HARD ON THE HESSIAN FLY

Snow helps Wheat and Frost Kills the Dangerous Pest.

BRAIN MEN PLEASED WITH THE PROSPECT

Prevalence of Malaria Still Serious, but the End of the Winter Wheat Bug is a Blessing.

There has been an abundance of opinion that the winter wheat bug, the snow we have seen so far, and the winter wheat, which are the most serious pests of the wheat crop, are being killed, either in the way of moulting and by killing any of the present ones which may have been hatched out.

The frost cannot hurt the wheat until it has joined, said W. S. Dexter of the Wisconsin company. "The snow, which I understand was heavier out at Hastings, was not heavy enough to be of any real service in ending the dry conditions which have prevailed. Out in the state this morning they are saying this cold weather is a splendid thing, for it must have killed the flies. They say that any of the larvae which had hatched out could not have helped being killed by the cold. We all hope so, if the fly is as widely distributed as they say it is."

"This snow is the best kind of moisture," said Floyd J. Campbell. "While it was a very light snow, it yet had a good deal of moisture in it, and some of this will be wasted by running off. The snow will help the wheat very much. You can't freeze wheat before it is jointed, and that will not be until May. The fly does not appear either, until that time, at least in a harmful way."

J. E. Von Dorn was also of the opinion that the snow had been rather beneficial, although too light to be of help for more than a few days.

Long Fought Fight Against Trade-Stamp Ends at St. Paul

Mr. William Kennedy, advertising manager for The Bennett Co., has received a letter from the manager of the Green Trading Stamp company at St. Paul regarding a boycott organized by the St. Paul Grocers' association against the operation of the ubiquitous little green sticker some time ago. "The Sperry & Hutchinson company brought suit against the association for interfering with their business. The case was heard before Judge Lewis in the district court, and the learned judge has just handed down his decision, which in substance is as follows:

"The court declares that A. J. Ries, acting as president of the Grocers' association, J. J. Ryan, its secretary, and J. W. Lux, a prominent member and one of its board of directors, deliberately took steps to induce many St. Paul grocers to break legal contracts with the Sperry & Hutchinson company.

"It declares that the other members of the Grocers' association had little or no part in the contract breaking campaign, and little interest in it. The efforts to force St. Paul grocers to repudiate legal obligations and deliberately refuse to carry out contracts into which they had entered, the court finds, was confined to the men mentioned, and against these the court directs a permanent injunction."

The decision of the court is the end of a long fight by the Grocers' association against the trading stamps. Its officers thought it possible to force retailers to take a hostile stand. They thought it possible to force them into breaking their contracts, and in one or two instances succeeded. The court now rules against such a proceeding and says that the defendants, officers of the Grocers' association, had no right to take the stand they adopted.

The suit was one of the incidents of the campaign opened and waged by the retail grocers against the trading stamp feature of the retail trade.

The members of the Grocers' association as well as the officers were made defendants. It was begun prior to the time when the plaintiffs began to do business in St. Paul and had been continued to the United States district court, which sold out to the plaintiffs December 21, 1904.

CASE GOES TO STATE COURT

Judge Munger Remands Land Suit to Thurston County.

TITLE TO INDIAN LAND IS INVOLVED

Question of Descent of Property and Right to Money Paid as Rental May Have to Go to Supreme Court.

Judge Munger has handed down a memorandum opinion in the case of William Reese against Watawee Reese, Omaha Indians, remanding the case back to the district court of Thurston county, Nebraska, from which it was transferred to the United States circuit court, on the general ground that no federal question is involved in the case.

The suit is an intricate one, involving a number of peculiar points of law which, in the opinion of Judge Munger, will have eventually to be settled by the United States supreme court.

The defendant is the widow of John Reese, an Omaha Indian, to whom certain lands in controversy in the suit were allotted. Upon the death of John Reese the title to the land descended to his son, Omgagire, whose death, shortly followed that of his father. The widow then took possession of the land as the heir-at-law of her deceased husband. She subsequently married again, one Harlan, and has in the interim taken the land to other parties and devoted the rental proceeds to her own uses.

The plaintiff in the case, William Reese, is the father of the deceased John Reese, and he claims the land as reverting to him, as being the nearest of blood kin to John Reese. He not only claims the land, but demands the rental proceeds which have in the meanwhile amounted to some $800 or more.

Two or more intervenors to the suit claim some right to the premises through relationship to Reese. Among them is Mrs. Anna Sloan, wife of Thomas L. Sloan, who asks that the Indian agent, J. F. Mackay, withhold certain lease funds in his possession that have accrued from the rental of the land until the matter can be definitely settled by the courts.

