CORNHUSKERS ARE SUPREME IN WEST

Nebraska Is Only Team in Western Country with Clear Slate of Victories for the Year.

BETTER CLAIM THAN GOPHERS

By FRED S. HUNTER. The University of Nebraska foot ball team is the only team in the west which came through the 1915 season with a clear slate of victories and the Cornhuskers have at last come into their own. In 1913 and 1914, Missouri valley supporters classified Nebraska as the cream of the west, but this classification was ridiculed in the Big Nine. But this year Nebraska has a better record than any western conference team or any other team in the west, whether it be in a conference or not, and the Cornhuskers must be acknowledged supreme in the west.

Supporters of Minnesota may have a hank or two to make, but kicking is as far as the Gophers will get for they haven't even a clear title in the Big Nine, having tied with Illinois. And again, Nebraska defeated Iowa more decisively than did Minnesota. The Hawkeyes scored two earned touchdowns against the Gophers, while the one touchdown they counted against the Huskers was a fluke purely and simply. And it was a different Iowa team which played Stehman's charges that which battled the men from the north. The Hawkeyes line-up had been strengthened considerably by Hawley and his assistants, and Minnesota would never have won by a 51 to 13 count last Saturday, while Nebraska beat that count on both ends.

That Notre Dame Game. It has been said that Nebraska was lucky to win over Notre Dame. Perhaps they were, figuring that the Cornhuskers played far below standard and only the work of Chamberlain made possible the victory, but it was a victory nevertheless and it proved the superiority of the Huskers. And it is a more than probable fact that Notre Dame is the best team in the west, with the one exception of Nebraska.

The Oregon Aggies, who broke before the spotlight by trouncing the Michigan Aggies, who were walloped a year ago by Nebraska when the Aggies had a better team, were given some consideration for western honors until Saturday, when the Aggies were licked by Oregon university.

Nebraska has two candidates for the All-Western this year and those critics who fall to place them, will be accused of highway robbery, burglary and a few other things. The two men are Chamberlain and Rutherford. It is taken without question that Chamberlain will get the honors. He is considered the best in the country today and the greatest player who ever appeared in the Missouri valley. Rutherford may or may not be recognized but it is one certain thing he is deserving and it will be a big disappointment to Cornhusker followers if he doesn't get recognized.

Touchdowns Harsh. There was one disappointing thing about the Nebraska-Iowa game Saturday. That was the Hawkeye touchdown. A fumbled punt by Cook gave Fostick the opportunity to kick up the ball and run unopposed for a score. It was a fluke play and while Cook gets no blame because it was a nasty punt to handle and he made up for his error by his other playing, it cut to the quick for it was not an earned score.

With the exception of this one misplay it was a great foot ball game. Nebraska put up a wonderful game and was never to be headed. Chamberlain, Rutherford, Abbott, Corey, Proctor, Otopalki, Shields Moser, Shavey, Cook, Carey, Dalls—everybody played the kind of foot ball which spells victory and Iowa never had a chance.

A little band of Hawkeye rooters gathered in the south section of the stand to cheer their representatives on. "How fights," they yelled, and every time they yelled it, Chamberlain stepped out for a touchdown. They would probably be yelling still be counting touchdowns if the whistle hadn't called a halt.

Greeley Wins from Ord. GREELEY, Neb., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—The Greeley High school team won the last game of the season by defeating the Ord High school aggregation in a hard-fought and exciting exhibition of foot ball, 19 to 13. The features of the game were the line plunges of Boyden for Greeley and Chamberlain for Ord. This victory places Greeley on an equal footing with the larger high schools of this section of the country.

Seward Y. M. C. A. Wins. SEWARD, Neb., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—Seward Young Men's Christian association won the opening game of basket ball, played at the Young Men's Christian association here, from Lincoln Business college of Lincoln, 23 to 13.

MANY BASKET BALL TEAMS

Thirty-Three Quintets Entered in Tri-City, Commercial and Church Leagues.

REFORMS IN THE REGULATIONS

Basket ball is soon to enjoy its most active season in Omaha. Thirty-three teams have already entered the Tri-City, Commercial and Church leagues, and before entries close it is expected the number of quintets will reach forty. The Tri-City loop was the first to get under way, and at its meeting Tuesday evening at the Young Men's Christian association, elected the following officers: George Sunderland, president; William Klowitz, vice president; and Ralph Laake, secretary-treasurer. J. Truitt Maxwell and Bud Kerns were elected to meet with the officers as an executive committee. Coach Benjamin of Bellevue and Mulligan of the Omaha high school were selected to draw up a schedule.

In the other loops temporary officers have been elected. Important changes expected to work for the betterment of the organizations were discussed at the meetings. Among the most important was that no player could play on more than one league team. It was further decided that players belonging to the Tri-City organization should not play in the Church or Commercial loops, or vice versa. Last year several of the stronger church teams played men from the Tri-City league and had little trouble in cleaning house with the weaker contingents that employed members of their own class. This season an effort is to be made so that some of the weaker quintets can have more of an even chance.

