

STATE ENDS IN COAL TRIAL

Finishes Its Case with Exchanges on Witness Stand.

DEFENSE CONTRADICTS SOME TESTIMONY

Faith on Witnesses Who Deny Statements that Exchange Members Refuse to Sell to Non-Members.

L. W. Bunnell, a member of the Omaha Coal exchange, went on the stand for the state in the Sunderland case yesterday afternoon, but his evidence did not develop anything startling. He was the last witness put on the stand by County Attorney English and the defense started out with several witnesses in denial of the testimony of Fred M. Clute given in the forenoon to the effect members of the exchange had refused to sell him coal because he was not a member of the exchange.

Strenuous objections were made by Attorney Connell when Bunnell went on the stand. Bunnell is a defendant in the case and Connell is his attorney, and this led the latter to demand the right to claim exemption from testifying because the testimony might tend to incriminate the witness. The court held the attorney could not claim this exemption, but the witness might, and after being asked by Connell whether he wanted to claim his exemption or waive it the witness said he would claim it.

"On what ground," asked Deputy County Attorney English.

"It would tend to incriminate me," was the answer.

Law Against the Point. The county attorney then dug up the statute under which the case is being prosecuted and found a provision to the effect that a witness could not be excused from testifying because the testimony might incriminate him, but that he could not be prosecuted for anything he might disclose. This led Judge Troup to reverse his ruling and Bunnell had to testify.

Bunnell told how price lists were made up. He said after he had handed his list of prices to the secretary of the exchange he did not change them without giving notice. He said he sold at the prices named on the card issued by the secretary and would usually telephone the secretary to find out if changes had been made at meetings he did not attend.

The state finished its case about 3 o'clock and C. S. Johnson went on the stand and denied the statement of F. M. Clute at the morning session that he, Johnson, had refused to sell Clute coal because he was not a member of the exchange. He said he had never refused to sell Clute coal and pulled out a memorandum which he said contained entries showing sales to Clute during the period in question. Mr. Rosenblatt, L. W. Harmon and J. C. Veeth also went on the stand and denied they had ever refused to sell coal to Clute or anyone else who had the money to pay for it. At 5 o'clock court adjourned until Monday morning.

Clute Tells His Side. Fred M. Clute, formerly a basket dealer, who claims to have been driven out of business by the Omaha Coal exchange, was the only witness examined in the Sunderland trial before Judge Troup Saturday morning. He testified he had been refused admission to the Coal exchange and that the members of the organization refused to sell him coal for the alleged reason the exchange objected to selling to nonmembers.

The examination of the witness proceeded slowly because of the numerous objections by the defendant's attorneys.

Clute said he had been in the coal business in Omaha at two different times at 1004 Cass street and the second time during the winter and spring of 1905 and 1906 at Sixteenth and California streets, where he had a basket business. During the first period, he said, he had made application for membership in the exchange several times, but was refused.

Dealers Who Refused Him. The dealers who refused him, according to his testimony, were C. E. Hansen, company, L. A. Harmon, C. S. Johnson and M. Rosenberg. He said he was told by an employee of the Hansen company that the refusal was based on the fact that the Omaha Coal exchange objected to its members selling to nonmembers, but the answer and questions were ruled out on the grounds it was not shown the employee was authorized to make the statement by any member of the exchange. Later the same testimony was admitted as ing physician or surgeon, place for selling pork or secret meeting place. In December, 1903, Zion City was placed under control of a federal receivership, which was dissolved a week later on Dowie's presentation to pay dollar for dollar of all indebtedness. At that time Dowie estimated the value of his holdings in Zion City at $25,000,000; since then the value of the face factory, the other industries and holdings in Zion City are believed to have increased to $35,000,000.

Voliva in Charge. Eighteen months ago Dowie began the promotion of a second Zion City in Mexico. While engaged in this undertaking his health failed and he went to Jamaica shortly before Christmas, 1906, for his health. While there he suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully recovered. It was at this time that he appointed Wilbur Gene Voliva, his first lieutenant and general overseer of the church. A month after Voliva took charge in Zion City he, by power of attorney vested in him by Dowie, had all the property belonging to the church transferred from Dowie to Overseer Granger, charging extravagance and gross mismanagement by Dowie. At the time the transfer was made Voliva called all the Zion City adherents in Zion City and denounced Dowie. With the exception of less than 200 of Dowie's former followers, all the inhabitants of Zion City chose Voliva as their future leader and word was sent to Dowie in Mexico that he was to be immediately started for Chicago and took the controversy to the courts for settlement.

Wilbur G. Voliva, head of the faction opposing Dowie in Zion City, declined today to make any statement regarding the incident of the death of Dowie on the future of the church and to discuss his death in any manner.

