Country Club Society

By MELLIFICIA. Wednesday, September 8, 1915.
OMAHA is well represented in the working life of several concessions at the San Francisco exposition. Travelers who have been visitors this summer at the fair have enjoyed many a surprise in the exchange of greetings with Omaha friends who are employed on the grounds. Miss Alice Switzer has a position in the British exhibit of very rare porcelains. Many of the articles are valued in the thousand-dollar mark. Miss Switzer's brother, Mr. Warren Switzer, is employed in the publicity department. Mr. Harry Lowe, a resident of Omaha several years ago, has a concession on the "Zones." Miss Doris Stevens is with the Congressional Union, which has a building in the Path of Education. With Miss Stevens is Miss Ruth White, daughter of the late B. P. White of Omaha.

Biennial Meeting of Swedish Norden to Be Held in Omaha

A supper was given at the Swedish auditorium Tuesday evening by members and friends of the Swedish singing society, "Norden," at which plans were talked over for the entertainment of the biennial festival of the American Union of Swedish singers, western division, to be held in Omaha next June. This convention will bring at least 1,000 singers to the city from eleven states. Walter Lundquist, president of the "Norden" society, was toastmaster. Speeches were made by Samuel Simonson, president of the western division, Charles Johnson, Nelson T. Thorson, O. P. Nelson, Fred Floodman, John Larson and F. E. Sieberg. Officers of the western division are Samuel Simonson, president; F. E. Sieberg, secretary, and John Larson, treasurer. Means were devised for raising money to entertain the singers and make the festival memorable. A picnic will be given by the "Norden" society and the ladies chorus, "Lindene," Sunday afternoon and evening, September 13, at the German home on South Tenth street.

Rotary Club Holds First Meeting and Names Committees

Committees were announced by President Moorhead and two new members were introduced at the first luncheon of the year of the Omaha Rotary club held at noon at the Henshaw hotel. The new members were Robert F. Klopke and Simon Jones. A committee which had been appointed to arrange for an automobile tour to the state fair on Thursday, Omaha day, favorable. Mr. Moorhead estimated that twenty or twenty-five automobile loads of members and their friends will make the trip. Pennants and bells will be carried. If the committee finds roads are unsuitable in the morning the trip will be made by train. It was arranged that a report from the delegates who attended the convention at San Francisco will be heard at a night meeting to be held at the Field club later in the month.

Decatur Men Are to Purchase Julia

The Julia probably will be purchased by Decatur business men within a few days. This announcement comes from Decatur to the Commercial club of Omaha. Captain W. B. Stevens, owner and operator of the barge and tug, will soon have to return to his home at Glasgow, Mo., on account of the illness of his wife, as well as on account of his own illness. Mrs. Stevens has been an invalid for a long time. Captain Stevens some weeks ago took sick on the river and for several days was unable to handle his boat. For a time he was getting better, but now it is said, is not improving as he had hoped to. He announced that it probably will be necessary for him to go back to his home within a week or two. The Decatur business men have had a taste of river navigation and are now determined the captain shall not take the Julia back with him. They are ready to buy it and have a licensed pilot in Decatur that they will put on the boat at once, so that the Julia will not miss a single trip.

AUTOISTS MUST SLOW UP WHEN PASSING SCHOOLS

Superintendent Kugel of the police department has issued special instructions to his motorcycle squad to apprehend automobilists who violate the slow-down sign at school buildings. The opening of schools on Tuesday prompted this order. Mr. Kugel has ordered arrests of those who disregard the posted warnings.

Cashier at Paxton Hotel Accuses an Iowa Man of Breach of Promise and Attempted Assault.

PROPOSED AND IS ACCEPTED

Miss Lyvah J. Salyers, cashier at the Paxton hotel, has filed suit through Harrington, Harrington & Johnson, her attorneys, for $300,000 against Glen I. Boiler of Griswold, Ia., charging breach of promise, and attempting assault.

The young woman asserts in her petition that in December, 1914, "upon solicitation of defendant she began to keep company with him, and continued to keep company with him until August 8, 1915. She says that he proposed marriage in February, 1915, and that she accepted him. He at all times represented himself to be very wealthy, worth at least $1,000,000.

On the evening of August 8, 1915, she alleges, she went riding with him in his auto, and after going west on Dodge street for ten or twelve miles he turned off into a road that was bordered with "trees and high weeds." After going a short distance down this road he stopped the car and attempted to assault her. She fought him and managed to get away and ran back to Dodge street, where a passing auto picked her up and took her into town.

