Not So Slow

"Yes," said the old man to his visitor, "I am proud of my girls and would like to see them comfortably married, and as I have made a little money they will not go penniless to their husbands. There is Mary, 25 years old, and a really good girl, I shall give her $1,000 when she marries. Then comes Bet, who won't see 25 again, I shall give her $3,000 when she marries; and the man that takes Eliza, who is 40, will have $5,000."

The young man reflected a moment and then asked: "You haven't one about 50, have you?"

TEACH RIFLEMEN HOW TO WINK

Haitian Gendarmie Willing, But Keep Both Eyes Open When They Pull Triggers

PORT AU PRINCE, Nov. 17.—In preparation for the first national rifle match to be held in Haiti, the American officers of the Haitian Gendarmie are engrossed in teaching their native riflemen how to wink. When rifle practice was taken up in earnest for the first time this year among the native troops, their instructors immediately were confronted with the practically universal failure of the gendarmes to close their left eye when sighting along the Springfield barrels. Experiments showed that they were unable to close one eye without closing the other, or to open one eye without opening the other. At first the expedient of putting a patch over the left eye, or tying a handkerchief across it, had to be resorted to. As this did not prove satisfactory General Douglas C. MacDougal, chief of the gendarmie and a shot of national reputation in the United States, instructed his officers to teach the gendarmes the principles of winking. At the recent departmental shoots, held to select eight men teams for the national match, the scores made by the leading gendarmes would have compared creditably with that of the more experienced marines. The gendarmes are absorbed in their newly found skill, and the spirit of rivalry is so keen that President Borno has offered to the best individual shot a gold watch and an autographed letter of commendation. With that championship will go the unwritten title of the most expert winker in a country where winking has been a lost art until the last few weeks.

"BATTLING" SIKI KNEW HOW TO GET RID OF COUNTRYMAN

PARIS, Nov. 17.—"Battling" Siki, while training for his fight with Carpentier, received the visit of a burly Senegalese just arrived in France from Africa and whom the boxer had never seen before. "I want a free ticket for the fight," he said to Siki. "Why, black man I don't know you," said Siki, "why should you get a free ticket?" "I was born in Saint Louis of Senegal, like yourself," responded the negro.

Siki muttered something about enlarging the arena to permit all the citizens of Saint Louis to attend the fight free. Then suddenly turning to one of his trainers he said: "Pour some cologne over his head," pointing to his fellow citizen.

The trainer emptied half a quart of perfume over the burly negro's head. Beaming with delight, running his hands through his wholly hair and smelling his fingers with ecstasy, the visiting Senegalese went away happy. He got no pass for the fight.

Farming

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, CORVALLIS, Nov. 17.—Twenty young men and women of Klamath county, 13 of these directly from Klamath Falls, are among the 4220 students registered at Oregon Agricultural college this year. Of the latter, 2973 are enrolled for the fall term. The growing popularity of the college is indicated by the fact that half of those from this county are freshmen.

Several are prominent in college activities outside regular class work. Earl W. Mack, senior in agriculture is a fast mile runner on the track squad. Martin E. Ramsby, sophomore in commerce, won a numeral on the freshman track team last spring. Clarence Montgomery, sophomore in commerce, is making a name for himself in athletics and theatricals. He has participated in the Junior vanderbilt and the faculty minstrel shows, freshmen baseball and track, and varsity baseball. He is also a member of the college tumbling team and is assistant yet leader of the student body.

The school of commerce with nine enrolled is most popular with Klamath county students. They are being trained in the latest business methods, business law, finance, economics, and civil government. Registered in commerce are Glen Otto Foueh, Fraefels Elizabeth Humphrey, Theodore Montgomery, Faye Gordon, and Fred Gordon, freshmen; Martin E. Ramsby, and Clarence Montgomery, sophomores; Lester Offield, senior; and Clara June DeCuman, vocational.

John L. Elliot, senior; Charles M. Yalson, junior; and Ernest Leroy Miller, sophomore are registered in electrical engineering, a curriculum of theory and practice of the profession. Four large laboratories are provided for experimentation in the oldest and latest theories and discoveries of the science. High voltage dynamos are provided for training and experimental use of advanced students.

Paul Joseph Keller, Kenneth T. Case, and Willis H. Bartlett are freshmen studying civil engineering. This course trains men to enter the field as experts in irrigation, drainage, highway and street construction, city planning, and related vocations.

Ernel Stearns is a senior in mechanical engineering, the purpose of this course being to train young men for positions of usefulness and responsibility in the industrial life of the country. The scientific principals involved in machines, mechanical movements and machine design are investigated and studied by solving numerous problems in classroom and laboratory. The large engineering laboratory building with its extensive equipment contributes strongly to the excellence of O. A. C.'s engineering school.

Gerald Dees West, freshman; and Earl Mack, senior are enrolled in the school of agriculture. Mack is majoring in animal husbandry the courses of which are planned to fit the student for actual raising of livestock on the farm so that he may produce the highest grade of stock in the most economical and business-like manner. Emphasis is here laid on making the student a good judge of all kinds of livestock.

Agnes May McCormack is a junior in the school of music. Vera V. Offield is a freshman in home economics. This course elaborates the practical and scientific points of domestic art. Particular instruction is offered in millinery, dress-making, dietetics, cooking, social ethics, and institutional management.

Boy Held

Danzig Shipbuilding Plants of Germany Go To International Firm

DANTZIG, Nov. 17.—The great shipbuilding works and railway shops at Danzig, formerly belonging to the German government, have been turned over to an international company under a 50 years concession.

This was the expedient determined upon by the English, French and Italian commission appointed by the council of ambassadors in Paris to settle the contention between the government of Poland and the municipality of Danzig as to who should have these works. Thirty per cent of the shares of the international company has been taken by Craven's company of England; 20 per cent by the Societe Batignolles of France, and the remaining 40 per cent by a group of Danzig and Warsaw banks. The board consists of three Englishmen, three Frenchmen, two Poles and two citizens of Danzig.

The first business of the new company will be the assembling of 7,000 freight cars recently imported by Poland from America.
