

Trial of Dr. White Draws Crowds to Court Room

as having been told him by Waite was that his father-in-law was tired of living, and asked him to get the arsenic for him so he could die. It was only a few days after the death of Peck at the Waite apartments on Riverside drive that the first hint came to the authorities here and in Grand Rapids that all was not as it should be. This hint took the form of a telegram from New York to the authorities in Grand Rapids asking an investigation before Mr. Peck's body was interred.

It has since developed that when Waite saw this in the papers, he went to Margaret Horton at the school of languages where they first met, and according to Mrs. Horton, asked her to buy him a certain "sleeping powder," which she says she did.

Mrs. Horton, who at once began giving out columns and columns of interviews, insisted that the "studio" she shared with Waite in the hotel was used only as a studio, that Waite never was anything more than friendly with her, and that they had to register under an assumed name, as man and wife, to get the suite.

Harry Horton, husband of the "Woman of Mystery," at first declared that Margaret was so utterly innocent of the ways of the world and so incapable of any wrong that he felt her association with Waite was to be entirely condoned. Since then, however, Horton has been credited with the statement that he knew his wife was getting money from someone.

Mrs. Dorothy von Palmenberg, a friend of the Hortons, who staunchly supported Mrs. Horton's story at first, later quarreled with her, and gave out a long interview, in which she told how poor the Hortons were when she knew them a couple of years ago, and how suddenly and luxuriously affluent they were when she met them after Mrs. Horton had met Waite.

When the police went to arrest Waite they found him in bed apparently dead, with the poison containers beside him. Waite was not dead, but he lay in a stupor for days, being transferred to Bellevue when he was recovered sufficiently to be moved.

Should Waite maintain his innocence in court today, the trial will proceed, so far as the defence is concerned, probably on the theory that Waite was temporarily insane when he committed the crimes charged with him.

The state will try to prove that he was at all times sane, and that his alleged crimes were planned and carried to their conclusion in cold blood.

Should this situation arise it will develop a battle between alienists such as has not been seen since the Harry Thaw trials.

The court room today was jammed to the doors with curious men and women, and hundreds of others were turned away by the line of police guarding the entrances to the building. A venire of 250 men is drawn from which to start choosing a jury, but should the case actually go to trial it is expected that this number will be far from sufficient.

Girl Artists Struggling for Prizes

An offer by the Society for Electrical Development in New York city for a poster so large it may be used on bill boards and so small it may be used as a stamp, has brought forth contributions from thousands of artists. This photograph shows girls of a high school art class with their drawings ready to submit. The contest is open to the whole United States.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure, for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleans, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder, and almost tasteless.—Adv.

The Weber Always Leads

ABOUT 1845, when the first Weber was built, you could not buy a better wagon than a Weber. There were no better built. Weber made "the best" his standard.

That was nearly seventy years ago, but the standard has been the same every year since. You know that, from the good work you have seen Weber wagons doing. You know they have been always popular. We can show you, if you come in, that "the best" is the Weber standard to-day. We want to show the wagon to you in the up-to-date form, with every improvement, some of which you can't find on any other make of wagon.

You can see, here in the store, the new fifth wheel, the folding end gate, the link end rods, the strong construction of gears, wheels, and boxes. Come in the first chance you have and see this wagon.
