

FUTURE FATE OF THE LAGOON

Will it Remain to Beautify Kountze Park or Vanish Completely?

PARK BOARD CONSIDERS THE QUESTION

If the Beautiful Centerpiece of the Court of Honor is Retained, More Land Must Be Purchased for the Park Site.

Shall the lagoon, the sparkling gem in the center of the beautiful court of honor of the exposition, be filled up or shall it be retained permanently as a centerpiece for a handsome city park? This is a question that must soon be answered...

The Park board has talked the matter over and appears to have but one sentiment regarding it. The members feel that if it is a possibility the lagoon should be preserved...

Kountze park, which will succeed the exposition, consists of eleven acres. It is wider than the lagoon, but extends only from Nineteenth street to Twenty-first street.

While the board has talked over the matter the members have not reached any satisfactory solution of the problem.

Wants the Lagoon Retained.

He says: "There is no question that by retaining the lagoon and forming a beautiful park about it the property in the entire vicinity will be greatly benefited and increased in value."

Commissioner Evans would also like to see the lagoon retained. If the addition of ground can be secured in any way, however, this is found to be impossible...

Nothing will be done in connection with the matter this year, however. In the first place it is not believed that the buildings can be removed in time.

CORN SUPPLY AND DEMAND

Some Reasons Given for the Expected Increase in Prices.

ESTIMATES SHOW A DECIDED SHORTAGE

Home Requirements and Demand for Export More Than Equal the Probable Amount—Wheat Shares Somewhat in the Situation.

Those whose business it is to keep in touch with the grain market and who estimate the coming crop of the country at large as freely as a farmer will guess at the yield of his twenty-acre tract are predicting good prices for corn during the coming year. They base their statement upon figures which they allege show there will be a deficiency in the yield for the season. It is estimated that it will require 2,000,000,000 bushels to satisfy the needs of this country alone. The exports for the last year were 268,744,520 bushels, against 178,948,265 for the year previous, which was the largest on record up to that time, and the exports so far this year show but little decrease in the figures for last year.

In 1888 and 1889 there was a surplus of the crop carried over to the following year, but last year the yield was below the requirements, and this surplus was largely reduced, until on July 1 last the visible supply of corn in this country was placed at 22,574,000 bushels. On the report made by the Agricultural department on October 1 last the yield for this year was estimated at 1,880,146,000 bushels, much the smallest yield since 1884. But the professional grain men say all the trade indications point to a much smaller yield than that estimated by the Agricultural department.

A conservative estimate of the corn yield for this year is said to be 1,750,000,000 bushels, which, with the estimate of stock in farmers' hands at the beginning of the year, and the visible supply of last July, makes a total supply available for this year of 2,172,900,000 bushels. With the amount required for home consumption and the indicated demand for export experienced grain men figure there will be a shortage in the supply this year and on this condition base their prediction that the price will advance as the winter comes on.

The outlook for wheat is also said to be unusually good. Men who make it a study watching the conditions which affect the market say there are small stocks abroad, which with increased consumption will create a heavy demand for our wheat. It is reported that the Russian government will this year be forehanding and is now buying up much of the product of that country to be held in reserve for the famines which visit some sections of the empire almost yearly. To such an extent has this been true that nearly all the wheat offered in that country this year has been taken by the government for these possible emergencies. This has removed Russia for the time being as a competitor of the American producer and gives a better field for our wheat.

WHO LEASES LABOR TEMPLE

Question Which Seems Unsettled Between a Number of Interested Parties Just at Present.

Labor Temple is involved in financial difficulties over its present location, and suits have been instituted against it. The building in which the temple is located has changed hands since the rooms were located there, and that is the cause of the present trouble. A year ago last February the property passed into the hands of an eastern company, and the McCague Investment company became the agent. The officers of the temple allege they pay their rent regularly to the representative of the new owner, and that the original owners assert they are entitled to this money, which the temple officials deny.

D. C. Patterson, representing the old company, says the money he wants amounts to $200, and is for rent due from the time the building was originally rented until it passed into the hands of the new owners. He brought suit against the Central Labor union and obtained judgment, but when it came to levying to satisfy this judgment, he found the Central Labor union had no property, and also that it was not the proper party to sue. Action was then brought against the Labor Temple company and another judgment was secured, and to satisfy this the rent due the temple from the Central Labor union was garnished.

HITCHCOCK AGAINST TIME

Pittsfield in Triplicate Gives a Perfectly Lovely Exhibition to Admiring Third Warders.

