DECLARES WILSON HAS TOO MUCH VISION

Famous Cartoonist, Writer and Progressive, Comes out Against Executive Who Collects Pretty Adjectives, Choice Metaphors and Maple Sugar and Touches Them Off and Watches the Smoke.

By GEORGE ADE

This year I am going to vote for Charles Evans Hughes as against Woodrow Wilson for a good many reasons. Four years ago I was a Progressive. It is true that my enthusiasm for some of the planks in the Progressive platform was so moderate that I had trouble in controlling it. I was not scared to death by the proposals made in the platform, as some of our republican friends seemed to be, but I had my reasonable doubts.

I liked the spirit and make-up and leadership of the Progressive party and I tried to be loyal to the organization two years ago, but it was evident, even then, that the very structure of the party was beginning to crumble. The Progressive party had to keep growing or go out of business. The logic of events restored the Republican party to its time-honored place as principal executor of Democratic mismanagement.

The Progressives must not figure that they made a losing fight. Why, even the Democrats are now talking their commission (with a hybrid sort of protection as an incidental and unavoidable side-issue) and they have passed a child labor law, which is a poor imitation of the one that will be passed very soon. And the Republicans have nominated for president a candidate who was simply made to order for the Progressive element.

I marched with the Progressive party until it became a dwindling minority of bleeding martyrs and I would have continued to march if there had been a probability of my arriving anywhere. I liked my traveling, companions and the scenery, but a man cannot continue a journey which offers no terminus.

I believe the first duty of every good citizen this year is to join the movement to change Washington from a word-factory to a deed-factory. For one, I have had enough alpacas cost, and Chautauque, and college rhetoric and the oleaginous Josephus to last me for a hundred years.

Colonel Roosevelt did the sensible and patriotic thing last January when he indicated that he was ready to jump in and support any good Republican who could defeat Wilson.

The Colonel saw what was wrong up at Washington from the very start. Mr. Wilson means to be sincere and he wants to do what is right, but he was brought up on a college campus. He was accustomed, for years, to be dramatic and oracular before a lot of college boys who could not talk back. He finally came to believe that whatever he said a thing, it was so.

Accordingly, when a Tampico crisis or a Lusitania crisis or a railway strike crisis confronted the good doctor, he did not tackle it according to the methods of old-fashioned statesmen, brought up in the school of hard knocks.

No; he collected a lot of pretty adjectives, symmetrical phrases, choice metaphors and high grade similes, and mixed them in a glib bowl with frankincense and myrrh and maple sugar, and touched off the whole thing, and then, as the smoke rose, he sat back and saw things in the smoke.

They say he has vision. We have no such vision he sees things that ain't. He is a perfectly nice man who believes he can solve problems by talking about them.

When I recall what has happened in this country during the past three

Boston Wins World's Series From Brooklyn

United Press Service

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—By defeating the Brooklyn Nationals today by a score of 4 to 1, the Boston Americans are the champions of the world in America's national pastime. The victory gives Boston four games and Brooklyn one.

Today's game was a clean cut victory. The Boston club outlit the National League champions and made only two errors to three by the Dodgers.

The weather was cool and clear. Pfeffer and Meyers formed the Dodgers' battery and Spree and Cady that for the Red Sox. Umpire Connolly was behind the bat, O'Day watched the bases and Quigley and Dineen presided along the foul lines.

The attendance today was 42,620, and the receipts $22,873. This makes the total receipts for the series $385,000, the biggest in the history of the world's series games, excepting the series of 1912. Each of the two club owners will get $22,000.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Neither team reached the home plate in the first inning.

Each scored one in the second. In the third Brooklyn couldn't but the Red Sox annexed two runs. Cady singled and Hooper walked. Cady scored when Shortstop Olson fumbled Jauvrin's grounder and then threw wild to first. Olson was charged with two errors on this mis-years. I pity all the good men who are sitting around benumbed by repeated insults and bewildered to learn that their native land is regarded by the rest of the world as a joke, but the large share of my pity is reserved for the poor historian of fifty years from now who will have to explain away our shame so that school children will believe it.

