AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Members of Fire and Police Board Try to Get Together.
MEETING FAILS TO CONVENE
Decision on Trial of Fire Chief John McKale Still Held in Abeyance, Board Being Divided.
Members of the Fire and Police Board yesterday forenoon made an ineffectual attempt to get together on the appointment of men to serve on the fire department under the new rule of the double shift. Commissioners Donahue and Devine called at the city hall in the morning and it was understood beforehand that the mayor had privately intimated that he expected to appoint six men yesterday. However, the meeting failed to organize and the commissioners disappeared from the hall. Mayor Hector spent the afternoon in Omaha yesterday. It cannot be said with certainty just when the appointments will be made, but it seems fairly certain that they will be made soon and probably at a meeting called on short notice. This action the commissioners will probably have to take in order to defend themselves from the horde of applicants for positions. One of the commissioners in a recent conversation on the subject indicated that he was more or less embarrassed by the number of promises made by some of his associates.
Decision on Trial of Fire Chief John McKale is Still Held in Abeyance. Diverse prophesies have been launched as to the outcome. It is thought, however, that the case would never have been allowed to go as far as it did if the commissioners were unanimously with McKale. McKale's friends claim he cannot be blamed for the lack of discipline if the fire department were wholly without rules, as it was shown to be.
Parochial Enrollment. More than 250 children were enrolled on the roster of St. Mary's Catholic parochial schools this week, the first in the history of the school. Rev. Father Charles Mullan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic parish at Thirty-sixth and Q, and head of the new school, is still confined to his room following a very dangerous operation for gallstones undergone some weeks ago at St. Joseph's hospital in Omaha.
The work of the building of the school and the establishment of a parochial school and it is thought that the number of teachers in that building will have to be reduced also. The board only a year ago built an addition to the school to accommodate the large attendance.
The new St. Mary's Catholic school is located on Thirty-sixth and R streets and is a two-story brick structure of modern construction—well lighted and airy. It is conducted by a number of Ursuline sisters.

Appeal for Three Firemen. Attorney A. H. Murdock has filed a petition in error looking to the reinstatement of John Bugiewicz, Al Bolocor and Louis Sanders, three firemen dismissed from the service immediately after the recent election. The men accuse the board of dismissing them for political reasons only which is contrary to law. The decision of the board was rendered some time ago and Attorney A. H. Murdock sought to mandamus the board to reinstate the three men. The court refused the writ on the ground that a mandamus was not a proper remedy and hinted that if any remedy was to be granted it must be through an appeal on error. The petition of Attorney Murdock now takes the means of compelling the reinstatement of the three men.
Boy Seeks Damages. Because one of his front teeth was broken through the fault of another boy, Willie Daugherty of the Corrigan school would sue the school board. County Attorney Magney was asked about the redress by the lad's relatives. Young Daugherty is 11 years old and a pupil at the Corrigan school. While drinking at one of the fountains in the school it is alleged that his head was pushed with such force by another lad that one of his front teeth was broken off. The lad's relatives appealed to the county attorney for redress. It is not known what was the result of the negotiations.
Church Files Protest. Complaining on its proximity to the church and school, a protest was filed with the fire and police commission yesterday against the issuance of a saloon license to William Burke to operate a saloon at 36th Q street.
Burke formerly operated a saloon in Omaha. Recently he applied for a license in South Omaha and his license money has already been paid into the city treasury. It is said. The building for which the license is sought was formerly owned by former Police Commissioner John J. Ryan, who is said to have sold it to an Illinois Brewing company. It is understood that the protest filed against the issuance of a license at 36th Q streets is couched in terms of plainest meaning.
Magie City Gossip. G. H. Brewer has just returned from a business trip to Denver.
Mrs. George F. Matthews has gone to Davenport, Ia., for a visit with relatives.

The Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will hold a home baking sale at the Polkey market, Twenty-fourth and E streets, beginning at 11 a. m.
L. Jordan has returned from a short business trip to Chicago. The Epworth league of the Laffer Memorial church will give an entertainment Friday evening at the church.
Veronica, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Klimek, died yesterday at the family home, 38 North Twenty-seventh street, from diphtheria. Interment was private.