Between seventy-five and a hundred persons wandered in out of the cold Monday night, to attend a meeting at Creighton hall, where the three-tinged aspirant for Dave Mercer's seat in congress was billed to make things warm enough for anybody. It was a warm meeting, to be sure. Those who attended were given the unusual spectacle of Ed Rothery presiding at a meeting where Gilbert M. Hitchcock was the principal speaker. Mr. Rothery called time promptly, introduced Mr. Hitchcock to the multitude, cautioned him against fouling, hitting on breakaways and biting during clinches, and then the free silver, initiative and referendum, free trade, anything-to-get-elected candidate, proceeded to punch the wadded out of straw men as fast as they could be set in front of the speaker. He made the republican financial policy, he ridiculed the republican revenue policy, he showed the mistakes made by Mr. McKinley in fighting the war with Spain without reference to the "Yellows," and finally proved beyond a shadow of doubt that neither Dave Mercer nor any other Omaha man had anything to do with getting the government appropriation for the exposition. This was all done by Senator Allen.

After Mr. Hitchcock had finished his address in the most approved style of Ed Rothery Rothery awarded him the prize offered for the event, and Attorney General Smyth did a bag-punching turn. Mr. Smyth is inimitable in this respect and the way he landed on what was left after Mr. Hitchcock had finished was enough to make the crowd wonder if the premier event of the evening hadn't been put off till the last. When Mr. Smyth had finished his share of the evening's entertainment the Third warders who were there returned to their wonted avocations with considerable satisfaction at having been in at one of the warmest affairs ever pulled off on a cold night in Omaha.

HAS SOME MATTERS TO MEND

Republican County Committee's Meeting on Saturday Will Consider Several Difficulties.

It is probable that the republican county committee will be called together next Saturday afternoon to take action upon some matters of business. Chief of this will be the position the eighth man will occupy on the executive committee. Chairman Burbank was authorized to appoint a committee of seven, but in making up his appointees he decided to recognize both factions in South Omaha. This city was only entitled to one member, it became necessary for the chairman to exceed his authority, and he appointed two members. At the first meeting of the executive committee the eighth man was not allowed to be present.

and some bad feeling was engendered. The county committee will be asked to reconsider the action of the county convention and endorse the committee as appointed by Chairman Burbank.

It is also rumored that V. B. Walker will withdraw from the legislative ticket and that the name of Rev. J. C. Owens will be substituted. Confirmation of this rumor cannot be obtained and Mr. Walker denies that he has any intention of resigning. However, it is not improbable that the committee will consider the matter of reorganizing the ticket.

Stockholders Should Have a Chance to Say What They Will Do with Their Own Money.

OMAHA, Oct. 17.—To the Editor of the Bee: I read in The Bee that the bank account of the exposition shows a balance in its favor of about $300,000. I have made a rough estimate of the probable revenues for the remaining two weeks and of the subscriptions I deduct the sum of delinquents and of donations. The result points to a rebate of about 75 cents on the dollar subscribed.

Subscribed for what purpose? Read the articles of incorporation. I hear men discussing the best means of disposing of the surplus money of the exposition. One of these thoughtless financiers would have the board of directors hang the whole fund up to be distributed in the shape of bonuses to induce factories to local in Omaha. Another would take part of the exposition money and with it construct an auditorium. The board of directors has already voted $10,000 of this money for a history of the exposition.

Has the idea ever occurred to these generous spirits that the funds now standing to the credit of the exposition are the sole property of the stockholders? Is it not true that the managers and directors of the exposition have the custody of this money only to further the aims and objects of an incorporation? See articles of incorporation. Is there anything in the articles authorizing the board to invest $10,000 or any other sum in a history or in anything other than an exposition?

After all, would it not be well to give the stockholders a chance to say what they'll do with their own money? H. B. J.

While Rev. Father McDevitt was at the city jail yesterday morning waiting to see a friend who was in there, his attention was attracted to a distressing case, which involved aged Mrs. Shoepfer, arrested for shoplifting. Interesting himself in the case because of the story the woman told, the reverend gentleman secured her release.

Mrs. Shoepfer, who said her home is at Council Bluffs, said she had stolen the articles from the Boston Store to enable her to buy medicine for her son, an ex-volunteer soldier, who was at the point of death of typhoid fever contracted at Chickamauga. She said that he had been her sole support and that when he was stricken down she had nothing to eat and no money to obtain medical attention for her boy. His sufferings and the pangs of hunger drove her to steal. Mrs. Shoepfer said that but three months ago she lost her husband. Her story touched Judge Gordon as it had Father McDevitt and he gladly released the woman.

Little Olin, a waitress at the Dodge restaurant, who was also arrested for the same offense, was released by Judge Gordon on a twenty days' suspended sentence.

On the night of September 21 at a local hotel Mrs. M. C. Bragg, a guest from Quincy, Ill., while retiring for the night, was surprised and startled to see a long arm reach through the window of her room and grab up all her jewelry that was on a small table near the window and disappear. Since that night Detective Keyser has been working on the case. Yesterday he successfully ended his search at the county jail. In the person of S. A. Rice, sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Judge Gordon for stealing clothing, he found the long-armed thief who robbed Mrs. Bragg. When confronted by the facts in the case Rice broke down and confessed and told the detective
