CALIFORNIA MEN
BUYING HORSES

There will always be a good demand for good horses. While the prices offered for inferior grades may not be as high as they have been, the men who raise good stock will get good prices for them.

This is the way that M. B. Bosworth, a San Francisco stock man, sizes up the situation. Bosworth has just bought a bunch of 112 fine horses and mules here, and Thursday loaded them in cars for Stockton.

The stock was bought from W. C.
Dalton of Tule Lake, Louis Gerber of Horsefly, and Eugene Hammond of Merrill.

In addition to the purchases made by Bosworth, Mr. Brunzell of Oakland in the county, purchasing good horses for shipment to California.

The Human Side of Mediation

Conferences Are Costing About $1500 Each Day

Newspapermen Finding Much of Interest, Much Out of the Ordinary, and Some Funny Occurrences as Well

By FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 17.
As mediation now swings on through conversation after conversation and conference after conference, this neck of the woods is a dull and uninteresting spot for Mr. Ordinary Man. Far back through the ages the cry of all revolutionists has been to restore the lands to the poor peons of Mexico, but if a poor peon showed up around the Clifton hotel, where they are now endeavoring to settle his affairs, he would probably not only lose his lands but his shirt.

It is pay, pay, pay, and the mediators and delegates to the mediation conferences are paying at a lively rate. When it all put down in cold figures the cost of the conferences here will be astounding.

After the first flurry, when special correspondents and near-diplomats from every direction flocked into Niagara Falls, the colony has now simmered down until there are approximately fifty-six, including the mediators and their suites, the Americans, Mexicans and newspaper correspondents. A conservative estimate of the average cost of "mediating" to each of these fifty-six is $25 a day in hotel bills, meals and automobile hire.

This makes the average daily ordinary "living expenses" of the colony $1,500 per day. Figuring on this basis, mediation in the Mexican trouble has cost $39,200. But war for the same length of time would have cost far more, not to mention casualties.

This does not, of course, include the salaries of clerks and the various secretaries of the three mediators, the American and Mexican delegation.

There is also the inestimable sum spent in telegraph tolls by the newspapers; the cost of transmitting long code messages between the Prospect house and Washington; similar messages received and sent from Mexico City and the communication the mediators have had with their own countries.

But mediation is a great little sport, with no time for thought as to expenses.

The following is the general scheme of mediation as followed at Niagara Falls:

At 11 o'clock each morning da Gama f Brazil, Naon of Argentina and Suarez de Chilli, go to their conference room. There is no set schedule for the holding of conversations with the Mexican or American delegates.

Sometimes an engagement may be made in advance, but not often. After gathering in the conference room and diplomatically discussing the carpet on the floor or the weather, the Mexicans or Americans may be invited to appear or ask that they be heard.

If it is the Americans who are to be heard the state department chauffeur is aroused from the rear seat of his machine, and he rolls up in front of the Prospect house. Judge Lamar, Frederick W. Lehman and their secretary, H. Percival Dodge, followed by Robert F. Rose, ponderous representative of the state department, enter.

The car progresses from the Prospect house to the bridge, where the envoys, Dodge, Rose and the chauffeur pay 10 cents each to pass on to Canada. The car circles the Clifton hotel.

Across the river the falls are roaring and glistening in the sunlight.
Stopping at the door the mediation delegation alights, diplomatically and with great dignity. Judge Lehman, however, can't suppress a laugh, and so he laughs.

Newspaper men greet the delegates and learn nothing. They enter the elevator, ascend to the conference room, the doors are closed and mediation is on.

The secret service guard at the Clifton has been reduced by two men, but whenever a conversation is in progress a pair of the king's sleuths pace back and forth before the door.
They march solemnly and with dignity befitting the occasion.

After a time the American delegates come down stairs. Justice Lamar may or may not have something to say. He is extremely careful of every word he uses.

He talks very slowly and with extreme caution. When he is through the job of the newspaper men is to decide what he meant.

Justice Lamar compares the work of the correspondents here to fishing in a bath tub. When there are no developments he will say:

"Now, there really are no fish in this tub. There is nothing to say."

At other times he will declare:

"There are fish in the tub this time all right, but I can't tell you what they are." Interviewed alone the justice is very pleasant. It seems actually to pain him sometimes that he cannot answer questions asked him.

When the Mexicans confer with the mediators they do not cause as much fuss about the hotel as the Americans.
Having their rooms on the same floor as the conference room, they slip in or out without attracting any attention.

Lantern Slides to Teach Young Oregon

As a result of contributions from public-spirited citizens, a pictorial instruction bureau, to provide lantern slides on every imaginable subject, mainly for use in the public schools of the state, has been established in Portland, under the direction of Miss Alicia M. Zierden. For the present, headquarters for the bureau has been opened in the county courthouse, where more than 5,000 slides are now ready to be lent to the schools.

Miss Zierden has conducted similar bureaus in many of the Eastern cities, and recently came to Oregon to initiate the work in this state. She said:

"The object of this department is purely philanthropic. It aims to establish a free loan collection of edu-

This grateful citizen testified long

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.
Such testimony is complete—the evidence is conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.
M. B. Biden, 614 W. Clark street, Medford, Ore., says: "I suffered from rheumatic pains, caused by uric acid in my system. The pain was especially severe in my back. My kidneys were disordered, too, and my health was all run down. I couldn't stoop without getting dizzy. Doan's Kidney Pills were highly recommended to me and they did just what was claimed for them. As soon as I used them, the pain began to leave me and the action of my kidneys was regulated.
By the time I had finished two boxes I was without a sign of kidney trouble. I gladly confirm what I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills when I recommended them several years ago.
I can only add that kidney trouble and the rheumatic pains have never returned."