Telegrams were received from Dowie's wife and son announcing their departure from Muskegon, Mich., for Chicago. The funeral will not be held sooner than Tuesday.

Statement by Voliva. Late in the day Mr. Voliva reconsidered his determination to say nothing regarding the death of Dowie, and declared that the death of the former leader will not affect the future of the church in any adverse manner.

"Because of Mr. Dowie's sad mental and physical condition," said Mr. Voliva, "he has been a hindrance in many ways. Now that he has done, all bitter feeling, joy or unjust, will disappear. Dr. Dowie has done a work for humanity which is in some respects second to none that has been done by anybody, past or present. Nothing will be heard but talk of his good deeds, especially if it should be proven that his mind commenced to fall several years ago. His death will not alter the conduct of the church."

DOWIE LAUNCHED OUT IN OMAHA Soon Found People Hostile to His Sort of Dogma. It was in Omaha that Alexander Dowie made his original claim to being Elijah II and the faith cure prophet. In the basement of the old First Baptist church, Fifth and Davenport streets, where the Omaha News company building now stands, he called on his first converts, who came from Los Angeles, which point he struck upon his landing from Australia. That was in 1888. He tarried in Omaha three months and might have staid longer had it not been for the attitude of the newspapers of this city, which at that time were the Republican, Herald and Dispatch. With one voice they showed up his quack religious nostrums and he found it advisable to go to pastures greener and wiser, very naturally selecting Chicago, where his brand of religion flourished and developed into its present stage of vigor and health.

Dowie proclaimed himself Elijah II soon after unpacking his gripack in Omaha. He made it up with Rev. A. W. Lamar, the pastor of the First Baptist church, and secured the agreement of the church for his meetings. Then, as during the later years of his work, he regarded the newspapers and their reporters as venal vampires and agents of the devil and excluded them from his meetings, or thought he did. Incidentally there was a side stairway, hid in the dark, which led down to the Dowie chamber of secrecy. The foot of the stairs was right close to the feet of Dowie when he was preaching to his faithful subjects, who he regarded as his converts, if they accepted his dictations—agents of the devil," in their industry, discovered this stairway and got on the inside of everything. This discovered the astonishing obligations this self-anointed priest and self-proclaimed prophet exacted of his followers at the altar, and that he made to divinity. These "agents of the devil" proceeded to show up this sort of stuff and Dowie soon left town.

When Dowie left he proclaimed that he would leave behind him Rev. A. W. Lamar as his agent. Dowie himself being the agent of God, and all cases which Rev. Mr. Lamar could not take care of would be reported to the real faith healer at Chicago.

The following Dowie created in Omaha was so inconsiderable that it disintegrated very soon after he pulled up his stakes and cast anchor in a more fertile field of operation. The millions he was worth were not acquired in Omaha. So far as any of his friends were able to discover, his checkbook when he left for Chicago was no more plentiful, if as much so, as when he arrived in Omaha from Los Angeles.

WOMAN IS DEAD IN RIVER Marie Becker, Believed to Be from Chehalis, Wash., Jumps from Train.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 9.—Marie Becker, apparently crazed by the tedium of a journey across the continent, leaped through a car window from a New York Central train near Yosta, about fifteen miles west of this city, last night. It is believed she came from Chehalis, Wash. Her dead body was found on the bank of the Mohawk river, where it had rolled down steep embankment. The woman, who was about 35 years old, was accompanied by a baby girl about 2 years old, supposed to be her daughter, who has been placed in a children's institution at Albany.

The authorities found on the body a North German Lloyd steamship ticket sold at San Francisco on February 27, bearing the names of Marie Becker and Mary Anna Becker, to be taken on a steamer sailing from New York next Monday. The woman's baggage was checked to a point in Austria.

T. M. G. A. AROUND THE GLOBE

Great Work Accomplished in All Nations, Says Robert Weidensall.

COMPLETES TOUR OF THE WORLD

Founder of Local Association Returns to Omaha After Visiting Christians in Non-Christian Lands.

Senior Secretary of the International Committee of the North America Young Men's Christian Association Robert Weidensall, formerly a resident of Omaha, who in 1897 helped to form the Omaha Young Men's Christian association, together with William Fleming, secretary, is in Omaha and will speak this afternoon at the new Young Men's Christian Association building. Mr. Weidensall has just returned from his trip around the world, visiting Japan, Manchuria, China, Manila, Ceylon, Egypt, Palestine, where he met W. J. Bryan; Syria, Turkey, Philadelphia and the nations of Europe, beginning at Italy. During his tour Mr. Weidensall was a regular correspondent for The Bee.

