

CAUGHT IN MOSHER'S WRECK

Several Well Known Lincoln Men Will Be Drawn Into Court.

HISTORY OF SPECULATION IN NOTES

They Endorsed Accommodation Paper and Will Be Forced to Pay a Number of Heavy Claims as a Result.

LINCOLN, Feb. 26.—(Special to The Bee.)—The enormous amount of litigation that has followed the suspension of the Capital National bank is now further increased, and it is now more likely that a number of well known business men and capitalists of Lincoln will be drawn into court who have not hitherto figured in the case.

On January 2, 1892, three weeks prior to the failure of the bank, Mosher sold to Lang Bros. of Des Moines a note for $5,000 due in six months and signed by W. W. Marsh. The man Marsh stood in about the same relation to Mosher as did the man Hurbutt, who signed so many of the bogus Western Manufacturing company notes.

On December 16, 1892, a month and two days prior to the bank's failure Lang Bros. purchased a similar note for $5,000 as above. On January 5, 1893, Yonker Bros. of Des Moines purchased a note for $12,000 endorsed by Mosher and Outcall and signed by L. Meyer and J. D. Macfarland.

It seems to be pretty well settled that Mosher and Outcall, and especially the latter, will never be able to pay the enormous claims against them. Accordingly L. Meyer and J. D. Macfarland will be called into court and made joint defendants with Mosher. It is not asserted that Meyer and Macfarland had any interest in the bogus notes, for they may be classed as the same kind of paper as that which flooded the market from the Western Manufacturing company. Meyer and Macfarland signed the notes, or endorsed them, rather, as a mere matter of speculation.

The insurance companies, after a long session, holding out in intention of not paying the $5,000 insurance upon the Schulz High school building, have at last begun to pay the loss in full.

Some time during last night thieves forced a ransom over the front door of the old Two Clubs saloon on N. Tenth and Eleventh streets. Once inside they carried away the cash box and broke open a safe in the kitchen, taking therefrom a small amount of change. The cash box contained $12.50 and was found early this morning by Detective Malone on Eighth street, between M and N streets.

Funeral of Miss Lulu Hedrick. TECUMSEH, Feb. 26.—(Special to The Bee.)—The funeral services of Miss Lulu E. Hedrick, who died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hedrick, this city, at the age of 19 years, Thursday, were held in the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday at 11 o'clock. The funeral was attended by about 800 people. Rev. W. B. Alexander delivered the sermon, which was an eloquent one. The deceased was taken sick with pertussis about three months ago, and visiting friends in Lincoln, the effects of which caused her death.

Nance County Will Have a Court House. FULLERTON, Neb., Feb. 26.—(Special to The Bee.)—On the morning of March 5 last the court house in this city was consumed by fire. The county officers, who are scattered over the city wherever they could find quarters, much to the annoyance and inconvenience of the public generally, have agreed to build a new court house. The Board of Supervisors of Nance county submitted a proposition to issue bonds in the sum of $25,000 to rebuild the court house and jail, which was voted upon at an election held June 3 last. The bonds were defeated by fifty votes. At the January meeting of the Board of Supervisors another proposition was made to issue bonds to the amount of $17,000 and the election was ordered to be held February 24, 1894. This proposition was adopted by a vote of 10 to 2. The rate of interest to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent and to be paid at any time after ten years shall have elapsed.

As to Draining the Platte Bottoms. FREMONT, Feb. 26.—(Special to The Bee.)—The question of drainage of the Platte bottom has been appealed directly to the people of the Platte bottom regardless of location and petitions to the board of supervisors are being extensively circulated. It is now proposed to push the matter as a general interest.

Bootleggers Favor Prohibition. DECATUR, Neb., Feb. 26.—(Special to The Bee.)—The business of "bootlegging" whiskey seems to be conducted to quite an extent in this town. It is expected that a temperance town would be expected. On Wednesday no less than twelve Indians were drunk on the streets here. Some of them were loaded with whiskey and were with freewheelers. It will be a choice of two evils at the coming village election, and no doubt a license board will be elected. Whether the temperance people know it or not, they certainly have the heartiest support of the bootlegging element in suppressing the saloon.

