

CLOSES IN ON SOMEBODY

Lines Draw Around the Probable Murderers of Harry Oswald.

TESTIMONY IS GIVEN WITH RELUCTANCE

Men Who Were at the Dance or Saw the Fight Unwilling to Tell All They Know of the Affair.

The inquisition into the death of Harry Oswald was continued by Coroner Burket yesterday afternoon. A large crowd filled the lobby of the council chamber long before the hour set for holding the inquest was reached. As on the day before Chief Brennan cleared the room of spectators and closed the doors of the chamber. This action did not have any effect on the crowd, for all the afternoon the street and sidewalk in front of police headquarters was blocked by the curious. County Attorney Ballridge was detained in Omaha and the state was represented by Deputy Attorney A. W. Jeffries.

It was 4 o'clock when Ernest Norton, the first witness was placed on the stand. Norton was at the dance Saturday night and was being held by the police as a witness. Saw Oswald leave the hall with Campbell and Clara Schmidt by the side door. Witness said he left the hall by the front door and stood on the corner and saw the crowd around the side entrance. There was considerable noise and some swearing. He didn't see any stones thrown or clubs flourished. Witness said he then walked south on Twenty-fourth street. He met Hicks, who told him there was a man laid out in the rear of Pivonka's saloon. Witness returned and saw Al lying in the alley. Norton then walked to the police station and reported the matter. He then showed two policemen where the body was lying, and then went to his home at Twenty-sixth and O streets.

OSWALD EXPECTED TROUBLE.

Norton said that while up in the hall he heard Oswald tell Campbell that if the Park gang attacked him, he, Oswald, would help him. The next witness was S. F. Logan, who lives at Twenty-sixth and M streets. He left the hall by the side door, and went into the saloon where he remained for a moment, talking with a friend. Saw the crowd start to run toward the rear door, but did not follow. After a long questioning, during which nothing new was brought out, the witness was excused and Walter E. Hicks was called, who said he was about the first one to leave the hall after the dance. He was escorting a woman home, and crossed the alley, where he saw a man lying in the mud, and remarked that "some man in awful drunk." At Twenty-sixth street he parted with the woman and returned to Pivonka's, where he met Sam Logan. Witness asked Logan if he had any man lying in the alley, and Logan answered that he had got up and gone. Oswald had not gone, however, as witness went back and found him there. He then called for Logan, who did not respond, but Norton did, and they both walked to the police station and reported the matter.

W. A. Hicks was the next witness. He said he went to the dance with his brother, but left before the last dance and went to Albright and did not see the fight. During the evening he heard Park and Campbell, arguing about something, but paid no attention to the talk; did not know Oswald.

L. Daly, 533 North Twenty-fifth street, testified that he passed Pivonka's saloon at 9:30 o'clock and saw Pritchard on the sidewalk talking to a woman; heard him say, "I will get that" before morning, but did not know who Pritchard referred to. Charles Sive, Thirty-second and I streets, met the four Ford boys, John, Mike, Jack and James, and they all went to the dance. Nothing special developed during Sive's testimony, except the statement that as he left the hall to go on the witness stand Mike Ford called to him to be careful what he said, and not let any two men get to questioning him at once. This statement was only brought out after a good deal of questioning. Finally, the witness admitted that he saw one man down in the alley with another man on top of him, but did not pay any attention to them. Some one called out, "Here come the police," and he hurried along and caught up with the rest of the gang, which was going west on L street.

DOZEN MEN ON TWO.

Arthur Smith said that he went to the dance about 10:20 o'clock and stayed till close. Heard some one yell fight, and he saw ten or a dozen men jump into Oswald and Campbell. He heard Oswald say, "I don't want to fight," and he saw a fellow strike Oswald in the back of the neck, and he fell at the alley crossing with both hands up.

Witness did not know the names of any of the men who were fighting. The man who knocked Oswald down had a beard and wore a low-cut coat, dark pants, tan shoes and had light hair and was smooth shaven. During the fight Oswald was knocked down two or three times.

After a recess of half an hour, during which time Arthur Smith was closed with the county attorney, the taking of testimony was continued with Martin S. O'Connell, an engineer, on the stand. Witness heard that there was a fight at the rear of the building and he went around. The first thing he saw was Campbell picking up Oswald on L street and the pavement. Asked him what was the matter and was told there had been a fight. Campbell was the one man who was picked up, having been struck. Noticed a number of men running west on L street.

Another intermission was taken at this point and Campbell was placed on the rack in the sweat box. Deputy County Attorney Jeffries stated that he was in possession of some valuable information, but was not allowed to propose to bring it out before the coroner's jury. He further said that all of the witnesses were afraid to testify. If they told the truth, they were afraid of being killed by some of the gang.

Fred Parks, who was on the stand Monday, was recalled and gave the names of all those who were at the dance. He said Jim Ford had on a swallow-tail coat and dark tan shoes with pointed toes. Ford was the only man who had on a swallow-tail coat. Then Parks told about his having the fight with Campbell after the dance. When it was over he saw one of the men pick up Oswald and he saw some of his friends running west on L street and ran after them. He did not know who hit Oswald. When asked why he ran, Parks replied that he ran because he was afraid of being arrested for fighting with Campbell. He went to the side door, he said, for the purpose of settling his dispute with Campbell, either by a fight or peacefully. After he clinched with Campbell he saw some one strike Oswald, but did not know who it was. Oswald's name was not mentioned by any of the gang while on the stand.

STORY OF THE FORDS.

Mike Ford was the next witness. He said he was a nephew of Patrick Ford of Omaha. He said that James Ford had on dark clothes and tan shoes. Witness said that the four Fords and Charley Sive left the hall together. At the corner they saw a gang fighting. "Pretty soon the gang went away," continued Ford, "and we went on home." He denied getting into the crowd, because he was afraid of being hit. Parks was the only one in the crowd that he knew. On the way down the street nothing was said about the fight. The reason he ran was because he was afraid of being arrested for being out late.

