There is a vacancy in the naval cadetship and Congressman Hager will have an opportunity at the close of the present school year of naming two more candidates for the position. His alternate, J. D. Gilmore of Oak, who failed to be appointed because he just resigned for reasons that are not made public. Young Meyers was almost heartbroken over his failure to pass the necessary physical examination. In his scholarly examination he stood at the head of the large class examined at the time. The physical defect found to exist in his eyesight was due to his inability to distinguish colors. His friends say this is not a natural defect, but attributes it to the great strain which he voluntarily put on his eyes after his arrival at Annapolis in the time allowed him to review his studies. He spent his nights poring over his books until he finally became exhausted and fell into a deep sleep. He was awakened by the sound of a gun firing and he was told to get up and get ready for the examination. He was so tired that he could not see the colors and he was told to get up and get ready for the examination.

Iowa Law Makers to Go on an Exposition Jacket. LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY.

Prospect for a Lively Contest Over the Temple Amendment. Appropriation Bills in Much Excitement.

DES MOINES, Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The legislature adjourned this morning at 11 o'clock, and tomorrow will meet in a special train to visit the exposition and confer with the management relative to an Iowa appropriation. About 130 of the 150 members have agreed to join the party, which will leave here at 8 a. m. on the Rock Island and reach Omaha at 11. The train will leave Omaha at 5 p. m. and reach Des Moines at 8.

The house passed the joint resolution for the amendment of the constitution to change the representation in the house, giving every county one member and the largest county two, it carried—75 to 15. It has only to pass the senate to be submitted to the people at a special election the coming summer.

The house passed the bill extending the time for railroads to equip with automatic couplers and the time for the completion of the law to reorganize the law in relation to mechanics' liens. It provides that there shall be no priority between subcontractors' liens and the lien of a contractor. Also a bill to reorganize the law in relation to mechanics' liens. It provides that there shall be no priority between subcontractors' liens and the lien of a contractor.

The senate passed Mitchell's bill allowing the state to contract with banks carrying county money on deposit for the payment of interest on the balance. Four negative votes were cast by members.

There is prospect for a contest in the senate over the Temple amendment, whose passage was expected by railroad opponents. Chairman Palmer of the railroad committee wants it amended to provide that railroad employees members of relief associations may not be discharged on account of their disability may continue to carry their policies in relief associations if they wish. The amendment has been quietly discussed outside the committee but not presented there. A contest is assured if it is presented, as it will be a matter of some practical importance to a considerable class of employees.

HEALY HAS IDEAS. A letter from Senator Healy, who is in Massachusetts and Michigan investigating the case of the state, says he has become satisfied from his investigations in New York that the strong central board of directors is the best plan and that Iowa must adopt it.

John in Fact and Fiction. P. Hopkinson Smith, the novelist and story writer, has been lecturing in Iowa, telling what he knows on various subjects, and learning much in return, about the Hawkeye state. Everyone knows about Iowa's grain crops, and her learned and talented sons and daughters, says the Keokuk Gaze, but it remained for Mr. Smith to find a new way for Iowa's grain. He is soon to publish in book form his story of "Caleb West," now running as a serial in the Atlantic Monthly, and which he regards as a great deal in Iowa City. Walking along the street, he was struck with a photograph in a window. "That's Caleb West," he mentally ejaculated, and went in to negotiate with the photographer. The picture was a photograph of Mr. Conkle, a former living near Iowa City. Mr. Smith purchased two of the photographs and sent one of them immediately to his illustrators. So now Iowa will probably appear as the Caleb West in the Atlantic Monthly. The head was nicely bearded, his hair and eyes were recalling the Apostle Paul. There is a mass of thick, wavy hair, and the eyes have that gleam, far-sighted expression generally found in people living apart from their fellow men.

Whenever Mr. Smith is in need of a hero for any of his stories, he can do no better than take the first Iowa girl he meets.
