

TO PUNISH CHIEFS CROSSING BORDER

American Officers Leading Men Into Mexico Likely Will Be Put on Trial.

TWO SOLDIERS ARE RELEASED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—There was no indication tonight that the United States government would consider any action necessary in the case of the two American soldiers captured yesterday near Brownsville, Tex., and returned unharmed to their commands today, other than to investigate the incident and probably court-martial Lieutenants Heytan, Mort and Waldron, the officers who led the detachment of soldiers into Mexican territory to rescue their captured comrades.

Secretary Garrison said positive orders had been given every office in the army not to cross the boundary under any provocation without specific instructions from Washington.

Should the investigation ordered by Major General Funston prove that the officers violated this order it was said they undoubtedly would be court-martialed and probably held responsible for the death of the four soldiers, members of the rescue party, who were drowned in the Rio Grande while returning from their expedition.

Two Lads Are Badly Frozen While Riding Brake Rods

From Des Moines to Hastings and by brake beams by turn is too great a distance for Herman Van Clee and his cousin, Chris McCaughy, both 15 years of age, Wednesday they started from Des Moines. Yesterday they stumbled into Omaha police headquarters hungry, cold, miserable, and Van Clee with his feet so badly frozen that the police have decided to put him in a hospital for several days until it can be determined whether his feet will have to be amputated or not.

The boys said their uncle conducts a produce farm near Hastings, and that they had started from Des Moines to beat their way to Hastings to get on their uncle's farm. Their campaign failed at Omaha.

Ida Stroud Sues the City for Ten Thousand Dollars

Ida Stroud, the 7-year-old girl who was sent to the city dump, Eleventh and Spruce streets, December 22 by Fred Baker, the dump watchman, has sued the city for $10,000 damages for the injuries which she sustained, and which almost caused her death. Baker is now facing prosecution on the charge of shooting with intent to kill.

State Contests the Will of James Bates

The State of Nebraska through Attorney General Willis E. Reed is contesting the will of the late James Bates, who died recently. Bates had no natural heirs and by law unless a will is made the estate goes to the state. But Bates left a will, bestowing his property, amounting to some $20,000, to friends and acquaintances. The state in its petition alleges "coercion and fraud" on the part of some of the heirs.

BLASTING IS UNDER WAY ON THE BUSIEST CORNER

Blasting operations are going on at Omaha's busiest corner. While thousands of people passed dynamite was exploded in the excavation for the new First National bank building at Sixteenth and Farnam streets.

The ground has frozen to such a depth that it resisted the powerful efforts of the big steam shovel. So a gang of men with augers and hot water, were set to work boring holes and placing the charges and the dull explosions started passersby all day.

MAYOR AND HUMMEL KICK ON THE WATER

Mayor Dahlman and City Commissioner Hummel have requested the city health department to make an analysis of the city water, which is said to be so turbid as to require boiling.

"We just have to boil the water at our house. I have asked the city chemist to take a sample and make an examination and let me know what the trouble is," stated Mr. Hummel.

ASK OMAHA POLICE TO SEEK MISSING PERSONS

The police have been asked to locate the following people: D. L. McNulty of Laurel, Md., seeks his son Joseph, aged 4 years, who has been away from home for twelve years.

Mrs. Inez Feldman of Lucas, Ia., would like to find her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Murray, and Mrs. Harvey Milward of Darlington, Md., is looking for Charles Lockwood, aged 22 years.

CITY WATCHMAN BOUND OVER FOR SHOOTING GIRL

Fred Baker, watchman at the city dump, who shot and seriously wounded 7½ year old Ida Stroud, was arraigned in police court on a charge of shooting with intent to kill and was bound over to the district court with bonds fixed at $5,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Rural letter carriers appointed: Perry R. Ward, Mount Pleasant, Ia.; Martin M. Graham, Bonanza, Ia. Civil service examination will be held on February 15 for postmasters at Duxin and Prosser, Neb.

