DEATH CALLS EDITOR.

W. C. Spann, who for the past three years has been the publisher of the Sisson Headlight, passed away at his home in Sisson on last Thursday.

Mr. Spann was in his usual health and last Saturday, the Fourth, attended a picnic. On returning home he was taken ill and gradually grew worse. Dr. Burk was called, and later on, Dr. Legge of McCloud, was summoned. The doctors worked faithfully and Wednesday Mr. Spann seemed to be much better, but as evening came on he gradually grew worse and at 7:30 Thursday morning death relieved him of his sufferings.

Mr. Spann was born in Missouri and was 60 years of age last January. He was a veteran of the Civil War and has endured many hardships.

Curiously Not Stilled.

A certain Tomlin prisoner lauded in jail almost penniless. He was a man who had figured in a number of the town's shady transactions, and his name was pretty well known. A few days after his incarceration he wrote to a friend asking for a monthly allowance of $10 to be continued during his term of imprisonment. The friend, remembering past favors, remitted the amount each month during a period that covered two trials and the long time intervening. One day it occurred to him to inquire into the manner of expending the allowance. He supposed it was used to buy occasional extra meals, a few cigars and newspapers, but just as a matter of curiosity he asked for particulars. He found to his astonishment that the prisoner had never ordered an extra meal and had not smoked a cigar all the time he had been in jail.

"Then what in thunder," demanded the man, "have you been doing with that $10 a month?"

"I subscribed to two press clipping bureaus," replied the prisoner coolly. "You don't suppose, do you, that I am going to pass through this, the most critical time of my life, without finding out what everybody has got to say about me?" New York Times.

The Star Chamber.

Perhaps the most beautiful and original scene of all in Mammoth cave is the star chamber. At a point in the well defined path one comes to the brow of a gentle declivity and notes that the roof of foiled or fretted limestone had disappeared. The darkness is impervious to the rays of the lamps. "The star chamber," announces the guide, and bidding his visitors to put their lights out and to look up, he disappears up a side passage. Slowly the darkness above lightens a little, then stars come out one by one and twinkle merrily as in a real sky. A comet shoots across the line of vision; then the glory of the Milky Way appears. The illusion is perfect and the explanation not far to seek.

The ceiling is heavily coated with manganese dioxide and has been pierced here and there with snowy crystals of gypsum. The guides go behind this ceiling, and the light from their lamps produces the effect of a miniature firmament with the crystals of gypsum for stars.—New York Post.

He Grasped the Idea.

"Tommy," said his teacher, "the words 'circumstantial evidence' occur in the lesson. Do you know what circumstantial evidence is?"

Tommy replied that he did not.

"Well, I will explain it to you by an illustration. You know we have a rule against eating apples in school. Suppose some morning I should see you in your seat with a book held up in front of your face. I say nothing, but presently I go around to where you are sitting. You are busily studying your lesson, but I find that your face is smeared, while under the edge of your slate I see the core of a freshly eaten apple.

"I should know just as well as if I had caught you at it that you have been eating an apple, although, of course, I did not see you do it. That is a case in which circumstantial evidence convicts you. Do you think you know what it is now?"

"Yes, ma'am," said Tommy. "It's eating apples in school."—Youth's Companion.

The Mormons.

The Book of Mormon appeared in 1830. Joseph Smith of Palmyra, N. Y., claimed that he had received it as a new Bible for all mankind. He began preaching Mormon doctrines, gathered followers, who migrated to Kirksland, O., and later to Missouri, whence they were driven out by their neighbors. They then went to Illinois, building the city of Nauvoo, and adopted polygamy, but they met with strong opposition there and finally settled at Salt Lake. They had hardly reached there before the foreign soil they had chosen was a part of the United States by a treaty with Mexico.

The Seven Wise Men.

The names and characteristic aphorisms of the seven wise men of ancient Greece are as follows: Solon of Athens, "Nothing in excess"; Theles of Miletus, "Necessity brings ruin"; Pittacus of Mitylene, "Know thine opportunity"; Bias of Priene in Caria, "Too many workers spoil the work"; Chilon of Sparta, "Know thyself"; Cleobolus of Rhodes, "Moderation is the chief good," and Periander of Corinth, "Forethought in all things."

Simply Reversed.

Bill—I see he is trying to have the judge's sentence reversed.
Jill—What was the sentence?
"Ten dollars or ten days."
"Well, I don't see what good it would do to have it reversed."
"Why not?"
"Wouldn't ten days or $10 be just as bad?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Tolerant Orientals.

Both the Chinese and the Japanese have shown throughout their history great toleration in matters of religion. Even the persecution of Christians in the seventeenth century had its origin purely in political reasons.—Japan Chronicle.

The Last Word.

"Your wife likes the last word, doesn't she?"
"I don't think so," answered Mr. Meekton. "Anyway, she's mighty reluctant about reaching it."—Washington Star.

Be a booster. The knocker is usually the man who waits for something to turn up or tries to get something for nothing.—Salt Lake Tribune.

CALIFORNIANS RETURN HOME.

The party of California capitalists that arrived here a few days ago to look over their interests in this section and to spend a few days at the Harriman resort, left this morning for their homes, going to Dorris in automobiles, Willis Virgil and Austin White taking them to the railroad.

BEGINS AT 8:30 SHARP.

At 8:30 sharp tonight the orchestra will begin the overture and the management of the Mong company requests that all persons attending the performance be in their seats by that time. An effort will be made to have all of the plays begin early so that the long tiresome wait before the rise of the curtain will be avoided. The solo orchestra will furnish classical and standard music during the engagement in this city and lovers of good music cannot afford to miss the performances.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Mong are too well known in this city to need any special introduction or lauding. Mr. Mong assures us that he has a strong supporting company, in fact, the strongest that he has brought to this city. This, together with the musical feature, will make the evening a very enjoyable one.

OPENING A COAL MINE.

Professor H. T. Taylor returned on Saturday from the Pitt river coal mines. He brings most encouraging reports, besides three sacks full of the genuine article. He informs us that at the end of the lower tunnel, now in 100 feet, they put in a blast and knocked down more than half a ton of coal. He says the vein is fully three feet thick and improves in quality as the mountain is penetrated. In the Professor's opinion there no longer remains any doubt as to the value of the deposit. The coal is there and in big quantities, and in the course of a short time a valuable mine will be developed. Steve Dannhauser who has charge of the development work, is also sanguine of a big success. Work will be resumed after the 14th, and according to both the Professor and Mr. Dannhauser some startling developments are expected.—Alturas Plaindealer.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

While the baseball game between the Cedarville and Klamath teams was most exciting Monday afternoon, a young lady from Cedarville was particularly enthusiastic over the playing of her home team, and screamed her delight over their successful efforts at winning the big first money. She is said to be the proud possessor of a mass of hair of the brightest of Titian red. One of the Klamath boys, not relishing seeing victory snatched from his team, yelled at her: "Cut it out! You are making it too warm here with that red hair! Where did you get it anyway?" The young lady was fully equal to the occasion, and retorted with spirit: "Shut up yourself, kid! Where did I get my hair? Well, it was a birthday present. That's where I got it!" The young man had nothing more to say.—Lake County Examiner.