Of late Mr. Wilson has been talking preparedness, but his voice does not sound natural. Why did he have to wait eighteen months after the European war broke out to discover that we needed a regular army and navy? He did not speak out on the preparedness issue until democratic play. Shorten then singled, scoring Hooper.

No runs were made by either club in the fourth inning.

Again in the fifth Brooklyn could not make a run while Boston added another to her lead. Hooper singled and Jauvrin doubled, scoring Hooper.

In the sixth neither side made a score. To this stage of the game Shore for Boston had allowed only one hit.

The seventh inning was scoreless. Dell replaced Pfeffer at the end of the seventh. Pfeffer had allowed four runs and six hits.

No runs were registered in the eighth.

Brooklyn couldn't get around the diamond in the first half of the ninth, and the world's series was over.

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 12.—One woman has been killed, four strikers fatally injured and four policemen and thirty rioters hurt in the rioting of the past thirty-six hours at the Standard Oil company's plant here.

A mob this morning stormed Samuel Greenburg's saloon after it was reported that he was conferring with strikebreakers. Greenburg and his family fled to the roof of the saloon, but the strikers set the building on fire.

The police rescued thirty people who were in the saloon building when it took fire. The strikers cut the hose carrying water to the burning building many times.

Below their dead line in the "hook" district, the strikers are sending back all workers, thus stopping all industrial plants in that section.

After the fire in Greenburg's saloon had been put out, the strikers returned and wrecked what was left of it. The police have been instructed to shoot to kill if such action is necessary to quell the rioting.

The Central Railroad company has stationed an armed guard of twenty men at the Second street station preparatory to resuming traffic, following seizure of the station last night.

SAYS CANADIANS REGARD AMERICA WITH CONTEMPT

CLASS THIS GOVERNMENT WITH MEXICO, SAYS WOMAN

Feeling of Soldiers Returning From European War Is That This Government, as Administered by President Wilson, as One of No Ability, Courage or Determination of Purpose, Woman, Declares.

Mrs. Estelle Tillman, 1408 East Broadway, has just returned from an extended stay in her old home in Ohio. She traveled west on the Canadian Pacific, and relates some interesting, albeit humiliating, experiences, which, taken by and large, convince her that the United States is not held in very high regard by the Canadian people or by their English cousins.

"I met scores of soldiers on the trains," said Mrs. Tillman. "Some of them had served on the allied front in Flanders. All were of one mind in their opinion of America. They held this government in the utmost contempt.

"Why, they even place us in the same class with Mexico. They argue that our government, as administered by President Wilson and his associates at Washington, has no ability, no courage, no determination of purpose.

"The Canadian people, the Canadian soldiers and their English soldiers whom I met have no confidence whatever in President Wilson and his administration. They declare that there is only one outstanding figure in American life that commends itself to the admiration of foreign countries. That person is Roosevelt. They believe that had Mr. Roosevelt been president during the last few years the United States would not now and itself in the humiliating position that it is; that we would have commanded the respect and admiration of the entire world, yet maintained a dignified peace through all the European struggle. The people in Canada will be surprised if we re-elect Wilson."

Mrs. Tillman's observations, she reports, have led her to the conclusion that Wilson will not be re-elected. Ohio and the Middle West contain a preponderance of Hughes sentiment, she says.

"Every woman ought to vote for Hughes," she says, "because he has promised to support the national suffrage amendment.

"To oppose Hughes is to put yourself in the same class with the whiskey distillers, the beer brewers, the saloon keepers and the bartenders. They are opposed to him because he stands for suffrage. The liquor interests know that when women get the ballot they soon will be driven out of business."

Mrs. Tillman says that the senatorial contest in Ohio between Governor Myron T. Herrick and Allen Pomerene is an absorbing issue in that state. Senator Pomerene is a candidate for re-election. The result will be close, but she is of the opinion that Mr. Herrick will win. —Portland Oregonian.