Edgar Jackson, who was appointed by Mayor Hector to the park board in the place of J. J. Kocis, appeared at the city clerk's office yesterday to qualify. He was sworn in. Jackson is a civil service employe.
The funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Snively, who died Tuesday at her home on the boulevard, was held this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. M. Robertson, 937 South Twenty-ninth street, Omaha. Rev. Wheeler was in charge. Burial was in Forest Lawn cemetery.
TRADE OF A BUSY NATION
Work for All Who Seek It Reflects Present Business Conditions.
There is one fact that is recognized by all observers who note industrial conditions, whether such observations are made in the agricultural districts, in the small towns or in the great cities of the United States, and that is the large percentage of the population that is fully employed.
Those that are able to work can secure employment at fair and reasonable wages, either on the farms, in the industrial districts or in the cities.
The tramps, the idlers, are but few in number as compared with former years, and are now seldom met on the highways and cross roads, their scarcity being in marked contrast with their numbers of but a few years ago.
The attire of the crowds in the cities, of the rural districts, of the people seen upon the boats and the trains, give ample evidence of prosperous times, of late purchases and improving conditions.
The increased business of the furniture manufacturers of the country, of the shoe manufacturers, of the hat makers, of the millinery stores, of the textile works, the expansion of the dress silk trade in the United States, starting with the distributors, the dry goods merchants, and resulting in the great silk mills of the east, these all tell a favorable story of the prosperity of the masses of our people.
Reports from the harvest fields of the west all indicate a shortage in farm laborers. While the laborers are as numerous as ever before, the demand for them is greater now and thousands more than are available could be given work.
There are workmen needed in the iron and steel districts, more miners, can secure work in the mining districts of the west, the north, the south and the east. More than a million of immigrants will enter the United States this year, and each and every one able to work and wanting work can secure employment at higher rates than were attainable for the same class of services in their own lands.
Hebrews, Slavs, Armenians, Greeks and Italians enter by the thousands weekly at New York, but neither in New England nor the nearby middle states is the demand for laborers fully met, yet these immigrants are enlisted as workers quickly after arrival.
The number of persons now busy earning in the United States is far greater than at any other period in our history. Their earnings daily or weekly per capita were never so great at any prior time. Their aggregate daily purchasing power is greater by millions of dollars than it was in August, 1912, and this is true

GLORIES OF THE GOLDEN ROD

Far back in the vistas of the past are the lanes of memory. Along those lanes bloom the golden rod. The sky is dull, the air delolous with freshures, the leaves are falling and there is an almost imperceptible air of sadness in the season. But the golden rod blooms and the dash of sadness becomes the zest of autumn and the heard expands as memory revives the golden rod days of the past. For those who once manifested those paths have ceased to have companionship together and memory mingles them as it takes its swift flight to the golden rod days of the past. Yet the golden bloom, lacy and wavy and graceful gives back warm assurance of the sweet delights and the tender companionship, so that the present seems remote as memory drives it from the field of consciousness, that the golden rod lanes of loving and living may be revived.
Now the golden rod is blooming again. Are there any who do not know and love the flower and who do not realize its place in the late summer days? If so they had better be alert to make its acquaintance. Not simply to see it, but to feel it. To have its companionship and to make of it a heart treasury for the tender sentiments and the loving thoughts that seem to attend it as it waves its fairy wand to right and left.
One is laying up store for the future when he wanders in the lanes of the present where the golden rod laughs at him from the underbrush of the untidy fence corners. He is building up the temple of imagination and of phantasy with the mild jewels of joy, as he follows the path of the wide open wherever the golden rod leads. He who has wandered out to where the golden rod blooms with no guide for his feet by the besonking flowers, has experienced the lure of the woods and the meadows, as the trail of the flower has carried him on and on until the stinking sun in a blaze of yellow upon the far horizon has startled him with the impression that the Western horizon is itself a bed of golden rod.—Baltimore American.

Culls from the Wire

President Wilson left Washington yesterday afternoon on the Federal express for Cornish, N. H., where he expects to remain until Tuesday. Secretary Taft and Secretary McAdoo rode part of the journey with him.
Charged with forgeries that may total $200,000 and which left many of the victims penniless, James C. O'Connor, a real estate dealer of Joliet, Ill., is in jail, while many of his former clients threaten personal violence should O'Connor be released on bail.
On September 23, Judge Willard of the United States court will be at Sioux Falls to hear the application of Attorney General Johnson to dissolve the temporary injunction secured by the railroads of the state to stop the action of the 10-cent passenger law of 1907.
An English bidder yesterday was awarded the contract for turbine drums for the new battleship, No. 33, at a little more than the price offered by the lowest American bidder. The accepted bid, $57,531, was submitted by New York agents of the Cyclops Steel and Iron works, Sheffield, England.
Women strike sympathizers at Calumet, Mich., have organized an auxiliary of the Western Federation of Miners. They plan a vigorous campaign in behalf of the strikers. Six women arrested for interfering with the men going to work yesterday took their arrest as a joke. When released on their own recognizance to appear later in the month they trooped down the street with a band of strikers, laughing and waving their arms.

"Cascarets" Relieve Sick, Sour Stomach

More acids, gases and clogged-up waste from Stomach, Liver, Bowels—Cure Indigestion.
Get a 10-cent box now.
That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.
Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascarets tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.