Had Trouble in Securing a Jury. NEBRASKA CITY, Feb. 26.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—The libel case against Z. T. White and H. W. Hoerath for hanging Hon. J. Sterling Morton and son Carl in effigy was called for trial in the district court this afternoon. Hon. John C. Watson and D. W. Hoerath appeared for the prosecution and W. C. Sloan and W. F. Moran for the defense. The entire afternoon was spent in securing a jury, more than fifty men having been summoned. BULLETS OVER A GARDEN TABLE

Italian Accuses Another of Cheating and Shoots Him Three Times.

WOUNDS ARE PROBABLY FATAL ONES

Murderous Assault Began from an Angry Crowd and Escaped by Flying Ball Narrowly Missed the Head of a Sleeping Babe—The Details.

Carmino Felice was shot and probably fatally injured yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock by Pepino Gigliotti.

Both parties retired in an old tumble-down house, 2035 Poppleton avenue. Four or five men had been playing cards there all day and there were frequent disputes as to who won. They were not playing for anything but for fun. Later in the afternoon Felice and Gigliotti took part in a game and were on opposite sides. Several times Felice claimed that he was being cheated and that some of those playing against him, and he pointed to Gigliotti, were taking the cards and hiding them. After several games had been played and Felice lost the most of them he became very angry, and when he lost another game he got up and accused Gigliotti of cheating him and threatened to punish him. He then drew a revolver and shot Felice three times, once through the right lung, once in the left side of the breast and near the left shoulder, and once through the right shoulder and came out through the shoulder. The one that entered the right lung it is thought cannot be recovered. Dr. Sawyer, the man and said that while he might live, the chances are greatly against it, and the fact of hitting it up for the next six weeks is all that is left.

Gigliotti Gets Away. Felice is a laborer and a single man. The Italians at the house where he lived say he was a well known and that they liked him. A fellow called Petrio was present at the shooting. He said in rather poor English that he had seen Felice often during the day and had seen Felice get up from his chair and strike Gigliotti. He then said that Gigliotti left the room to shoot them if they did not stop. There were two of the bullets entered the wall near the entrance of the room. After he had shot all the cartridges in the revolver he left the room and ran as fast as he could. Gigliotti, however, returned several times to see if he was being pursued and as he saw the mob that was hot on his trail he stood still and threatened to shoot them if they did not let him go. He got away and Felice, bleeding from three wounds, ran as rapidly as he could from the house and called for the police. He was taken to the hospital and will soon be discharged and took him into Wilke Sauter's drug store, corner of Twentieth and Pierce streets, where he was taken to the hospital and Officer Diberner dressed the wounds.

Described by Witnesses. He said he did not strike Gigliotti, and that the only thing he did was to tell him to stop. He then told how he had been shot. A visit was made to the locality where the shooting occurred. There are six families in the neighborhood and all of them are unable to speak English. Mrs. Gigliotti, the wife of the probable murderer, was seen. She could not relate the facts of the case. She said that she was upstairs, and that when she heard the shooting she ran out the door in time to see her husband running up the street. She said that she saw Gigliotti and that he stayed back. Phillip Konstans, uncle of Gigliotti, said he heard the shooting and went to the basement where the men were gathered. He saw Gigliotti and that he was already shot and Gigliotti had got away.

Gigliotti has a sister living at Nineteenth and Union, Pacific railroad tracks. The shanty she lives in is a peculiar one. It has a couple of doors on each side, and it was said that the shanty was hidden here. The place was thoroughly searched, but the only information that could be obtained was that Gigliotti had been there many times, and that he had been seen by one of the neighbors in a high carnival, drinking wine and smoking his tobacco. All the shanties were searched, but no trace of the missing man could be obtained.

Nearly Killed a Babe. Tony Payne, who lives in the same house with Gigliotti and in whose room the shooting occurred, had just got home when the bullet struck the child. He was there too late when he came in to see the place of the occurrence and also showed him the place on the bed where the baby was lying. The baby was taken to the hospital and was already shot and Gigliotti had got away.