"My object in going around the world was to carry the greetings of the Young Men's Christian associations of the world," said Mr. Weidensall, "and to visit with the great meetings from Sir George Williams, founder of the association, and from the international committee of North America and the world's committee of Geneva, Switzerland, from Hon. Charles Brainerd, under whom I worked for twenty-eight years, and from John Wansmaker of Philadelphia and Lord Kennard of London. These letters I presented to associations in all the countries of the earth. I received counter greetings upon leaving from associations in most all languages, which I read as I went around, and which I brought back. I also received a strong letter from the Japanese army emphasizing the work of the Young Men's Christian association in the armies of Japan."

Method of Procedure. The method of procedure was to visit the national secretaries and boards of directors in small groups, rather than in speaking to large audiences. With this I emphasized the great importance of the Young Men's Christian association work, its splendid adaptability to the work it was performing and its unparalleled success."

Because of Mr. Weidensall's long service in the field, he being with the Young Men's Christian association for over thirty years, his opinions were taken care of by that government.

"In the eastern nations, such as Japan, China, India, I put myself under the direction of the different national committees, who made appointment for me in different parts of the several empires.

Sultan at Constantinople. "In Turkey I was followed by detectives, as the sultan was fearful of any parties coming into his dominion, out W. W. Peet, formerly of Nebraska, a member of the western Turkish mission of the American Board of Foreign Missions, who is the most influential man prepared to be built in Turkey, told who I was and said he had known me for thirty-five years and that no harm would come from my visit. Had a pleasant visit in Jerusalem and spoke to the association there, then in Europe also visited the world's committee at Geneva and the national committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of the British Isles. Thence to America.

"In regard to the foreign mission work in the far eastern country, of all denominations as far as I have seen as well as of the Young Men's Christian association, I must say that I have been most favorably impressed, while much with the sutras, aging and while there were obstacles too great for human judgment to understand how they might be removed, yet taking it all in all, it was far in advance of what I had expected to see it.

Some False Criticisms. "All along the way as I was going to and through these nations, particularly on the steamers, there was much criticism of the missionaries by merchants and politicians, but on close examination I found the missionary work was of such a character as to show clearly to me the falsity of these statements. The best endeavors I found in all these nations toward the uplifting of these people and the most unselfish efforts that were put forth for their betterment were undoubtedly the efforts of the missionaries and those associated with them, both the foreign and native workers. In some countries the work was farther advanced than in others, as, for instance, in Japan and India it was much farther advanced than in China, but all the missionary work was well suited and will continue to grow in the face of all obstacles. I believe also that down deep in the hearts of the best thinking of the non-Christian natives of these countries the missionary work and workers are heartily appreciated. When I was in Shanghai I was told by the secretary of the Young Men's Christian association that large sums of money were contributed by the non-Christian or heathen Chinese to the Young Men's Christian association building and believed it a good investment. In Canton, where there was a Christian hospital under Christian influences which was almost self-sustaining from the contributions from the heathen Chinese business men. The emperor of Japan himself gave $5,000 to the work of the Young Men's Christian association in the army, which was sent against the Russians in Manchuria. These instances could be multiplied many times of the attitude of the best men of all these nations toward the Christian work. I heard it and I believe it that Christianity has more influence in Japan than would be deduced from the number of Christians."

Mr. Weidensall came to Nebraska in 1898 and was in the employ of the Union Pacific railroad for two years and during that time took the first step toward forming the association. He was then called out of the employ of the Union Pacific to begin this work as traveling secretary in 1901. He has been engaged in that work since and has had to do with nearly all the departments of the work.

Whenever you are on the street, please look, both east and west, if you see any smoke, chances are it is a train coming. Publicity Cure Threatened—We have it from pretty good authority that there have been several fights within our city limits within the last week without a single arrest for disturbing the peace and quietude of our little city. Is it not time that something is being done to stop such carryings-on? The participants in these disgraceful doings would not like to see their names in print, but we fear it will become necessary to publish them unless there is better behavior on the part of certain individuals.—Hebron Register.

Woman Arrests an Indian—Nobara has at least one plucky woman. Last Saturday evening a number of Ponca Indians remained in town and when they got a little too much of the ardent, among them was Louis Brokenjaw. He got down into the east part of town and was having lots of fun scaring women and children, when his bluff was called by Mrs. C. A. Smith, the wife of the city marshal. She marched the young man up town and turned him over to the marshal, remarking that if she had a cartridge in the gun she would have shot him. If you want to know the balance of the story ask Charley Smith; he'll tell you all about it.—Nobara Tribune.

Bids are being received for the erection of a fine residence for W. S. Wright of the Wright & Wilhelmy company after plans prepared by architect A. Henninger. Many bids have been received, but the contract will not be awarded until about March 23. The specifications are for a two-story and attic frame house, the exterior of which is to be covered with a sheathing of cement and will cost between $12,000 and $15,000. The architect is also being prepared by Mr. Henninger for a brick country house to cost about $5,000 for E. M.
