

CRUSHED BY MAMMOTH LOG

Ex. Scott Loses Life While Loading Logs in Woods Near Long Lake

Alex Scott, a man about 50 years of age who has been logging for the Long Lake Lumber Company, was crushed beneath a thousand foot log at 9 o'clock this morning and received injuries from which he died shortly after.

Mr. Scott was loading logs in the woods near the Long Lake mill and as he had a mammoth log near the wagon, the loading chain broke and the log rolled back down the skids. Mr. Scott attempted to get out of the way but the log fell suddenly that it caught him and killed over his body up to the hips. One of his legs was broken in three places and his hip received two fractures and he was injured internally. Drs. Hamilton and Fisher were called to the scene of the accident, but the unfortunate man died at 12 o'clock shortly after their arrival, from internal hemorrhage of the lungs.

The deceased was a member of the Foresters. A niece, Mrs. G. Freeman, lives with her husband at Long Lake and was present when he died. Other relatives live in Michigan. His body will be brought to this city this evening and arrangements will be made for the funeral later.

FEATURE OF KLAMATH FALLS.

If there were no other resources the Klamath section save the agricultural interest, which embraces 10,000 acres of farming land that being reclaimed by the Federal government by a system of canals and the draining of the tule marshes, of the great adjacent stock ranges, would support a population of 50,000 and make Klamath Falls a city from 10,000 to 15,000 people.

Again, if the Klamath section had other resources save its 11,000, 20,000 feet of sugar and yellow pine timber, which is adjacent and tributary to the Upper Klamath Lake—the largest body of fresh water west of the Rocky mountains—and the 80 to 90 miles of navigable rivers and lakes and the practically unlimited water power that can be so cheaply obtained from the Link and Klamath Rivers, it would support a population of 100,000 people and make Klamath Falls a city of from 10,000 to 15,000 people.

Still again, if the Klamath section had no other resources and wonderful hot springs, its immense game and fish preserves, its unexcelled resort features including some of the grandest scenic views of the world, amongst them the great Crater Lake, all of which are now attracting the attention of the wealthy people of the country, it would support a population of 250,000 people and Klamath Falls would be a city of from 8,000 to 10,000 people.

The estimates herein made are certainly conservative, and one must conclude that the Klamath section, within the next few years will have a population of over 200,000 and the city of Klamath Falls will have a population of from 40,000 to 50,000 people.

The above resume has reference only to the local resources and is not intended to cover the development of the empire north and east of Klamath Falls and Klamath County, all of which is tributary to the Klamath Basin section.

The first railroad has now entered Klamath County and is being pushed to Klamath Falls as fast as men and money can do it.

INCOMING TRAVEL DOUBLES OUTGOING.

The incoming travel has been over double that of the outgoing for the past week. There were 26 arrivals on the boat Tuesday evening and the same number last night. The outgoing passengers have been 12 for each night. A great many of the incoming passengers are remaining in the county and if the heavy travel continues it is bound to make a big increase in the population of Klamath Falls.

CARNIVAL BOOTHS.

Work was commenced today on a number of the booths to be erected by the business men in front of their stores for Carnival week. The Queen's throne room and booth are well under way. Among the merchants who are getting the lumber on the ground for booths are: G. Heitkemper, J. K. Sugarman, W. H. Dolbeer, C. J. Willson, K. K. K. Store and H. J. Winters. Work on others will commence tomorrow and Saturday.

Beals C. Wright of Boston and Frederick B. Alexander of New York started this week for their 11,000 mile trip to Australia, where they will represent the United States in the contest for the Davis cup, representing supremacy in international lawn tennis. Wright left Boston to meet Alexander in Montreal. From there they will go to Vancouver, where they will take the steamer for Melbourne, where the international matches will occur the last week in November.

Henry Boivin who was selected as one of the committee to act as judge of the baby show, was told that it was an Indian baby show that he was to be judge of. He was quite indignant and was going to do things with the Carnival committee.

FASHIONABLE HOMES

Many Fine Residences and Buildings Being Constructed

Hot Springs Company Has Large Force of Men Building Half Mile of Cement Walks Along Esplanade

One of the busiest places in this section at present is out around the Hot Springs tract. Over a hundred men, including carpenters, stone masons, teamsters and cement workers are busy as bees taking advantage of the warm weather, so as to accomplish as much as possible before winter sets in.

All over the city building improvements have been postponed until within the last month, but now operations have been commenced on a large scale and no time will be lost from now on until the winter weather sets in.

The Hot Springs Company plan to lay about half a mile of cement walks this fall and a large force of men are now at work under the direction of O. A. Harris, an expert contractor from Roseville, California. Four inches of fine crushed rock, from the Company's plant, is being used as the foundation. This is rolled and packed and when finished with cement will make a walk that will last a lifetime.

L. Houston, is another of Klamath Falls' business men who is putting up a beautiful home in this section. The carpenters are now working on one made by the Hot Springs Company, a large number of fine residences and buildings are being constructed by business men of the city who have purchased property there. John Ellis and Prof. W. E. Faught were the first to build in this addition. They each have handsome homes. The modern bungalow being built for Mr. Hill is practically completed. Attorney C. F. Stone, who is having a beautiful residence built on the Esplanade at a cost of about $2000, expects to be able to occupy his new home within the month. P.

