

PERSONALS.

G. M. Peebles went South to-day. Aug. Giesy and wife drove up from Aurora last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas Gray have been to the Dalles and elsewhere in Eastern Oregon.

President Van Scoy is among the educators at Vashon Island Chautauqua Assembly, at the Sound.

W. S. Gardner lately with W. P. Johnson, has left to make his home in Corvallis, with his family. That town gains a good citizen.

Dr. Doane returned from Viola to-day, with Rev. E. R. Horner, of that place, having held quarterly meeting there for Dr. Harrington.

Judge Thayer and wife came up from Portland this morning, and will go on to Coos county in the evening, taking the California express train.

T. Buchanan, has gone to a good position in the O. P. railroad shops at Yaquina. Mrs. Buchanan is a good business woman, and will conduct the store in his absence.

Mr. Anglin is back from the Capital mine, beyond Mehama, on the North Santiam, prepared to report to the board of directors. He is well pleased with the prospects in that mining region.

Dr. Shackelford on the charge of using for his own gain another man's horse was bound over till the grand jury meets. In default of $100 bail he will lodge and board at the hotel de Croisan.

Mr. Charles Hamilton, the affable operator in temporary charge of the W. U. Telegraph office here, is from Roseburg, but has lately been on duty on the Northern Pacific road at Granite, Idaho.

Gay, Clyde and Allen Cooke start for Newport to-morrow. Gay has insured his limbs and life per Moores & Manning, made his will, and now is ready to be maimed or killed though he would "rather not if it is all the same to you."

Many will hear with deep regret that Dr. J. C. Byrd contemplates removing to Spokane, on account of falling eyesight making a change of occupation imperative for awhile. Mrs. Byrd's brother, Prof. Bruce Wolverton, is Supt. of city schools at Spokane.

Mrs. J. O'Donald went to Portland yesterday. Just before the train hove in sight, she discovered that her ticket was at home. Chambers made the dust fly behind his back as he drove to the house to get the piece of pasteboard, returning in time enough and to spare.

On the overland train from San Francisco to Portland, were W. D. Barstow, a prominent Wells Fargo man, and Henry Hatch, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, in the Land Department of the C. B. & Q. railroad. He was accompanied by his wife, and were bound for St. Paul.

An Important Industry.

The North Salem Tile works, of D. Nash & Co., is apt to be overlooked because it is unpretentious and outside of town. But it is quite important and growing. It is running to its full capacity, making drain pipes during this dry weather to meet the big demand that the fall and winter always create. The railroad authorities have put a switch in to the kiln, and several cars are being loaded. The pipes are sent both up and down the valley. Farmers, orchardists and home builders are realizing the advantage and necessity of thorough drainage. Later on jugs and other articles of pottery will be made. The proprietors of this enterprise, are D. Nash and H. V. Matthews.

Address Letters Correctly.

The end of the Oregon Pacific railroad is Yaquina. Those who go on excursions to the seaside overland line buy tickets to that place and are always reported by their friends and the papers as having gone to Yaquina. Their letters and papers are so addressed. Now the fact is they go on to Newport, the seaside town, and keep wondering why they get to wood from home, and the postmaster at Yaquina is continually marveling why the letters are not called for. If your friends at Newport address their mail to the postoffice.

Meet the teachers with fruits and flowers and smiles to-morrow morning.

UNRESTRAINED ANGER.

A Threshing Machine Proprietor Strikes a Blow That May Prove Fatal.

This comes from Ballston: William Davis, who lives in the northern end of Polk county, is this season operating a steam thrasher, and boards his employers, having a cook house on wheels which follows the machine. On Friday evening he had completed work on the farm of County Judge Stouffer, and after supper commenced cleaning up preparatory to moving to an adjoining field. Three of the men commenced complaining about the food furnished by Mr. Davis, and after some words were discharged. The remainder of the crew started to get the machine ready to move, Mr. D. being on his knees at the front of the machine, when Layton Tindle made the remark that the supper had not been fit to eat, and that the men were right in complaining. Davis told him to keep still and go to work. This greatly exasperated Tindle, and with an oath and an infamous name he replied "I'll go to work when I get ready." Davis immediately arose to his feet, and when passing under the feed stable, jerked out a large oak stick that had been used as a support to the table, and struck Tindle over the head with it, knocking him insensible.

Examination revealed the fact that Tindle was seriously injured, and Davis, after telling the men to take Tindle to the house and go for a doctor, said he would go and give himself up to the sheriff, and then left the crowd, since which time nothing has been seen or heard of him.

Mr. Tindle is seriously hurt, and not likely to recover. Mr. Davis is supposed to be hiding in the vicinity, and if Tindle improves will come in and give himself up; but in case of his death will attempt to escape; Sheriff Smith is now looking for him. Both men are well known in Polk County and bear good reputations. Tindle is unmarried.

More Teachers.