Women and Children Demanding More Attention from Charities

The cries of women and little children for clothing and food is the feature of this winter's relief work in Omaha that is focusing the attention of the organizations that care for the poor. Hitherto the demand coming from men has been the greatest.

"This winter we have had a most extraordinary call from women and children and there has been a falling off in the number of men seeking relief," said Mrs. McCormick of the Volunteers of America. "I think this is largely due to the new plan of making the men work for their board when they get into the hands of the police or county jail. The class of gentry who aim to get free lodging and board in the jail during the cold weather is steering clear of Omaha. It's a dangerous place for lazy fellows to hang around."

"On the other hand, women and children are in dire need and we are clothing and caring for many of them every day. Hardly a day passes that several children do not come from some school for clothing, principally from the Cass school. When the teachers or principals see a child insufficiently clothed they send the child to us. We have given warm clothing to a score of little ones during this cold snap."

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Superintendent Graff Urges Eighth Graders to Continue Through High School.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN BY THE BOARD

Urging that the school system of the United States is its greatest factor in making over the peoples of all races who come here into full-fledged American citizens, Superintendent of Schools E. U. Graff yesterday afternoon delivered the commencement address to eighteen graduates of public schools of the South High school district. One hundred and thirty-one students graduated and were presented with diplomas at the conclusion of the program.

Principal S. W. Moore of the local high school presided. "One of the earliest and most important turning points in the life of the under-aged citizen occurs when he reaches that place where he has an opportunity of obtaining more education or beginning life alone as an applicant in the business world. If he chooses the latter course he is invariably asked the question, 'What can you do?' The few years just passed show that the graduate from the eighth grade has little or no chance to progress as compared with the graduate of the high school or the university. The time has passed when he could become an apprentice in a firm and work up to the top. The competition in the business world has brought a higher standard of education and the eighth grade graduate today is left behind. His is the part of the small cog in the great machine—the opportunity of enjoying life or even investigating and understanding the working of his own firm being an impossibility."

What Night School Means.

"The fact that 170 younger members of the working class of Omaha have enrolled in the night school, only recently organized, shows that they acknowledge their mistake in rejecting an earlier opportunity of getting a higher education when the time was ripe. Now these young people are willing to sacrifice both their extra time and labor to make good in the new high school."

The superintendent spoke of the amalgamation of all races of people into one all-American people. "The American school system is the greatest factor in the country today," he said, "in the transformation of ignorant individually patriotic foreigners into good American citizens. This makes it doubly necessary that children of all races should attend and have the American spirit instilled within them."

W. E. Reed, member of the Board of Education, addressed the students briefly, expressing great satisfaction in the announcement that many of the girls working at local packing houses intended entering the domestic science and sewing classes which will be organized for nightly sessions at the local school annex at Twenty-fourth and J streets. He presented the diplomas to the graduates.

Must Clean Sidewalks.

Coppers on beats that lay in the residential districts of the South Side are becoming irritated at the tardiness with which many of the residents go about cleaning off their sidewalks. According to city ordinance, residents who do not clean off their sidewalks a certain number of hours after the snow has fallen will be liable to arrest and fine in police court.

Local patrolmen assert that unless certain property owners show considerably more alacrity in cleaning off their walks they will have warrants sworn out and arrests will follow.

Exhibition Basket Ball.

Exhibition basket ball games by both girl and boy members were staged yesterday afternoon at the South Side gymnasium. About 1,000 students of the grade schools of the city and parents and citizens attended the graduation exercises at 3 o'clock and later viewed the basket ball games immediately after in the gymnasium.

Plumbers have finished the installation of the new heating system and the gymnasium is being heated by steam from the high school furnace room. The old stove in the gym will be removed during the coming week and as soon as building employees have finished installing showers and other plumbing apparatus in the dressing room built onto the gymnasium another stretch of bleachers will be built along the west wall of the court.

