GOOD TIMES IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Construction of the New Lower Brule Indian Agency Makes Business.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Nov. 4.—[Special to The Bee.]—Unusually prosperous times will be experienced in this section this winter by reason of the construction of the new Lower Brule Indian agency. Contracts aggregating but little less than $100,000 have been let for the new buildings at the agency and the work of construction has now been commenced.

All the lumber, stone and other materials necessary for the buildings must be hauled here to the site of the new agency, about thirty-five miles up the Missouri river, on the west side of that stream.

As there will be in the neighborhood of 1,000 wagons and a building material to be hauled this distance, it will readily be seen that over a farmer or other person owning a team can engage in the work if they desire, thus being enabled to earn good sums of money at a time when their services are not needed on the farm.

Two new inventors have made necessary for making a trip, so that every night there will be hundreds of wagons and teamsters in the city until the following morning. In order to save the expense of material that will be transported to the location of the new agency, there will be the regular bus lines supplied to haul the material to both Crow Creek and Lower Brule agencies. The supplies of coal alone will consist of nearly 500 tons. Scores of carpenters and other workmen will also be engaged, and there will be no idle men in this section this winter unless it be those who do not want to work.

Worked by Fair. CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Nov. 4.—[Special to The Bee.]—Not long ago a fairer, who renounced himself as being an agent of the Standard Tank Line company, visited some of the small towns in the extreme eastern portion of the state. He claimed to have been sent out by the company to take orders for kerosene oil and also carried with him what he claimed was a new invention to prevent kerosene lamps from exploding.

This was but in small packages at the rate of $12 per gross to the merchants. The fairer took orders and received the money for his gross in the towns of Toronto, White, Bushnell and Aurora. After working the latter place he disappeared from that section of the state. The fairer was not discovered until the kerosene failed to arrive after a reasonable time and inquiries developed the fact that the fairer had been carrying the oil, etc. Further investigation proved the material preventing explosions to be common marble dust.

Investigating Northwest Agriculture. YANKTON, S. D., Nov. 4.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Mr. Nelson and Joseph Chiley Vermett, two of the fair commissioners from Buenos Ayres, Argentina, reached Yankton today on a little excursion of their own.

Mr. Nelson is an agricultural engineer and Mr. Vermett owns large tracts of land in Buenos Ayres and they are deeply interested in the raising of cereals. His visit to the celebrated corn belt of South Dakota will be occupied by them in a careful study of the raising of corn and gaining information relative to agriculture in the northwest. They will leave for home on Monday.

In the Divorce Court. YANKTON, S. D., Nov. 4.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—W. H. Neidinger of Brooklyn, N. Y., the well known composer of songs and instructor in music, has a divorce suit now pending before Judge Smith of the judicial circuit. Mr. Neidinger wants a separation from his wife, Emilie H. because of her bad habits. She resides in McCook, Union county, in this state, just across the river from Sioux City. He has a cottage at McCook, but teaches music in Sioux City.
