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. PETTED DAUGHTERS AID WITTY GIRLS. Like Swimming and Dancing, Sweetness of Dip should Be Early Acquired—The Kinds of Girls to Fight shy Of.

(Copyrighted, 1893.) To grow old gracefully one must commence when very young; it is like dancing, swimming or speaking foreign tongues—a thing not to be perfectly acquired suddenly or if begun too late.

I am constantly amused with a sort of sorrowful amusement at hearing the very just criticisms which many young people pass upon the disagreeable old persons whom they encounter; while their criticisms are well founded they do not realize that they are every hour of the day forming and solidifying habits which shall eventually render them "disagreeable old people."

The pretty young girl, a bloom and dimples, who relates in a musical voice the misdeeds of her schoolmates and criticizes their conduct, dress and appearance, is called, at worst, nothing more than "disagreeable" or "very particular." I have heard such girls praised highly by blind parents who are so anxious to get rid of their companions. Yet this same habit indulged in by some withered grandmother, whose face is hard and whose voice is harsh, wins universal disapproval.

"Grandma is so hypocritical, so fault-finding, so censorious; she has no sympathy with young people!" cries the blooming grandchild, who, ten minutes later, will tear to tatters the character or costume of some companion with her sarcastic comments. She does not realize that every time she indulges this habit she takes one more step toward that hideous goal of disagreeable old age.

The extremely well-behaved young girl, who has never been tempted and who cannot understand how another can commit a folly, is sure to become the most censorious of old women. If she does not develop into a cruel, malicious and vindictive old woman, she will be a miserably old woman. Nothing is so easy as the descent from a young girl to an old woman. As a young girl she prides herself upon her love of morality and good behavior; all her friends speak of her as "such a strict girl" in her ideas. No one would think of appealing to her for sympathy or advice in an hour of temptation, but she is respected for her high ideals if feared for her severity. As an old woman, she is simply held in abhorrence, and her name becomes a neighborhood synonym for cruel judgment.

Criticism of our frail foibles is a vice which has become a passion with many old women. They are so full of themselves that they will not believe that any other person has a right to be as good as they are. They are so full of themselves that they will not believe that any other person has a right to be as good as they are.

It is strange that we all do not grow more charitable as we grow old; as we learn more of our own frailties we should be more merciful to the frailties of others. We ought to be temperate and more tender and pitying.
