

Nebraska RAIL BOARD HAS EXTENSIVE POWER

Decision of Nebraska Supreme Court Seems to Put It Ahead of the Governor.

WHAT RECORDS SEEM TO SHOW

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Aug. 26.—(Special.)—The controversy as to what branch of the state government the railway commission comes under is paramount since the ruling of the attorney general that the commission was executive and therefore as its members had given no bond they had no right to the office.

Members of the commission are willing to admit, and they seem to have the authority to back them, that the commission is a hybrid-headed body and is a part of the administrative, the judicial and legislative branch of the state government. If such is the case the members of the commission are bigger men than the attorney general and even have greater powers than the governor.

In the last report of the State Railway commission, on page 25, is found an opinion of the supreme court in the case of the Hooper Telephone company against the Nebraska Telephone company. The Hooper company was its contention before the commission regarding connection service with the Nebraska company and the latter appealed to the supreme court.

In the syllabus of the opinion, which was written by Judge Sedgwick and agreed to by the rest of the court, Judge Rose not sitting, the first paragraph reads:

"The constitution as amended must be construed as a whole, and the purpose and scope of amendments are not limited by former provisions only as the plain meaning of the whole instrument requires. The amendment creating the State Railway commission, and the statute enacted pursuant to the power given to the legislature thereby, confer administrative and judicial powers upon the commission in addition to the main purpose of its creation which is the exercise of legislative powers."

In the opinion itself, on page 47 of the seventh annual report of the commission, is found the following provision:

"The powers of the government of this state are divided into three distinct departments, the executive, the judicial, and the legislative, and no person or collection of persons being one of these departments, shall exercise any power properly belonging to either of the others, except as hereinafter expressly provided, or permitted by the constitution expressly direct or permit one department to exercise powers belonging to another department. The State Rail way commission is considered as belonging to the legislative department. Has this amendment given it judicial powers? In providing for this appeal the legislature intended that this amendment and the statute authorized thereby have given the commission administrative and judicial powers in addition to its legislative powers, the main purpose of its creation."

KEARNEY, Neb., Aug. 26.—(Special.)—A. V. Hlavka, member of the board of supervisors from the sixth district, will be removed from office if the prayer of over 200 petitioners is answered. Great Britain May Resort to Conscription, Says Minister

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Something in the nature of conscription, though the term was not employed, was foreshadowed by the earl of Selborne, president of the Board of Agriculture, in an address this afternoon to a deputation of agricultural land owners who visited him in London. "Many more men have got to join the army," he said, "voluntarily or compulsorily." "The agricultural laborer has done his part nobly in this war, but the response has been very unequal over the country, and I forecast that during the next year men will be taken from districts and farms whence hitherto they have not come. "What I shall aim at—and Earl Kitchener has been sympathetic—is to leave the farmer his foreman, stockman, carters and shepherds, but the rest of the work will have to be done by women or men hitherto engaged in agriculture. "Earl Selborne emphasized the fact that Russia's resources had imposed a great strain on the allies. "We have a greater burden on our shoulders at the present moment than six months ago," he said. "The financial strain is going to be very great and the situation is going to demand from every class greater sacrifices. The speaker stated that the navy had the submarine menace well in hand.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Aug. 26.—(Special Telegram.)—Ernest Kennison, the murderer of Sam D. Cox of Minnaisie, has not been paroled, according to published statements, but is one of the convicts working at the Soldiers' Home in Grand Island, sent there to do work needed to be done by the board of control, according to members of the board, who have been criticized, because Kennison was allowed to leave the prison and visit his sick wife in Scott's Bluff county. It Seems to Approve Ditch

Believing that the money expended on a proposed plan to straighten the Nebraska river south of Humboldt would not bring the results wanted, State Engineer Johnson has refused to approve the plans of people of Richardson county who have formed a new drainage district. Engineer Johnson does not believe the ditch proposed would be adequate to carry off the overflow. According to his figuring a ditch 100 feet wide would be necessary. The plan prepared by the county surveyor of Richardson county would cover the drainage of about 900 square miles.