Witness contradicted several statements made by Parks and his cousin, Mike Ford, and declared that he did not have trouble with any one that night. Adjourned until 9 o'clock this afternoon.

CHANGES HER MIND ABOUT DYING.

Anna Broomfield Takes Rat Poison and Then Calls a Doctor.

Anna Broomfield, a woman living at 1122 Davenport street, had reasons for believing that her husband, George, was "tricking" with another woman at dusk here, so yesterday afternoon she got out the family box of rat poison and took a liberal dose. A few minutes' struggle with rodent killer convinced Anna that she had chosen the wrong route, so she notified a friend, who telephoned for a doctor. After a half an hour's wait the woman was given another start in this troublous world, and late last night was pronounced out of danger. Anna left a long note written on a piece of wall paper, which is in the hands of the officers. George Broomfield was formerly employed as a porter in a barber shop near the corner of Sixteenth and Dodge streets. Of late he has failed to provide for the family and otherwise neglected his wife. He is said to have gone to Chicago.

Reception to the Episcopal Clergy.

Bishop and Mrs. George Worthington gave their regular annual reception to the clergy and members of the Episcopal church in this diocese at Brownell hall last night. The spacious parlors and halls of the seminary had been prettily decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, and a string band composed behind a bank of foliage in the main hall filled the air with sweet strains. The attendance was very large, including all of the clergy and many lay delegates. Those in the city for the purpose of attending the church and society convocations, as well as a large number of townpeople. These annual receptions of the bishop and the estimable wife are very popular. The Brownell hall, as the special rooms at Bishopthorpe were unequalled for the purpose of accommodating the large number which attend.

Candidates Were Inevitably Elsewhere.

A dozen members of the Buchin Ward Business Men's Republican club met at their hall, Eighteenth and Cumming streets, last evening for the purpose of transacting the business of the organization. The meeting was called to order at 9 o'clock by President J. H. MacCall, who presided over the names of nineteen new members were placed on the club roster. A grand rally is to be held at the club, this place at the hall next Tuesday night, at which the principal candidates of the city are booked to speak.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Mayor Vetoes the Resolution Legalizing the Location of Fire Hydrants.

VETO SUSTAINED BY THE COUNCIL

Plans for Repairing the Eleventh Street Viaduct Submitted by the Board of Public Works—One-Line Lamps Unsatisfactory.

There was a very small amount of business in sight when the city council congregated last night. But the members seemed to be disposed to make the most of it, and long discussions on unimportant matters prolonged the session. The ordinance approving the location of fire hydrants, for which there was no authority on the records, was vetoed by Mayor Broach. The veto was sustained. The Omaha Retailers' association protested against the action of the council in suspending the building ordinance to permit the construction of wooden buildings inside the fire limits. Referred to public property and buildings committee.

The Board of Public Works transmitted a communication from Hugh Murphy, relative to paving Third street, from Pierce to Williams, and Pierce street from Third to Fourth. He represented that he had entered into a contract to do the paving in November, 1895. Since then the work had been stopped three times by the city, and he wanted to be allowed to either complete the job or be released. A resolution was passed ordering paving, curbing and guttering committee.

The Board of Public Works transmitted plans and specifications for repairing the Eleventh street viaduct with their approval. Kmet wanted them referred to the South Side delegation, but Wheeler objected, and the matter went to viaduct and electric lights committee, in connection with the city report.

Gas Inspector Gilbert reported that during the bad weather of the past two weeks many of the gas lamps in the suburban districts were not lighted. The service was very unsatisfactory, and a test of 134 burners showed an average of 10-candle power. The report was referred to the gas and electric lights committee, in connection with the city report.

A long petition from local wheelmen recited the fact that the pavement on Cumming street, from Thirty-sixth to Thirty-eighth street, was in very bad condition, and asked that they be accorded the use of the sidewalks. A resolution was passed directing the chief of police to permit the desired privilege.

A proposition from an eastern firm to sell the city some steel cells for jail purposes was ordered returned, with the information that the city had jail fixtures to burn.

E. E. Howell and Brennan, Lovelace & Co. protested against the action of the council in not giving all companies a chance to bid on the boiler insurance policy. While the city had paid a rate of 90 cents, they were willing to write it at 75 cents. Referred to public property and buildings committee.

Paxton & Burgess were given a permit to construct a roof garden on the roof of Creighton hall.

A catch basin was ordered constructed at Twenty-second and Mason streets.

BENEFIT FOR THE FLOWER MISSION

Next Sun Realizes for This Charitable Enterprise.

A musical and literary entertainment was given last evening at the First Congregational church under the auspices of the Emma Flower mission. The "Euterpe" club, composed of Misses Claire, Chamberlain, Cee, Balbach, Allen, and Mrs. T. J. Mahoney, violinists, and Misses Josephine Allen and May Balbach, mandolin players, gave a number of selections, which created the musical treat of the evening. "Them Flowers" a reading by Mrs. J. J. Dickey, and "The Legend of the Organ Builder," and it was to defray the expenses of the entertainment, which were large, are for the benefit of the Emma Flower mission. The flower mission, which was organized by Mrs. George A. Hoagland nearly two years ago in memorial to her daughter, Miss Emma Hoagland, has steadily grown in its ministrations of mercy by brightening the various hospitals of the city, until at the present time ever 500 patients of flower mission are benefited semi-monthly among the patients. Many of the flowers are donated, but the greater portion are bought of the florists, and it was to defray the expenses of the entertainment was given last evening, which is to be one of a series.
