FRIDAY APRIL 3, 1908

Shelley and Turner.
There are pictures in Shelley which remind us of Turner's. Pure light breaks into all its colors and floods the world, which may be earth or sea or sky, but is above all rapture of color. He has few twilights but many dawns, and he loves autumn for its wild breath and broken colors. Fire he plays with, but air and water are his elements; thoughts of drowning are in all his work, always with a sense of strange luxury. He has more than any poet, Turner's atmosphere; yet seems rarely, like Turner, to paint for atmosphere. It is part of his habitual hallucination; it comes to him with his vision or message, clothing it.—Arthur Symonds in Atlantic.

The Lion in the Jungle.
Frederick Selous, the African pioneer, says in one of his books that regular habits and high living agree with lions and other brutes and that those exhibited in menageries are much handsomer than those the hunter meets in the jungle. Then their habits are not so creditable as people in civilized countries suppose. They will be shocked to learn that the lion feeds on meat in the most advanced stage of decomposition because he is too lazy to hunt for fresh meat. They have taken it for granted that the king of the forest carries a high head as he sweeps along over the plain, but Selous says he trots along with his head behind his shoulders like any common cur.

The Earth Rocked For Ten Days.
The greatest earthquake that has ever occurred within the limits of the United States since the discovery of America began in California at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of March 20, 1872, and continued until the 4th of April, during which time the surface of the earth was continually agitated, not being perfectly quiet for as much as a single moment. The most remarkable thing in connection with the whole affair (especially when we consider that Mount Loa, Sandwich Islands, and Mount Hood, Oregon, were simultaneously agitated) is the fact that the region around San Francisco did not receive a single vibration. The entire face of Inyo county, Cal., was changed and thirty-four persons killed.

An Incident of War.
In the midst of a battle General Fuller was trying to check the flight of panic stricken men. One poor fellow came stumbling along, not heeding a word that was said to him. Indignant and impatient, Fuller, as he came near this man, leaped from his horse and, touching him with his sword, said sharply, "Go back, sir!" The man looked up with an expression of anguish and despair on his face that said as plainly as words, "I am looking for a place to die." He opened his blouse and showed a big, gaping wound in his breast. Then he dropped to the ground. The general instantly dismounted, but almost as he raised the man's head to his arm the poor fellow breathed his last.

The Schiefschen.
In Germany they have an institution called the schiefschen. This is a little nap in the afternoon between the ponderous early dinner and the coffee, which is served at 4 o'clock. Nothing is allowed to interfere with this Teutonic rite. "In a German country house," says an observer, "I have seen with these eyes dashing cavalry officers in tight tunics and rattling swords disappear about 2:30 o'clock, to emerge in an hour's time looking a trifle sleepy, but armed in every sense for the conquest of the fair. Students and professors, instructors and business men, tinkers and tailors, all take their forty winks in the afternoon."

"Give me a little time," said the literary young man, "and I will do something that will arouse the country."
Three months later he had his chance. He was peddling alarm clocks in a farming district.—London Tit-Bits.

They Weren't Reesters.
A certain childless woman moved to the suburbs and devoted herself to the raising of poultry. A witty friend went out to spend the day and was shown a fine lot of young chickens.
"These," said the mistress of the place (a la Cornelia)—"these are my jewels."
"And I suppose some day you'll have them set," responded the visitor quickly.—Lippincott's.

Why He Quit.
Hal—Have you stopped calling on the girl with the plaid blouse?
Tom—Yes. It's all over there.
Hal—Why? Father object?
Tom—Blasphemy, no! And I had nerve enough to dodge all her hints about popping the question also, but the last time I called she had the sign, "Be It Now," stuck on the center table. That scared me, and I've quit.—London Express.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS are Advancing in Value
When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.
These Lots are Bargain Buys at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