Murphy Under the Ban

Believing that the action of Kenneth Murphy, George Carlson and Ernest E. No harm is intended the men, but they simply won't stand for such action.

Convict Editor, in Farewell, Says Much Gold Among Dross

STILLWATER, Minn., Aug. 26.—The editor of the Stillwater State Prison Mirror, whose writings have attracted considerable attention in Minnesota and in other states, has been granted clemency by the State Board of Pardons and will depart from the prison before the end of the present week.

In the current issue of the paper the editor, whose name was not made public by the board of parole, bids farewell to his fellow convicts and expresses sadness at the parting, "although we have the joyful prospect of once more breathing free air and dwelling where one's soul can once more be one's own again."

"During our incarceration here," the editor continues, "we have learned one lesson never to be forgotten. We have learned there is pure gold here among the dross; that there are within these walls as good and true hearts as ever dared to throbb, men who would make the world better by living in it, were they all given the chance. We have formed deep-rooted friendships that will last until the rays of life's light are extinguished. I now go out into the land of freedom to toil as only a free man can for those who are dearer to us than our own life ever can be. They who have had the finger of scorn pointed at them from all nooks and corners; they who have suffered untold, indescribable hardships and deprivations because of our absence from the family hearth.

"Our greatest sorrow in saying goodbye is that we cannot take you all along to share our joy and freedom with us. But memory will keep engraving your names on the tablets of our heart; stone walls and iron bars shall not break the links of kindness and friendship.

"So good-bye, one and all; good-bye dear old Mirror. May you ever prosper and continue to bring cheer to those who may be so unfortunate as to get here from where we now go forth; may you ever continue to boldly proclaim the rights of the convicted men and women; may you never cease in the good cause for which you were intended and have steadfastly maintained, and may the steady soon come when you can prove to all as you have proved to many that the word 'convict' does not particularly apply to any one class of people, but that those in prison are 'even as you and I'—just ordinary human beings."

GERMANY WILL MEET VIEWS OF UNITED STATES

The victories to their knees in campaign against the Russians permit Germany to recede a step on the sea.

Count von Bernstorff brought nothing to the State department to supplement his telegram of Tuesday or the over-night news dispatches containing the German chancellor's statement broadly inferring that a settlement of a character sufficient to satisfy the United States would be made in the case of the Arabic. The ambassador, however, reiterates his disclaimer of intent that any American should be held that it was indicated that today's conference was arranged by the State department rather than the ambassador.

No Report from Gerard

No report had been received from Ambassador Gerard, but news dispatches informed officials that the ambassador had made inquiry and found that the government at Berlin had no reports on the sinking of the Arabic.

There is notable relaxation of tension at the White House and at the State department. It was made plain at both places that while officials were much encouraged by the apparent desire of Germany to avoid a break with the United States, president will not finally decide on his course until he has before him a definite statement of the Berlin government's intentions.

It seems certain now that there will be diplomatic exchanges in the Arabic case. In addition to satisfying the American government in that single instance they are expected to take on a character regarding submarine warfare and the general rights of neutrals on the sea.

Statement by Chancellor

This is shown clearly by the statement of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg last night to the Associated Press, particularly by his concluding remarks to the effect that not until all the circumstances in connection with the sinking of the Arabic had been cleared up would it be possible to say "whether the commander of one of our submarines went beyond his instructions" in which case Germany would give complete satisfaction to the United States. Furthermore during the conversation the chancellor again referred to the instructions given to submarine commanders. He did not specify in detail the nature of these instructions, but it may be said that they are designed to prevent a repetition of the Lusitania case and to provide the opportunity for escape for non-combatants on torpedoed ships, which the United States demands.

Germany still is unable to understand why Americans in these troubled times travel on belligerent ships instead of taking American or other neutral steamers, but since they in some instances take passage on vessels belonging to belligerents, Germany will do its utmost to provide for their safety.