The first number of the American Encyclopedic Dictionary can now be obtained at the Bee office for one dollar and two coupons. This is done to enable all readers to judge for themselves the good points claimed for this great work.

The above picture is an exact reproduction of a valuable oil painting which was permitted to copy from a collection in a gentleman's private gallery. It tells a weird and powerful story. The vessel is going upon the rocks! The wind and the waves are so deafening that the sound of the bell on the buoy cannot be heard! In her agony the mermaid seizes the standard from which the bell is seized and seeks to ring the alarm to those in deadly peril. There are millions of people in America today that are drifting toward the rocks of destruction and do not know it! They have strange, unaccountable feelings and pain in various parts of the body. They are often restless, feverish, and far too often afflicted with headaches, indigestion and general despondency. They know that something is wrong, but think, perhaps, it is only temporary and will soon pass away. They do not realize that these feelings are the first symptoms of Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that unless prompt and efficient action is taken they are certain to increase, until finally they end in death. It is the part of wisdom for all such people to stop, think, and heed the ringing alarm, which is given them in such season. There is but one thing for all such persons to do when this realization comes to them, and that is to act promptly and secure the best possible aid which the world now knows for these troubles. That aid has been tested and tried. It has been proven to be efficient in the cases of thousands of men and women who were in the greatest danger, and it stands alone today. It is Warner's Safe Cure. What it has done for others it can do again. It is a true "friend in need" and never fails when called upon.

It is with no desire to be an alarmist that the above picture is reproduced and the above words written. It is only with the hope that those who read may stop, reflect and act, and not permit the enemy to steal into the system, poisoning the life, ruining the health and establishing misery, when it can be so easily avoided.

relinquish his command and take a leave of absence on June 1. General Nelson A. Miles, Chicago, commanding the Department of the Missouri, is expected to take general Lovett's present command when the latter leaves it in June. It is said that General Miles will be General Schofield's successor upon retirement next year, and that General John R. Brooke is to be detailed to the Chicago command when General Miles goes to New York next summer. Lieutenant Hammond, now at Meade, will likely be detailed to teach military tactics at the Doane college of Crete. Lieutenant Hammond is a Congregationalist by faith, and most of the other requirements of the college.

It looks as though the troubles of Major J. W. Wham, paymaster, would never end. His last trouble is in securing bonds. He has been detailed for station on the Pacific coast, but is now on a leave of absence trying to get somebody to make good his bond, which he cannot resume his duties. Since he has been declared to be of sound mind and body and not entitled to retirement, he must stay on the active list, and cannot qualify for the position which he holds on the Army Register. It is a remarkable coincidence, and is puzzling the authorities, that the accident occurred on the day he would like to retire and relieve him of his embarrassments, but there seems to be no ground for his retirement. Since his last release of some years ago no one wants to become his successor.

After conferring on the subject, Secretaries Lamont and Herbert have decided that there shall be no contests at foot ball between the cadets at Annapolis and West Point. This action is taken because of a copy relation, which is an academic matter, are a detriment to discipline and to the studies of the cadets.

The retirement from active service on February 22 by order of law of Major John Brooke, surgeon, is announced. Second Lieutenant Edward R. Chrisman, who is detailed to the University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho. The extension of leave granted First Lieutenant Sidney E. Stuart, Second Infantry, is further extended ten days.

First Lieutenant Ashton B. Heyl, assistant surgeon, will be relieved from duty at Fort Niobrara, Neb., on the arrival there of First Lieutenant Thomas S. Bratton, assistant surgeon, and will report to the commanding officer, Columbus Barracks, O., for duty at that depot.

Leave for one year, to take effect April 1, is granted First Lieutenant James L. Dray, Seventeenth Infantry, in the hospital.

Major Amos L. Varney, ordnance department, will proceed from Indianapolis to the works of the Morgan Engineering company in Chicago, Ill., on business pertaining to the inspection of the ten-inch Gordon disappearing gun carriage, and upon the completion thereof will return to his station at Detroit.