More Floors Available. With Creighton college gymnasium nearly completed and with the Bellevue college gymnasium finished basket ball tossers will not experience the trouble of last year in finding suitable places on which to stage their games. Besides the two mentioned gymnasiums the league teams will stage their contests at the University of Omaha and the Young Men's Christian association. While rather small, the Nebraska School for the Deaf, also affords a place on which to play.

Of the three loops organized the Church league is attracting the most attention. From a five-team organization of last season it has jumped to thirteen. The players of the Church league will have to toe the mark to be eligible to compete. They will have to be bona fide members of the church they represent. They will have to attend church at least once a week, and previous to their time of playing have been members for at least three weeks.

Entrance Fees Deposited. An entrance fee is being charged, which amounts to $10 in the Tri-City and Commercial, and $5 in the Church league. This money will be forfeited upon the withdrawal of a team before playing three-fourths of its games. Basket ball meetings are scheduled this week at the Young Men's Christian association to complete all details. The Commercial league will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30, and the Church league on Wednesday at the same time. It is planned to start playing by December 10. The personnel of the quintets that have already signed up follows: Commercial League—Omaha National Bank, Fairmont Creamery company, Townsend Reserves, Joe Smiths (Council Bluffs), Commercial High school, Omaha High School Reserves, M. E. Smith, Creighton Law and the Nebraska School for the Deaf. Tri-City League—Townsend Gun company, Burgess-Naah, J. L. Brandeis, Walter G. Clark, Creighton College, Omaha High school, Bellevue College and the University of Omaha. Church League—First Christian, First Methodist, Hanson Park Methodists, Calvary Baptist, Kountze Memorial, Church of the Covenant, South Side, Presbyterian, South Side Baptists and West Side Interdenominational.

The Sioux City man made a whirlwind finish by tumbling the pins for 247 in this third game. He certainly was hitting the lumber and if he had been in the form in the first game that he was in the final he would have turned in a mark hard to beat.

As it is the single marks are unusually high for the first day of the tourney with six men rolling over 600. This exceptional success is credited to the alleys which both local and visiting bowlers declare are as nearly perfect as possible.

Jul Schmitt of St. Louis went into second place in the singles, thirty points behind Bruggeman. Schmitt cracked the pins for 624. T. Schlappe of St. Louis was right behind Schmitt with a 623 score. L. Waldecker, E. Hilker and C. Erickson, all of St. Louis placed in fourth, fifth and sixth positions in the singles with scores over 600.

J. J. Wehrle and H. Schaefer of St. Louis took the lead in the doubles event with a total of 1,154. Wehrle was originally scheduled to bowl with E. B. Rice, but Rice was unable to take part so he teamed with Schaefer and Schaefer didn't do a thing but tumble a seven 60 pins with the result that the high total was made.

C. Vandewater and F. Utley, also of the Mound city, were only one pin behind their fellow citizens. They rolled an 1,153 total with Vandewater doing the business with a 606 score.

NEW BIPLANE MADE BY NEBRASKA BOY

Years of Experiments by Emmett McCabe of Lexington Results in Invention of Value.

WINGS JOINED AT TWO ENDS

A new type of aeroplane has been built by Emmett McCabe of Lexington, Neb., after five years of experimental and development work. McCabe was in the city yesterday with his pilot, Taras Weiner of Chicago, a licensed pilot of the Aero club of America. McCabe is a young man who has been interested in the problems of aviation ever since he left school. He worked on his new type of machine even before he had any funds to buy a motor, or had any years he worked and studied and made flights in his machine, the motive power being supplied by means of a long rope attached to planes and pulled on by a number of men. At other times the experimental flights were made by using the rope and attaching one end to an automobile.

Then the young man incorporated a company, sold stock and this raised funds to buy a forty-horse motor and hire a licensed pilot.

In the McCabe machine there are two planes, one above the other, but instead of being parallel they come together at the ends, giving the form of a horizontal oval. McCabe calls them wings. Reaching from the end of each wing is a small plane which can be tilted in any direction.

Vertical Rudder Not Necessary. Originally the machine was made with a vertical rudder on the tail, but in flights the inventor was astonished to find that this rudder was not needed for turning or guiding, the two horizontal planes at the ends of the wings serving this purpose perfectly.

It will be seen that this is exactly the way a bird turns and guides itself, and it is a new departure in aeroplanes, according to McCabe.

The McCabe machine was originally built with a spread of twenty-six feet. Flights with this machine proved it to be to speedy, going through the air with its comparatively small motor at sixty miles an hour, which was too fast for experimental work.

So a section was added to the middle bringing the spread to thirty-three and one-half feet and the machine now travels about forty-six miles an hour. This is usual with a forty-horse power engine.

An engine of eighty-horse power is now to be bought and the inventor expects to produce a machine that will be the nearest approach to a mechanical man-carrying bird yet produced.

JESS WILLARD MUST PAY DOLLAR FOR BREAKING PACT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okl., Nov. 20.—Damages of $1 were awarded A. H. Cutrell and A. W. Phillips against Jess Willard, champion heavyweight prize fighter of the world, by a jury here today. The plaintiffs sued for $40,000, claiming that Willard had broken a contract, made four or five years ago, which gave them the entire handling of his affairs. They also claimed they had advanced him numerous sums of money during the days when he first was breaking into the fight game. Willard's deposition was read in lieu of having the big champion here.