As a result of this experience she alleges she was made ill, and was also bruised by him. Miss Salyers alleges her reputation was placed in a precarious position and she thinks that $200,000 will just about pay for the damage done.

Mr. Boiler is said to have made large investments in Oklahoma oil fields, and is supposed to receive big returns from his wells. He inherited considerable property in Iowa and has large holdings elsewhere.

Dr. Wellington Choa Goes Through Omaha

Dr. Wellington Choa, the recently appointed Chinese minister to Mexico, accompanied by fifty young Chinese men who will enter the colleges of the east, passed through Omaha Tuesday night, occupying three special sleeping cars. Dr. Choa is a graduate of Harvard and speaks English fluently. After placing the young men of his party he will go to Washington for two to three weeks, after which he will proceed to Mexico City to take station. The new Chinese minister to Mexico sees great things in store for China and predicts a wonderful awakening in the near future.

Girls and Matrons Not Daunted by the Rain, but Keep Taking in the Shekels.

ONE HAS A REAL PROPOSAL

The weather man yesterday threw a scare into the ranks of the Visiting Nurse association by sending a sudden shower at noon, but after a temporary scurrying for shelter, the fair maids and matrons returned to their posts and continued tagging the passersby.

Mayor Dahlman handed the keys of the city to the women for their second annual tag day at 8 o'clock in the morning, and from then on the coins merrily jingled their way into the coffers of the 300 women who had volunteered to assist in the work.

Headquarters were established at the United States National Bank building, where Mrs. Albert Noy and Mrs. Philip Potter received the money brought in from the different stations. Tellers from the bank assisted in the work of counting the money. The women hope to raise $5,000.

Help Nurses Anyway.

Amusing incidents of persons not knowing the purpose of Tag Day were reported by many workers. "For the Visiting Nurses? Well, if the nurses are visiting here, let's help show them a good time," exclaimed a traveling man at one of the hotels. Workers in the neighborhood of the "Billy" Sunday tabernacle said that many people had the idea the tagging was for the "Billy" Sunday campaign. "It's for the sick poor? Oh, yes, I'll buy a tag. I thought it was for 'Billy' Sunday," exclaimed a man whom Miss Katherine Sanders had failed to sell a tag in the first instance. "We hope you girls make as much money as 'Billy' Sunday," a number of men wished the workers.

Munroe Buys Early.

John A. Munroe, Union Pacific official, wanted to be sure of buying the first tag, so he bought his tag Tuesday evening of Miss Marie McShane, giving her a generous check. Mrs. Will H. Reed, stationer at the Brandeis stores, showed some real methods. Mrs. Reed had a large wooden candy pail in which the coins she gathered made a loud clatter as she jingled them to the chorus of "Buy a tag for the Visiting Nurse association."

Mrs. Reed said a visiting letter carrier proposed to her, but she was too busy selling tags to listen to him. When Miss Margery McCord asked a man to buy a tag he told her he had just bought one from the "baby doll" across the street, who was Miss Ethel Wilhelm.

Brings Back the Coin.

"I haven't any money with me now, but I'll come back in a few minutes and buy a tag," Mrs. Rosewater, said J. C. Kinsler, on his way down to the office. Mr. Kinsler ran the gamut of all the taggers and came back to the Bee building, where Mrs. Victor Rosewater was in charge, and bought the tag for $1.

At the Loyal Hotel a man told Miss Florence Jenks he couldn't buy a tag because he had a large wife and a small family at home to support. A woman who was asked, "Will you have a tag?" replied, "Yes, indeed" and walked off with the tag without offering a contribution. The workers all emphasized "buy a tag" after this incident.

Workers Must Eat.

Some of the workers grew hungry towards the end of the morning. Miss Lucille Bacon stopped in a candy shop to buy some candy and Mrs. N. L. Gockert, Mrs. Frank Judson and Mrs. W. J. Hynes sent for some cookies.

Mrs. Judson told of an old man driving a dilapidated cart at Seventeenth and Farnam, who had called to her from the street. He gave her a quarter, but declined to accept the tag.

A handsome limousine standing in front of the Hayden Brothers store had tags tied to every door knob. Mrs. Luther Kountze's electric, adorned with a large poster bearing the inscription "Visiting Nurse Association Tag Day" attracted a great deal of attention as Mrs. Kountze drove through the downtown streets, collecting money for the workers.
