Food Preparedness Campaign

Official Oregon Agricultural College Extension Service and United States Department of Agriculture Co-Operating

Baby beets are best for canning. says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, which is co-operating with this paper in a country wide campaign against waste and for the conservation of the food supply of the nation. The older the beets the more chance there is for loss of color. The most suitable size is when they run about forty to the quart.

Select beets of uniform size, age and color, and wash thoroughly with stiff vegetable brush. Leave on inch of the tops and all of the roots while blanching, as this will aid in prevention of loss of color. Blanch for six or eight minutes, plunge quickly into cold water for an instant, cut off tops and roots, and rub off skin—do not peel. Pack beets into jars, either whole or cut into such pieces as desired, add a level teaspoonful of salt per quart, and fill with hot water. Partially tighten tops and sterilize for an hour and a half to two hours. (Tin cans should be sealed completely before sterilization.) After complete sterilization, remove jars from the boiling water, tighten tops at once and invert to cool in a place free from draughts. Wrap jars in dark paper to prevent bleaching.

Beet Tops—Beet tops for greens should be canned the day they are picked. Sort and clean very carefully, and blanch in steam for fifteen minutes either in regular steamer or in other vessel so arranged that the greens may be suspended above an inch or two of boiling water. After blanching, plunge beet tops into cold water for an instant, then cut into desired lengths and pack tightly into jars. Add hot water to fill jars and season to taste. Partially tighten tops of jars and sterilize for an hour and a half. Remove jars from hot water and complete sealing, and place in an inverted position out of a draught to cool.

The small beets taken out of the rows in thinning may be canned with the greens, and are very palatable if served in this manner. The process is the same as for canning the tops.

Preparedness Will Prevent Militarism Says A. C. Strange

PORTLAND, July 11.—Militarism is a natural psychological attitude which is impossible under American governmental systems, declared A. C. Strange, superintendent of schools of Baker, Oregon, here today, in an address on "Preparedness Through Physical Education," delivered before the Department of Physical Education of the National Education Association. "Preparedness will tend to prevent, rather than promote militarism," Superintendent Strange declared. "Physical fitness is the basis of all true preparedness. If the army is made up of men who can endure long marches and hard labor, it will not be defeated. Hence, schools must promote adequate preparedness by maintaining an efficient system of protecting the health of the child, and building up his physical strength."

Public School Compared to Casket of Holy Grail

PORTLAND, July 11.—The world crisis, as it affects the United States and the part this country is playing in it, is a test of the public school, according to Mrs. Mary C. C. Bradford, superintendent of public instruction of Colorado, as expressed in an address before the elementary section of the National Education Association here.

Taking as her subject "The Public School and the Nation in 1917," Mrs. Bradford declared that if the United States carried into effect its avowed policy of "righteousness to all humanity," and "sacrifice for all nations," it will be "because the American public school has, in some degree at least, fulfilled the august task confided to it by the commands of democratic government."

"If, after this great war to end wars shall be over," she continued, "America functions as the supreme idealistic force in the reorganization of the world, it will be because the public schools have given to the nation a higher vision that the world before has seen."

International Correspondence School Representative Visits City

Mr. W. E. Johnson, superintendent of San Francisco, and Geo. W. Smith, district manager of Anderson, Calif., representing the International Correspondence schools of Scranton, Pa., one of the greatest educational institutions in the world, are visiting the city.

Mr. Smith states that owing to the great demand for trained men in the army and navy the schools have arranged some special preparatory courses for second lieutenant (U. S. army), master signal electrician (United States army), sergeant chauffeurs (quartermasters corps), electricians sergeants (Coast Artillery corps), second lieutenants (U. S. marine corps), sergeant clerks (quartermaster corps), acting pay clerks (U. S. navy), power boat management (Coast Defense Naval Reserve), naval electricians preliminary (U. S. navy).

These courses will afford splendid opportunities for our young men to train themselves along the lines that are most needed today. Mr. Smith and Mr. Johnson are leaving for Ashland tomorrow. 11-1*

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before ties into the blood, causing illness. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowels pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside bathing. Men wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion; others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.—Adv.

Will Raffle Himself

Frank McGinty

Frank McGinty, chief health inspector of Hoboken, will raffle himself. He has promised to wed her, be she thin, thick, tall, short, old or young, who contributes most to the Hoboken Young Men's Christian Association fund for camp comforts for the soldiers of the New Jersey regiments. Mr. McGinty is past 31 years of age, so he did not have to register, and thus there is little chance of the draft interfering with the honeymoon on which he stands ready to enter. He has confessed to these attributes, saying incidentally that the raffle is open to all the women of the United States:

Health, good; Eyes, attractive; Hair, intact; Disposition, genial; Voice, pleasant (no telephone tests reversed);

Salary, $1,800 a year; Habits, inexpensive; Principal trait, curiosity. Mr. McGinty adds the all-important fact that he is a bachelor.

It costs at least 25 per cent more to build now than a few years ago. Are you carrying enough insurance? Ask Chilcote for rates. 9

LUMBER MEN WASTE WASHINGTON WOOD

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11—Millions of cords of wood in Western Washington are being destroyed every month, says R. C. White of Chesham, Wash., in a telegram to Senator McNary. He suggests that steps be taken to handle and make use of what is now wasted.

One mill, he says, destroys 1,000 cords of wood every month. The causes are lack of cars, no coal and shortage of lumber, he says.

Senator McNary is passing the information on to the national defense council.
