JACKSON ROAD TO START SOON

United Press Service

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19.—The Jackson highway, which will link the North and South as the Lincoln highway will connect the East and West, is gaining much support in the southern states. The proposed road will run from Chicago to Miami, and as at present planned, will traverse Alabama, Kentucky, Illinois and Florida, though Ohio and Georgia and Indiana are anxious to have it pass through their territory.

Under the auspices of the Dixie Highway association, which is backing several moves for better roadway in Dixie, the Jackson scheme is fast being whipped into shape. Committees have been formed in all the interested states and it is probable that active work of construction will begin sometime this fall. There are already over a hundred county commissioners in the different states.

Italian Exodus Small

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The number of Italians leaving the national capital to join the colors is not so great as it was during the Turko-Italian war.

The outpouring at that time nearly demolished the Italian district of the city. The reason ascribed is that comparatively few Italian immigrants have come here in the last few years.

Pigeon Joy Ride Kills Time

SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—The reason that so many travelers have missed trains at the King street Union passenger station has been established. Pigeons have been joy riding on the minute hands of the huge master clock in the tower. This slowed down the master clock as well as every other timepiece in the depot, which it controls.

CORONATION IN JAPAN PRIVATE

AMERICAN TOURISTS PLANNING TO SEE CEREMONY WILL BE DISAPPOINTED, AS THE JAPANESE CEREMONY IS SECRET

United Press Service

TOKIO, Aug. 2.—(By mail)—Reports are arriving in Japan that parties of American tourists are being made up to visit Japan in November and attend the coronation of the Emperor. Japan has many attractions in November when the maples are red, but Americans should be warned that seeing the coronation will not be one of them.

The ceremony is entirely private, taking from start to finish within the walls of the Imperial castle at Kyoto. The only foreigners who will be admitted are the envoys extraordinary of foreign powers. In view of the war it is expected that the European countries will not send special envoys but will appoint the ambassadors and ministers that are residing here. Chairs will be provided for them in the great hall where the Emperor after the coronation in private before the shrine of his ancestors will announce himself to representatives of his subjects of foreign nations. These official personages alone will be permitted within the walls of the castle and only for this semi-public part of the ceremony and for the banquet which will take place the following day.

There will be no processions which tourists might hope to record on their cameras and neither influence nor dollars will open the closed doors of the castle.

There will be of course, the sight of the Emperor and Empress arriving and departing by train, and Kyoto, always a lovely city, will be filled with the bustle of the uniformed and decorated persons coming and going. But to the Japanese mind it is probably to regard the coronation as a spectacle and foreigners in making their plans had better take into account the absolute certainty that they will see nothing more of the coronation than the walls of the building in which it is being held.

Fish in Broadway

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Aug. 19.—As a mute protest against what they considered inadequate drainage of East Broadway, business men declared a "day off" and went fishing in front of their places of business. When the city council failed to take any action to rid the streets of its surplus water the business men got several small fishes, threw them into the pools along the street and then baited up their lines, and grimly waited for bites. The council met in special session, and decided upon drainage for that street.

First Wounded Return to Rome; Streets Lined

By ALICE BONE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

ROME, Aug. 4.—(By mail)—Six hundred wounded soldiers, the first visual horror of Italy's entrance into the war, arrived in Rome today.

Rome, emotional, responsive, gazed upon the unloading of the two train loads and their despatch in tram-cars, ambulances and automobiles to the various hospitals. It was a sight long to be remembered. Traffic was stopped as the vehicles bearing the Red Cross passed through the city.

Women wept, and men with hats in hand cheered the returning wounded, while from the same depot fresh recruits were departing for the front.

So far Rome has gazed only upon these departing soldiers, banners have been torn, and flowers had pelted the "soldati." Today all was changed. The little Crown Prince and his sisters, his mother Queen Helena and the Queen Mother Marguerita have been at the station to cheer the soldiers on their way to the mountains to join the men with the king.

Today in the midst of the surging Roman crowd the crown prince again was among the people. Two wounded men in particular attracted his attention for they wore upon their breasts medals for bravery. Strongly affected at the sight of these two heroes the little Prince insisted that they enter his automobile and be conducted to the hospital in his company. The Roman crowd watching the scene broke into cheers and wild demonstrations.

"Vive Prince Humbert!" "Vive Savoia." "Vive the army."

But the Prince of Piedmont, future king of Italy, his eyes fastened eagerly on the two soldiers, began to question them eagerly.

"Have you seen papa—the king?" The two soldiers, eyes filled with tears, voices broken with emotion tried in vain to reply.

"I would like to go to the front and fight with the soldiers for Italy with papa," he said affectionately, trying with childish sympathy to encourage the two soldiers to talk.

"But have you seen papa," he reiterated.

The two soldiers weeping and laughing with emotion replied:

"Yes we have seen him. He gave us these medals with his own hands. He shook hands with us. He called us his brave sons."

"And how is he?" cried the Crown Prince.

"Fine replied the soldiers," and light hearted when among us. He acts as though it were a holiday instead of war."

Then the two soldiers recounted to the little prince all the details of the encounter in which they were wounded. And not until he had seen them safely placed in the hospital would he leave their sides. At the station to greet the returning wounded men from the front was also Queen Helena, the Queen Mother Marguerita and the Duke of Genoa.

The number of wounded is being kept a secret throughout Italy. The Roman papers have not even been allowed to print the number of today's returning men.

May Teachers Marry?

PORTLAND, Aug. 19.—The city school board is in a quandary. Whether to employ women teachers who have embarked on the sea of matrimony is the question. Early this year the school board discharged a fair instructor who dared to marry. She appealed to the courts, and Circuit Judge Morrow held that unless she were shown to be unfit to teach she should be reinstated and given the salary she would have earned had she occupied her place in the school room. The board has decided to appeal to the supreme court.

Heretofore each woman accepting a position as teacher in the public school has been compelled to sign a contract accepting dismissal in case she married. Judge Morrow held such a clause was illegal.
