THE University club of Omaha has issued cards to the members announcing the first dinner dance of the season at the club rooms Tuesday evening. Dinner will be at 7 o'clock and dancing will start at 9 o'clock.

The club is planning a series of interesting entertainments for the winter; there will be the annual "Foot Ball dinner" in November, the "College dinner" in January and the "Lincoln dinner" February 12, as usual. It is thought that President Vincent of the University of Minnesota will deliver the address on Lincoln's birthday.

The announcement of the dances brings before the entertainment committee the question of the modern dances. It is the general opinion of the members of this committee, of which John R. Webster is chairman, that all the new dances will be allowed, under certain regulations. The committee sees more objections to the positions assumed than to the dances.

The four Saturday nights in November will probably be set apart for tournament nights at the club. There will be entries in a billiard tournament, a pool tournament and a bridge tournament, for which a small fee will be charged, this money to go for the purchase of prizes and for refreshments.

Arrangements have been made with the University club of Kansas City whereby the members of the Omaha University club may exchange courtesies.

Magowan-Joslyn Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Violet Joslyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alfred Joslyn to Mr. David Walter Magowan, was celebrated Thursday evening at Lanhurst, the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. Joslyn. Rev. Thomas J. Mackay, rector of All Saints' church, officiated.

This home is considered one of the most beautiful and artistic homes in the city and made a wonderful setting for the wedding. An attractive and appropriate feature was the pipe organ in the music room. Mr. Ben Stanley presided at the organ and played the Lohengrin bridal chorus and the Mendelssohn wedding march. During the ceremony a selected program of music was played and the echo pipes of the upper floor, which are especially sweet toned, were used while the marriage lines were read in the music room.

The bridal party walked down the broad circular stairway through the library to the music room, which was artistically decorated with white chrysanthemums, roses and Polydium ferns and an improvised altar was banked with maiden hair fern.

The bride was charming in her wedding gown of ivory satin chamoisee with draped skirt and long square train. The bodice and sleeves were embroidered in pearls and brilliants in rose design with over drape of Honiton lace embroidered on maline. The long veil was of silk maline held in place with orange blossoms, which came from Mr. and Mrs. Wattle's winter home in Hollywood, Cal. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. The groom's gift was a lavallier set with sapphires and diamonds.

The first of the bridesmaids to enter was Bertha Dickey, who was gowned in pale green chamoisee draped and made with bodice of shadow lace.

Miss Alice Carter, the second bridesmaid, came next wearing pale green chamoisee with bodice and tunic of Chantilly lace and white tulle.

Miss Margaret McPherson followed and wore pale green chamoisee draped and the bodice and angel sleeves and tunic were of Chantilly lace. The gowns, although in different designs, were all made round length and of the same material. The bride presented each with a gold filigree bracelet set with sapphires.

Miss Helen Magowan of Kane, Pa., sister of the groom, was maid of honor and was gowned in pale green chamoisee with bodice and sleeves of shadow lace embroidered in pearls and rhinestones. She received a bracelet set with diamonds and sapphires. Each of the bride's attendants wore a bandeau of pink tulle in their hair, from which were drops of French rosebuds. Each carried a muff of Killarney roses.

Mr. Thomas G. Lyle of Kane, Pa., served as best man for Mr. Magowan and the ushers were Mr. Carl L. Wettle of St. Louis, Mr. Lake Deuel and Mr. John Caldwell. The groom presented them with etic pins. Assisting in stretching the ribbons were Mr. Taylor Belcher and Mr. Wallace Loman.

After the ceremony there was a reception, when the guests were received in the reception hall.

Mrs. Joslyn was gowned in dove gray velvet brocade trimmed with the same shade of chiffon over flesh-colored chamoisee. The skirt was draped and the corsage was of gold metal lace and gold embroidery with deep circles of jade green tulle.

Mrs. Magowan of Kane, Pa., mother of the groom, wore white satin with overdress of black Chantilly lace.

A wedding supper was served to the bridal party in the conservatory, where President Taft roses were used for the centerpiece for the table. In the dining room Mrs. Ward roses formed the centerpiece for the table. Punch was served on the screened porch, where there was a decoration of oak leaves and cat tails.

Mr. and Mrs. Magowan left for a wedding trip to New York and other eastern cities and will be at home at 3504 Wolworth avenue after December 1. Assisting at the reception were mesdames:
