UNITED CLOTHES SHOP MAKES HUGE DEAL

Buys Out Stock, Good Will and Fixtures of Rochester Clothes Shop in Her Grand Hotel Building.

Will Shortly Move Present United Clothes Shop to Room Now Occupied by Rochester Clothes Shop.

It very often takes a change of scene to keep up with the demands of business progress; the merchant of today cannot stand still; when opportunity to improve presents itself he must change, move, transform, or remodel, as best fits the case.

The latest "big" move in Omaha clothing and furnishing goods circles is that just consummated by The United Clothes Shop, which has so popularized the location at 1512 Farnam St., in the Merchants Hotel building.

The United Clothes Shop has bought out stock, good will and fixtures of the Rochester Clothes Shop, and will soon move its own business to the location of the Rochester Clothes Shop.

In going into its newer location the United Clothes Shop will, as in the past, feature $10 and $15 Suits for Men, but, in the newer location will also feature an attractive stock of popularly priced furnishing goods, just as the Rochester Clothes Shop has been doing right along.

Far less rent and general expense is the magnet that will draw the United Clothes Shop to its newer location; it is selling its line of garments at phenomenally low prices, and any little lift that may be gotten through the advantage of doing business in a less expensively conducted store will quickly be felt in the quality and price of the goods.

Note the early change of location; make up your mind to save what can be saved on clothes for the coming winter.

Don't forget! The United Clothes Shop will henceforth take over the business and occupy the present quarters of the Rochester Clothes Shop at 16th and Howard Sts.

BRYAN TO FIGHT FOR DRY MEN ONLY

Mayor of Lincoln Announces There Must Be Prohibition Candidate for Every Office.

IF LACKING, ONE WILL BE FOUND

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Democratic candidates for office at the primary next April will not pledge themselves to prohibition must take to the woods, for they will not receive the support of William Jennings Bryan during the campaign.

Such is in a short way the announcement made by his brother, Mayor Charles W. Bryan, to newspaper men this afternoon at his office in the city hall, called to meet with him at his request.

According to Mayor Bryan, Mr. Bryan will probably not be a candidate himself, but expects to come to Nebraska about the middle of March and will devote most of the time until the primary in advocating prohibition in this state.

"The paramount issue of the coming campaign," said Mr. Bryan, "will be the liquor question. It is the principal thing before the public today, and it will require every effort to prevent these special interests controlling the democratic party and fastening themselves upon it.

Will Find Candidates. "We propose to make our work as effective as possible and with that end in view will support only candidates for state and legislative offices who are interested in the fight against the liquor interests. In no case will candidate files satisfactory to us, we propose to see that some man does file who is satisfactory to us. Neither do we propose to waste our strength by a division of forces between candidates. When there is more than one dry candidate for the same nomination we will fix it so that the people will support the one satisfactory to the dry forces. There must be a dry candidate for every office, and if any candidate is not willing to make a campaign on that issue we will file for a candidate who will.

"We expect to make a vigorous campaign. Mr. Bryan will spend most of his time in the state and we want the candidate for governor to be a man who will take a stand for prohibition and make a campaign on that issue."

Just Primary Now. When asked if a wet democrat should be nominated at the primary if he would be opposed by Mr. Bryan, the mayor simply said that the present proposition was one of the primary and that the matter of the regular campaign would come up later, but the manner of his conversation was such that there is indication that any man who is opposed to prohibition who happens to get the nomination on the state or legislative democratic ticket, may expect no help from Mr. Bryan or his followers.

"Personally," said the mayor, "I would prefer that this issue had not come up for two years more so that the presidential campaign might not be interfered with, but as it is here we will meet it. I might also say that that is the sentiment of my brother."

Banquet March 19. On March 19 will be held a big democratic banquet. This is the usual time for the Bryan birthday dinner, but in this case, according to Mayor Bryan, the dinner will be one which will be the starting off of the prohibition campaign by Mr. Bryan and from that time on the fight will begin.

As in the past the "United" will feature clothes in styles beyond question; late, well made up suits at $10 and well worth $15; and $15 suits that would do credit to concerns specializing on $20 and $25 suits.

Fifty-Six Years of Happy Wedded Life

J. W. McCARTER.

MRS. McCARTER.

Fifty-six years of happy wedded life was rounded out on Tuesday last by Mr. and Mrs. James William McCarter of Lexington, Neb. On October 24, 1859, Mr. McCarter was wedded to Lydia Raymond at their old home place in St. Lawrence county, New York. Two years later he enlisted in a New York regiment, and served until 1861, when he was mustered out at Washington. He returned to his home in St. Lawrence, and in 1874 with his wife and children came to Nebraska, settling in Dawson county, where he also resided and prospered.

He is a large land owner, although long retired from active farm life, and also has investments in Lexington. For many years he served as a preacher at Methodist missions in Dawson and Custer counties, and still takes an active interest in church work. His share of the life of the community with which he cast his lot in pioneer days has been large, and he finds himself now, at the age of 71 honored and loved by a wide circle of friends. His wife, who is 75, has shared with him trials of pioneer life, making her first Nebraska home in a sod house, and rearing her family under difficulties. She also shares in the comforts and consideration that surrounds them in their age. Seven of their ten children are living and are: Mrs. George Wheeler of Lexington, Mrs. B. F. Raymond of Kearney, William L. of Stapleton, Gilbert R. of Cozad, George L. of Omaha, John J. of Lexington and Mrs. Louis Pillechek of Lexington.

Saline County Jail In Good Condition

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Saline county, according to a report filed by J. W. Shahan, secretary of the state board of charities and corrections, has a pretty good jail as far as the inside is concerned, but the walls are so frail that prisoners have to be kept in the cages all the time. The jail is well equipped with all modern conveniences.

The poor farm consists of half a section of good land, 100 acres of which is in good meadow and the balance under cultivation. The farm has good buildings and all of them are about what a good up-to-date farm requires. That the farm is well looked after is evident from the superintendent, M. P. Blakely, has had charge for twenty-eight years, which is evidence enough of his standing with the boards which have come and gone. He receives a salary of $1,000 a year and the county furnishes everything. Seven old people are cared for on the farm, four men and three women. The farm has ten horses, fifty-four cattle, 150 hogs and 400 chickens.

SIDNEY DEDICATES NEW MASONIC TEMPLE

SIDNEY, Ia., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The formal opening of Sidney's new Masonic temple was the greatest event in its way ever witnessed in Sidney. Some of the most prominent Masons in the state were present and took part in the program. Past Master John C. Shookley of Randolph, the oldest Mason in Fremont county, gave a brief history of the Sidney lodge, which is the oldest in this county, being instituted in 1860. Attorney A. L. Chaney delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by Dr. H. P. Piper of Randolph. Judge Thomas Arthur of Logan spoke on "Masonry in General," and Grand Secretary Newton R. Parvin, on "Masonry in Iowa."

Two hundred and fifty attended the banquet. Former Congressman W. D. Jamieson of Shenandoah was toastmaster. The following were the toasts: "Why by the Square"; Attorney T. B. Stevens of Hamburg; "The Lone Goal"; C. E. Fiebigach, Shenandoah; "Masonry and Religion." Rev. C. G. Smith, Farnham; "An Eastern Star's Place in Masonry." Grand Secretary Newton Ilay Parvin, Attorney Earl Ferguson of Shenandoah and Judge W. S. Lewis of Glenwood also took part in the program. The building cost approximately $15,000. Dr. G. G. Chappell, worshipful master, presided over the exercises.

RIGHT TO PASTURE COW

Contest On at Hickman to Find Out What Public Square May Be Used For.

CASE COMES UP IN COURT

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Have the authorities of a village, city or state the right to turn the city park or other public grounds into a cow pasture and rent out the same so that cows and other domestic animals may browse off the green grass instead of having a lawnmower propelled by a strong man, cut the same?

This is a question which is being tussled over in a Lincoln court. The village board of Hickman, a thriving village in Lancaster county, leased the village park to a woman for the purpose of pasture for her cow. One morning she went out to the park to "abstract the lactical fluid" and found the cow dead. Two bottles hanging around the park were accused of being the cow to death, and the woman has asked damages of $100 from the village, and also, the owners of the animals, to reimburse her for the loss of the cow.

The defendants object to paying for the cow and claim that the fence on the village lot was so luxuriant that the cow gorged herself and died from too much green grass. Twenty-two witnesses are being heard in the case.

The plaintiff declares that she paid the village board $10 for the privilege of allowing the cow to feed in peace where plenty abounded, and that the park of the village board to lease the park for feeding purposes is one of the points to be settled.

Several years ago a populist state office voted to pasture his cow on the state house lawn. A similar case was made at the time on the right of a state office to the grass without paying for it. However, the cow fed and thrived and did not, like the Hickman cow, die either from too much eating or from assaults by other cow animals.

Three New Clues Found in Double Crime at Kronberg

AURORA, Neb., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—In the finding of a .32-calibre revolver, a heavy club and an iron bludgeon close to trails leading from the homes of Nels Nelson and Fred Luff, it seems apparent that some third party made the assaults upon both Nelson and Luff, which recently astonished and alarmed the peaceful Danish neighborhood in the vicinity of Kronberg of this county.

The revolver was found Friday lying on the beams of a cement bridge close to the home of a younger brother of Nels Nelson. It was discovered by one of the large searching parties which went over the country thoroughly between the homes of Nelson and Luff, following the two trails which were discovered yesterday.

Lying on the ground under the beam of the bridge upon which the revolver lay was a heavy piece of iron which had evidently been at one time a part of a cultivator. A club which had formerly been a single-tree was found about thirty-five feet from the trail which led from Nelson's home. The revolver was a long barreled gun and it contained one empty shell and five loaded ones.

It was the theory advanced by those who found the gun that it had been placed in the bridge after the shooting of Luff. Just one shot was fired at Luff and this passed through his scalp, making a painful scalp wound, but one that would have no serious consequences.

The trail which led from Nelson's home showed the steps of some person running who undoubtedly wore heavy rubber boots. After running through several wheat fields this person threw away the single-tree near the school house just a mile west of Chris Pederson's corner. This was in a wheat field which was drilled early in October. The club lay across the rows of wheat, clearly showing that it had not been there at the time the wheat was drilled.

It was a heavy hardwood single-tree and could easily have caused the injury to Nelson's head and shoulder by a swift hand blow.

This trail led north from the school house and down to within 100 feet of where the gun and iron bludgeon were found. At that place the trail was lost in the public road.

The trail which led from Luff's house showed rubber boot tracks for about a half mile, at which place rubber boots were found and the trail proceeded thereafter in tracks evidently made by a person in his stocking feet. This trail led almost exactly to the bridge in question. Luff was shot just after dark last Friday evening.

Notes from Beatrice. BEATRICE, Neb., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—John Jansener, a pioneer of Gage county, died suddenly Friday at his home at Hallam, just over the county line in Lancaster county. He was about 70 years of age and is survived by a widow and a large family.

The body of G. A. Ulla of Wymore, the Western Union lineman who was electrocuted at Fortescue, Mo., Thursday, was taken to Ottumwa, Ia., for interment.

G. Otto Sears has resigned as captain of Company C, Nebraska National Guard of this city to take effect at once. Mac L. Abbott is next in line for the office and will probably be elected at a meeting of Company C, called for next Tuesday evening.

David E. Lutting of Omaha and Miss Mattie Jones of Beatrice were married Friday morning at the Methodist parsonage. They will make their home in Beatrice.