Wagon after wagon load of rock from the crusher at the head of the Esplanade is being hauled and strung out along the property line and put in place and rolled. The cement crew is following close and it is predicted that if favorable weather continues for a month walks will be completed along the Esplanade from the Company's brick building at the intersection of Main street, to Alameda Drive. This will reach practically all the interior finishing. Many other citizens who contemplate building have had to postpone operation until spring on account of the lateness of the season.

Work on the big Natatorium and bath house is progressing satisfactorily. The stone work is completed and the carpenters are now erecting the enclosure. The completion of the plant will extend well into the winter on account of the large amount of pipe that will have to be laid to furnish the hot water from the springs for the big tank. The building will also be heated by coils of hot water pipes.

Geo. B. Snyder has a crew of men working on his store building next to the Bath House. All of these buildings with the exception of the launch will be used for moving the big boat to such locations as the fancy of the occupants and the fishing and hunting lead them.

The company do not expect, of course, to have their boat for this fall's hunting, but will get it ready for the coming summer, so that they can take their families to the lake and enjoy a season of ideal summer outdoor life on the waters, and as well headquarters later on in the shooting season.—Tidings

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The boys' athletic association of the High School have accepted an offer from Miss Shives for an athletic benefit entertainment to be given in the High School auditorium Friday evening of this week. The boys will sell tickets to all who may be persuaded to buy. They are enthusiastic about the matter because they feel an evening of reading by Miss Sophie Shives will be a treat to all who hear her. Mrs. Zamwalt will sing. These entertainers are sure to please. Incidentally the boys hope to get their association out of debt.

WET WINTER NEEDED.

I. D. Applegate returned last evening from the Lava Beds, where he has just had his sheep removed for the winter. Mr. Applegate says that the feed this fall is just fair although the range is dry. The predicted hard, stormy winter is the best thing that could happen for the sheepmen as wet weather would insure plenty of grass next spring. In case the winter remained dry, Mr. Applegate states that there would be very little grass for feed next year. He believes the stockmen are in better condition to stand a hard winter this year than they would be later.

OPPORTUNITY FOR COUNCIL

An Inexpensive Way Offered City to Rid Itself of Sewerage on 2nd and 3rd

Practically all of the sewerage from the Heights and Main street is now emptied into the swamp at the foot of Second and Third streets, and thereby has caused an unhealthy condition in this section of the city. Heretofore there has been no practical means of carrying this sewerage to open water, but now a most inexpensive way is offered the city to rid itself of this menacing danger.

A cut is being dredged in on Oak street by Mr. Adams, and it would be a matter of perhaps three or four days work at a cost of only $200 or $300 to make a cut on Second street and one on Third street to Walnut, connecting with the cut now being made on Oak street. The distance to be dredged on each of the streets mentioned would be approximately 250 feet, and would enable the sewerage to escape into deep water.

It is the most inexpensive way yet offered to rid the city of danger from these two localities, and it is hoped that the Council will see fit to secure the services of the dredge while it can be had.

FRUIT STANDS GET CAUGHT.

Revenue Inspector Finds Many Without Licenses for One Per Cent.

A number of the dispensers of one per cent got caught yesterday on the regular tour of Internal Revenue Inspector Hobbs, of Albany. It is necessary to take out an Internal Revenue license by those handling the Temperance Beer and but very few of the fruit stands of this city who are selling this beverage have done so. Inspector Hobbs visited the liquid fruit stores yesterday and found a large number without licenses. There were no arrests made but the Inspector compelled all to take out licenses and pay the fine, which is 50 per cent of the revenue license. The annual license fee for one per cent is $20.

President Roosevelt's commission on country life, with Prof. L. H. Bailey of New York as its chairman, has organized and is ready for business. The methods of the commission, Prof. Bailey said, will enter into all phases of rural life, and 300,000 persons all over the country will be asked to answer questions. These queries will be completed this month.

TWO MORE EXCURSIONS COMING TO KLAMATH.

Two more big excursions are planned for Klamath Falls this fall. The first excursion will leave San Francisco and will arrive here during Carnival week. No definite information can be obtained as to the number expected to come on this excursion, but many inquiries have been received as to hotel accommodations and also the number that can be handled by the Transportation Company between the railroad and Klamath Falls.

The second excursion will come from Portland and is being arranged by the parties who so successfully conducted the last two excursions from Portland. This will be the last of the season's excursions into Klamath county, and it will leave Portland on October 18 and arrive in Klamath Falls on the evening of October 19.

The excursions from Portland have resulted in much good to this section as they have brought into this county, the class of people most needed, practical farmers and gardeners, who purchase land and make a home on it. These are the people who will build up the country and make business for the merchants of the town in the county.

QUEEN GOLDIE SELECTS CHIEF MAIDS OF HONOR.

Miss Goldie Barnes, who was elected Queen of the Carnival to rule her loyal subjects, the people of the city of Klamath Falls and county, during the week commencing October 12, has selected as her Chief Maid of Honor, Miss Esther Cannon, of Merrill. Miss Cannon has accepted this important position next to the Queen and has been allowed to choose one of the maids to attend the Queen. Her selection has not been announced yet, neither has that of the other maids who will be named by the Queen.

HOUSE BOAT ON THE KLAMATH.

Ashland Sportsmen Are Planning It for Their Pleasure.

A select company of Ashlanders who have been enjoying for some years past the duck hunting and fishing found on the west shores of Big Klamath Lake, are planning for the construction of a houseboat and gasoline towing launch to be stationed at a suitable place in one of the many fine streams that put into the lake. The boat will be fitted up with comfortable quarters, such as are usually provided for houseboats, while the
