THE last word in evening gowns show a decided novelty. In "The Rainbow," played here last week by Mr. Henry Miller, "Jimmy Judson," a typical New York club man, says "Mrs. Smith's attractive back is all that makes grand opera possible."

If all of the women take up the new style, "Jimmy" will no longer go to grand opera, for the newest evening gown is "high neck" in the back, exactly the extreme of the recent modes. The collars are cut on the order of the Marie Antoinette ruffs, only the ruffs that form the collars are only an inch or two high; they are cut quite low in front, and unusually wide, some of the newest gowns having the pointed effect and cutaway reaching to the shoulders.

The short tulle coat on the evening gown is dainty and chic.

Mrs. J. E. Summers has a tango yellow evening gown made high in the back; the tango yellow or gold satin forms most of the gown, and the tiny ruff and part of the bodice is of the same shade of tulle.

Mrs. Joseph Barker has a white lace evening or theater gown with the high neck at the back and the pointed low neck in front. Ermine with tails forms the chief trimming.

Mrs. W. J. Hynes has a stunning black and white evening costume of black silk plush in soft folds. Over the skirt is a double tunic, Poiret style, of black tulle edged with tulle ermine. The neck is square in front and over this is a dainty coat reaching below the waist of black silk edged with ermine; the high collar at the back forms a Marie Antoinette ruff.

Miss Marie Woodard has one of the new models in white charmeuse, with tulle of black and white shadow lace. The giraffe and collar, which is high at the back, are of tango yellow chiffon.

Mrs. Glenn C. Wharton, who is one of the best gowned women of the city, has a black and white evening gown, with the new collar in tulle.

Miss Hazel Duffy then chose as queen, Miss Hazel Graff. These two were crowned by the king and queen of last year, Miss Mary Gifford and Miss Wilma Vance. Paresa and knights encircled were in attendance. The entertainment, where the party was held, was beautifully decorated in Christmas greens and ropes of smilax.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts
Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and full misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scales and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then set fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it is no longer irritating, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

OMAHA WOMAN TO ENGLAND

Cashier at Brandeis Stores is to Have a Life Income.

GOES TO CARE FOR COUSIN
Wealthy Relative Asks Her to Make Her Home in England—She is to Sell on Last Day of This Month.

After making her own way as a working girl in Omaha for seventeen years, Miss Kate Ellen Bond, cashier and timekeeper in the Brandeis stores, has been offered and will accept a life income from a large English estate, on condition that she go back to her home in old Cornwall to live for the rest of her life.

She will give up her position soon and will sail from New York on the George Washington January 31. George Burt, a cousin, 78 years of age, living at Launceston, Cornwall, England, is her benefactor, and she will go there to live.

"I feel that I am justified in accepting the offer and quitting work, after I have made my own way for so many years," Miss Bond said. "I have struggled hard since leaving England nineteen years ago, so it will be a great pleasure to return there now and take life easy."

Her cousin made his will over a year ago, without bequeathing any part of his large estate to her. However, when he met her later, while she was on a vacation trip in Europe, he took a great fancy to her and offered her a generous income for the remainder of her life. He insisted that she return to her girlhood home and be with him during his declining years. He has always suffered one stroke of paralysis and Miss Bond fears that he may not live long.

She has made her home with a married sister, Mrs. A. Y. Biddick, 423 Farnam street. Except for a period of five years as a secretary for the Young Women's Christian association, she has always been employed in the Brandeis stores during her seventeen years' experience in Omaha.

"The cost of living in England is only one-third of what it is in Omaha," Miss Bond declares.

Recognized Advantages.
You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for coughs and colds. It does not suppress a cough, but loosens and relieves it. It aids expectoration and opens secretions, which enables the system to throw off a cold. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Buy Jellyrolls at Same Place After Thirty-Five Years

About thirty-five years ago Guy Adams, mail traffic manager of the Union Pacific, came west with his mother and some little brothers and sisters. They transferred at the Union Pacific station in Council Bluffs and ate breakfast there. "I remember today as well as though it happened yesterday, that I sat at the lunch counter there after we had eaten our breakfast and gazed longingly at a big piece of jelly roll," said Mr. Adams this morning. "We were going to the big, new west, and with my dreams of fortune I forthwith resolved that as soon as I made my millions I would come back there and buy all the jelly roll in the place. After much persuasion I induced my mother to give me a dime, and I ate two pieces of that jelly roll. Then I sat there and repeated the resolve. This morning for the first time in thirty-five years, I had breakfast at the same lunch counter. And they still sell jelly roll, too. I thought about the morning when I sat there swinging my feet from the high stool and wanting jelly roll. I didn't want it quite so bad this morning, but I bought a piece of the cake anyway and ate it. But the jelly roll didn't taste quite so good. Perhaps jelly roll isn't as good to one at 40 as it is at 5. Perhaps it's because I'm not educated up to jelly roll for breakfast, but anyway, now that I can buy as much jelly roll as I can eat, I don't want it at all. Funny how your ideas of luxury change anyway, isn't it?"