Position of America Appreciated

It is not permissible to quote remarks made by the chancellor in the course of the conversation, other than the formal statement which he made. It may be said, however, that Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg showed genuine interest in the state of feeling in the United States concerning the sinking of the Arabic and expressed the hope the American people would not form an opinion on the basis of conflicting statements giving only one side of the story. He spoke with emphasis of Germany's desire to maintain the friendship of America.

The chancellor appears to be in good health and spirits and greatly encouraged by the successes achieved by the Germans in the eastern campaign. The interview necessarily was of short duration, as the chancellor was hurrying away for a conference with Emperor William at his field headquarters.

Bernstorff Calls on Lansing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, conferred with Secretary Lansing early in the afternoon, and while both refused to discuss their meeting in any way, it was understood the ambassador reiterated that it was not the intention of the German government that any Americans should be lost on the Arabic. The tenor of Berlin dispatches late last night and early today, especially the declaration of the German chancellor that proper reparation would be made if the submarine commander exceeded his instructions, and the public disclosure that Germany, after the sinking of the Lusitania, had taken steps to prevent another such disaster, renewed the feeling in official quarters here that friendly relations between the two countries would not be broken by the Arabic incident.

American officials have understood for weeks that German submarine commanders have been given instructions after the sinking of the Lusitania, designed to meet the representations of the United States, and therefore the sinking of the Arabic was a double shock.

Nine Presbyterian Missionaries Sail from New York for Persia

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Nine American missionaries, five of whom are physicians sent by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions for service in Persia, are sailing today on the steamship United States for Copenhagen. Three members of the party, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. E. Ellis, of Helena, Mont., and Dr. Mary Fleming of Hinsdale, Mich., are going to west Persia, where several months ago massacres and severe fighting was reported during an invasion of Kurds from Turkey. Dr. Ellis will become an associate of Dr. Harry Packard in the American hospital at Urumiah.

The other members of the party, Dr. J. Davidson Frame of Philadelphia, Dr. Mary G. South of Kokomo, Ind., Dr. Hollis E. Hoffman of Lenoir, O.; Mrs. C. A. Douglas of Portland, Ore.; Dwight Donaldson of Huntington, W. Va., and Miss Mary L. Cowden of Washington, Ia., are going to northern and eastern Persia.

It was said today by officers of the Presbyterian board that these missionaries go cheerfully and willingly on this errand of mercy, to districts from which reports have come recently that medical and other aid was urgently needed. Recognizing the danger existent in the present crisis, the board does not urge its missionaries to go, simply stating the need and willingness to send, and leaving it to the individual to decide.

The party will go by way of Scandinavia, Finland, Russia and across the Caspian Sea, and expects to reach Persia the latter part of September.

Extra Troops Sent to El Paso Withdrawn

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 26.—United States military authorities today withdrew 200 troops which patrolled strategic points in and near the city last night as the result of rumors of a Mexican uprising. Military and Department of Justice officials expressed the belief that there was a plot to start an uprising in El Paso, but that the prompt action of the government representatives frustrated it.

FRANCE WILL RAISE TAXES ON LIQUORS

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The minister of finance, Alexander De Bot, introduced in the Chamber of Deputies, a bill providing for a comprehensive reform in the liquor trade. The measure contemplated suppression of privileges enjoyed by private individuals, who are permitted to distill brandy from their own fruits, and for an increase in the tax on alcohol from 12 francs to 15 francs a gallon. To this is added a tax on consumption of 5 francs a gallon on appetizers and liquors.

Memoranda attached to the bill contain an estimate that if consumption of the articles affected should decrease by one-half, the government would nevertheless receive increased revenue to the amount of 10,000,000 francs.

It is also proposed that the state create a monopoly in the manufacture of industrial alcohol and endeavor to find an additional outlet for the product among consumers of fuel, such as owners of automobiles.