Judge Munger, in his decision, holds that neither Mrs. Sloan nor J. F. Mackay can be come intervenors in the suit, on the ground that they have not been invited to intervene by either of the principal litigants and that there is nothing germane in their intervenors that has any special bearing on the case.

TRYING TO CATCH "BIG" MAN

"Reef Trust" Grand Jury Would Indict High Officials of Packing Concern.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The grand jury investigating the alleged "Reef trust" made special efforts to secure enough evidence from two women and one man to indict a high official of the leading packing firm in Chicago. The charge is attempting to influence witnesses. The three witnesses were summoned on fourth day subpoenas and were rigidly questioned, but failed to tell as much as had been expected.

Although indictments on the charge named have been returned against five persons, it is claimed that efforts are still being made to interfere with government witnesses.

It is reported that the first intimation of the alleged interference with another witness was gathered from the testimony of Edwin Fish, on whose testimony four employees of Schwarzchild & Sulzberger were indicted Thursday.

Mrs. Richard W. Howe, wife of the head of the packing department of Swift and Company, was the woman summoned before the grand jury today. She would not discuss the nature of the evidence she gave.

Subpoenas have been issued for six women, wives of men employed by various packers. All of these men are now in Canada and subpoenas for the women have been issued in connection with the disappearance of their husbands. They are Mrs. Irving A. Vant, wife of the assistant secretary of Swift and Company; Mrs. E. A. Allen, whose husband, now with the National Packing company, was formerly secretary of the Hammond Packing company; Mrs. James Brennan, whose husband is a department manager for Swift and Company; Mrs. A. H. Fay, wife of the traffic manager for Swift and Company; Mrs. Frank A. Spink, wife of the manager for the National Packing company; Mrs. Fred Wilbur, wife of the manager of the life, tallow and casing department of Swift and Company.

It could not be learned tonight whether or not any of the subpoenas had been served.

Another delay in the hearing of the case of Thomas J. Connors, the indicted general superintendent of Armour & Co., was granted by Judge Landis today by agreement of counsel for the packers and for the government. The matter went over until next Saturday.

BUSINESS COLLEGE CHIEFS

They Will Come to Omaha as the Great Commercial College Center.

ANNUAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN MAY

Over Two Hundred Delegates from Seven States Will Be in Attendance—Splendid Program Has Been Prepared by Officers.

The Central Commercial Teachers' association is to hold its annual session at Boyle's college on May 24, 25 and 26. This is a big association of the heads of the commercial college and embraces a membership covering all of the larger institutions in the states of Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri. Over 200 representatives of the various schools are expected in attendance at the convention. This convention will also be attended by the representatives of the various high schools which conduct commercial departments. Omaha is rapidly being recognized as one of the great commercial college centers and the fact that this convention is to be held in Omaha is a strong endorsement of the Omaha schools, as well as a recognition of this fact.

Omaha has five commercial colleges, and the Omaha High school also devotes a department to this branch of education. There are three large schools. Boyle's college has just completed its new building and the new home of the Omaha Commercial college, at the corner of Nineteenth and Farnam streets, is under good way, so that it will probably be completed for the fall term. The Nebraska Boyd theater building and has a very large attendance. The Van Sant school in the New York Life building limits its attendance, because Mr. Van Sant is taken up with the publication of the charts on touch typewriting, of which he is the author. The Omaha Business university is the youngest school of the five.

The Central association developed from the Iowa association, which, two years ago, invited representatives from the other states to participate, and the name was changed to "The Central Commercial Teachers' association."

The meeting at Waterloo, Ia., last year was largely attended and it is expected that there will be even a greater gathering in Omaha next month. Mr. A. C. Van Sant is the president of the association. A strong program has been arranged. Among the prominent Omaha people who will address the meeting are the Rev. Michael J. O'Connor of Creighton university, who will speak on "Psychology and Its Relation to Teaching;" Prof. A. H. Waterhouse, principal of the Omaha High school; Superintendent W. M. Davidson and Mr. Edward Rosewater, editor of The Omaha Bee. The address of welcome will be made by W. S. Wright, president of the Omaha Commercial club.

Center to Speak at Tuskegee. TOPEKA, Kan., April 15.—William R. Carter, superintendent of the Tuskegee Institute for colored people, has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at the commencement exercises on May 25 of the Tuskegee institution, of which Booker T. Washington is president.
