Motion for New Trial and Granting of Superseas Bond in Moore Case Denied.

JURY ACCUSED OF TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE

Bondsman Are Not Responsible for What Occurs After Saloon Keeper's Death—The Mandamus Case Now Being Heard.

Although all jurymen have been dismissed except those who are engaged on unfinished cases, the February term of district court will continue in session at least another week for the purpose of passing on motions and various other routine matters that remain on the docket.

In the Moore case the court overruled the motion for a new trial and refused to grant a superseas bond as requested by City Attorney Council. The attorney for Moore insisted that a license should be granted in order to protect their client from prosecution by individuals while the injunction is pending in the supreme court.

In refusing to grant the superseas bond the court admitted that his previous decision in the injunction proceedings was contrary to the general understanding of the provisions of the Slocumb law, and that it was antagonistic to the dictum of the supreme court.

Interesting to Saloon Keepers.

In passing on the demurrer in the damage suit of Lena Burwell against Mary Cummings, as administratrix of the estate of Thomas Cummings, the court ruled on two important points in the law as it applies to the obligations of saloon keepers.

In considering the demurrer the court decided that if it could be shown that Burwell procured liquor at the saloon and then went out and committed a crime for which he was imprisoned and his family deprived of their means of support, a damage suit would certainly lie against the saloon keeper and his bondsmen.

Has Power to Select His Own Clerks.

It was nearly noon when the case in which Ed J. Dee sought to procure a writ of mandamus to compel the county clerk to reorganize the Board of County Commissioners was argued, but the court dismissed with the usual recess and heard the arguments to the writ and ruled that the county clerk has the exclusive power to select the clerks in his own office.

A Jury Gets a "Honest"

In sustaining a motion for a new trial in the damage suit of John Lind against the Omaha street railway company the court took occasion to give the jury a vigorous talking over. A verdict of $1 was given the plaintiff and the court declared that this was a monstrous travesty of justice.

Damage Suits.

Lyman Van Nostrand, through his next of kin, has begun a $5,000 damage suit in the district court against Landlord Frank J. Costas of the Meyer hotel on account of a charge of vagrancy which was made against him last February.

SYSTEMATIC STREET WORK

Cleaning to Be Done as Thoroughly as the Funds Will Permit.

MAIN STREETS TO GET MOST ATTENTION

City is to Be Divided into Districts and Each Gang Will Have a Permanent Territory—Politics Barred Out.

With the advent of balmy weather there has been a corresponding increase in the cleaning of the city. The Omaha street cleaning has commenced. When it is completed the city will not be as spick and span as its citizens desire nor will the adage that "cleanliness is next to godliness" be strictly observed during the rest of the year.

Three gangs of men, twenty-four in all, and all necessary teams, are now engaged in scraping the winter's filth, mud, debris and contagion from the downtown streets. This work, however, is not preliminary. Chairman Rosewater and the street commissioner Beverly are in conference regarding the campaign of the coming season, and expect that within a week, or perhaps longer, the plan will be completed and systematic cleaning will be started.

In order to clean the streets as they should be cleaned, and as Omaha's citizens would like them, $30,000 would be needed, says Chairman Rosewater. "The levy for the purpose will not be $15,000, so that it is easily understood that some of the streets will have to be dirtier some of the time. This will mean that while the downtown streets will be cleaned every day, other streets will have to be cleaned with a sweeping every other day, or every third day, and even only once a week. We are now considering to what streets we shall administer these several degrees of cleanliness."

The street cleaning will be conducted this year on a systematic plan that has not been possible in past years. We propose to divide the city into cleaning districts. Those in which the streets will be cleaned once a week will be able to make the rounds in exactly a week. The smallest districts will be in the downtown center of the district, where the streets will be swept every day.

"The purpose of this plan is to secure the best possible results. We will assign a gang to each of these districts and it will remain there during the year. It will therefore know just what work it will have to do, and can do the best work because it will know its territory. The organization is to be a permanent one. That is, every man employed will be informed that he can hold his job as long as he does his work and not a minute longer. Politics will be absolutely barred out."

Ireland's Chance for Red Hat.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A special to the Daily News from Washington says: "Friends of Archbishop Ireland in Washington say he had accepted the appointment as one of the commissioners to the disarmament conference called to meet at The Hague before the end of the year. They also assert that his appointment was objected to by Italy and that Great Britain endorsed the objections. After several cablegrams were exchanged between Washington and Rome the archbishop withdrew his name. His action in withdrawing was sanctioned by the pope."

The Sullivan family, with the exception of William, who was married, occupied two rooms in a tenement in the rear of 1315 Middle street. They moved in Thursday night. Anthony Fitzpatrick, who occupied an adjoining room, was placed under arrest with Mrs. McQuade, a neighbor woman.

All members of the family are positive they are not guilty of the murder of William Sullivan. They also had the bodies of the dead father and daughter. The son, William, was sent for. It is believed there will be no more deaths.

STRANGE DEATH OF FAMILY

Surviving Members Behave queerly and Are Locked Up Pending Investigation.

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—John Sullivan and his daughter, Mrs. Minnie Dunn, who lived at 1215 Middle street, are dead and their deaths are surrounded by mystery.

Yesterday William Sullivan, a son of the dead man, visited the residence on Middle street and discovered his father and sister dead and his mother and Christy Dunn, a nephew, seriously ill. Instead of notifying the proper authorities William locked the dead ones in and took his mother and sister to his home. Today when they had recovered from the effects of their illness the family returned to the Middle street residence and then called in the police.

The Sullivan family, with the exception of William, who was married, occupied two rooms in a tenement in the rear of 1315 Middle street. They moved in Thursday night. Anthony Fitzpatrick, who occupied an adjoining room, was placed under arrest with Mrs. McQuade, a neighbor woman.