Moving pictures of the great war in Europe, showing actual fighting and its horrors, are to be portrayed for screen

"Yesterday old Aunt Mattie came through the cold and snow to our headquarters. She wore a kimono and had on a heavy coat that we gave her some time ago. She had nothing to eat. We gave her a good hot breakfast and she stayed here all day. She has a warm room and we have decided to raise the money to pay her rent through the winter. She has an idea that she could take a position caring for children, but poor soul, she can't care for herself even."

"A poor man and his wife came shivering to us last night. He was a laborer, but there is no work for him in cold weather, and the couple had a place taking care of a furnace and doing odd jobs for their board and a place to sleep. Their employer discharged them and ordered them out. They had absolutely nothing and no place to go. We have cared for them now two days and expect to get them something to do."

Mrs. McCormick emphasizes the great need of warm clothing of all kinds.

"If people will telephone us our wagon will call for such things and they will serve to keep some poor people warm," she says. "All kinds of clothing and bed clothes are needed. No matter how old, they will serve to keep the cold from the poor."

Mother Braves Flames to Save Young Children

Mrs. Lillian Edwards, 30½ South Eighteenth street, last night braved the flames caused by an explosion of a kerosene lamp in order to save her four young children from being burned.

After she had thrown the blazing lamp out of doors and had extinguished the fire she found her arms painfully burned and her clothing scorched.

The lamp was on a table in the dining room when it exploded, soon after the evening meal had been eaten by the family. Blazing oil was thrown on the carpet and flames sprang up in the midst of the little circle of children.

"I didn't think I had the nerve to do it," said Mrs. Edwards, "but I knew I had to in order to save the children from burning to death. So I just ran in and took the lamp and threw it out of doors. Then I put out the fire."

Mrs. Edwards' children are aged 2, 4, 6 and 10 years.

Crothers Advises All to Keep Poise

"Keep pushing along and don't spread yourself" was a bit of advice offered by Dr. Samuel McChord Crothers of Cambridge, Mass., in a talk to the public school teachers yesterday afternoon in the Central High school auditorium.

The speaker urged the cultivation of minds capable of grasping the increasing complexity of modern civilization. He placed a high value on correct viewpoints, sense of proportions and mental poise.

"Some of us are progressives even to the extent of being able to discuss the great onward march of progress, but we lack the ability to find our proper places. We lack modern conveniences for thinking. We get one idea and stick to it," said the visitor.

Dr. Crothers is a Unitarian and came here to deliver a series of lectures.

SCHOLAR APPRAISES HUMAN LIFE VALUES

Notions of What is Worth While Gained from Experiences of Others.

TELLS WHAT THINGS TO AVOID

"Stay persistently in the presence of the best, in the sphere in which we seek achievement. The rest will pretty well take care of itself," was one of the thoughts impressed by President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin college, speaking yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of Central High school to the public school teachers.

The speaker gave a scholarly consideration of the true values of life, explaining how they are attained and pointing out the causes of false values. He said that individuals gain their values of life from others who have made an appraisal and whose lives bear testimony as to their ability to set up values for posterity.

Should Appreciate Commonplace.

"It is not always easy for us to keep fresh our appreciation of the commonplace in life, and yet we need to retain this sense of everyday life, which is essential in gaining the great values. We are introduced to these values by others who have appreciated them, and while having our minds open to receive this testimony of others, we must at the same time, be able to share the experiences of others," said President King. He placed stress upon conviction, character, judgment and power to make one's testimony vital, real and rational, if the values of life would be felt in full measure. Indifference must not be mistaken for tolerance. The dangers of sophistication must be avoided and a discriminating breadth must be acquired.

Teacher Should Feel Truth.

"It is the duty of teachers to point out these values, and the efficient teacher must be a competent witness. The witness of life and of lips does the greatest services to mankind, and the witness should be wary of sham and pretense," he said. "The business of a teacher is not merely to hand out a lot of traditions, but to feel the truth of what is taught and said."

He emphasized the importance of having deep convictions, sound judgment and upright character, following which the true values of life will be the inheritance of the person having those qualities.