And still they come. Yesterday Prof. McElroy accompanied to Portland a dozen more of the national association teachers on their way home from San Francisco. To-morrow morning about forty more, probably the last, will be on the 8:13 train. Great efforts were made by Superintendent McElroy, and his helpers did heroic work in San Francisco to induce them to return this way, and the good people of Salem have met those who went through before quite handsomely with fruit and flowers. It is earnestly desired that the good reputation of our city be kept up on this last occasion. Fix up the bouquets and fill your boxes with fruit and be on hand. And at the risk of being mistaken for mere advertisers, be sure and give plenty of leaflets containing the cuts of our principal buildings. These teachers will not stop over.

A Pioneer Re-visits Salem.

Rev. J. W. Hines, of San Jose, Cal., formerly pastor of the M. E. church here is visiting his brother-in-law Dr. Meredith. He came to Oregon in the pioneer days as did his brother Dr. H. K. Hines, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate. Mr. Hines is on his way from attendance at the Methodist General Conference, which lasted a month in Metropolitan Opera house New York. He also was at some of the prohibition conventions and at the immense ratification meeting of Brooks and Fisk. Being an ardent prohi he spoke at the club last night and will address the mass meeting on the street to-night. Then he goes on to his California home to help in the campaign there.

"Specialty."

All photographers I have known make all the specialty of baby pictures they can. I also make a great effort to catch the innocent little ones in their happiest mood and most child-like ways. For the purpose of showing the people my facilities for taking the photographs of children I will make negatives of children up to three years old free of charge until the middle of September. This is a fine opportunity to get your little ones photographed.

T. J. CHERINGTON, New Bank Block, 145 2d dw. Salem.

Twenty people were injured at St. Louis yesterday by the fall of a grand stand at a ball game. None seriously.

LOCAL NOTES.

Political speaking on the street to-night.

Call on Winters & Thomas for the best groceries in town.

Painless dental operations at Dr. T. C. Smith's, 92 State street.

Cream soda, ice cream soda, milk shakes, lemonades, at Strong & Co.'s.

The fine piano used at the Press association's public meeting in the state house was loaned by Gilbert Bros.

St. Pauls Episcopal school, Rev. F. Post, principal, for girls and boys will recommence directly after Fair week.

Mrs. Robert Hughes and little daughter returned to Oregon City yesterday after a visit to Mrs. Hoey the lady's sister.

The Salem Valley Fruit company at their evaporator are cleaning up preparatory to beginning on large plums and prunes.

The prohibis will have a street meeting to-night; Rev. J. W. Hines, of California, and Prof. Rork will speak. Listen for the music and singing.

From the number of locusts or hoppers in Nelson Avenue it is thought that a small band of turkeys could make a fat living there for awhile.

The small boy, from near and far, is getting impatient for the circus to come. And the big boys? Oh they need not pretend that they are indifferent. They'll be there. Next Monday week is the day.

Word comes from some of our late Kansas visitors that they will be back to Salem before winter with others whom they have enthused. All will come to reside and will invest in property for homes.

The Sisters' Catholic school or academy of the Sacred Heart will commence in this city on Monday August 27th. Many persons from different parts of the county and state send their children to this institution of learning.

F. J. Catterlin, the photographer opposite the court house in Salem, makes a specialty of taking the pictures of babies from one day to three years old, and until the middle of September will take negatives of them free. And he warrants first-class work for older persons.

8-13-13-w-tf

The Oregon State Fair, as will be seen in the official advertisement in another column will commence on Monday Aug. 17th, and will continue six days. The prices of admission are, for men, each day $5.00, ladies $2.50; for six days, men $25.00, ladies $1.00. Mr. J. T. Gregg will gladly furnish copies of premium lists on application.

Harrison & Morton, and Cleveland & Thurman hats are frequently seen upon our streets. Presiding Elder S. P. Wilson was heard enquiring for a Fisk & Brooks head gear, desiring to wear one during his next round of appointments but it could not be ascertained that any particular style of hat had been decided upon for that party.

Mr. James Anderson, a Jefferson subscriber, called on us to-day. Four weeks ago he had a cataract very successfully removed from his right eye after having been almost blind for six years. He speaks very highly of Dr. E. C. Brown, the oculist of Portland, who performed the operation. His eyesight is much improved and seems to grow better.

D. D. Prettyman started to-day, by order of C. H. Dodd, to Portland, to prepare an exhibit of grass, grains and fruits for the car to be sent East. He took some extra large specimens including a large plant of green tobacco, taken from the garden of R. J. McCulloch, Roseburg. The peach experts of this office also sampled some very fine cling and free stone fruit, brought from the same locality. It demonstrates Douglas county's adaptability for all such fruits.

Open air political speaking to-night. Rev. J. W. Hines, formerly pastor of the M. E. church, and Prof. Rork will speak on Commercial street, at 8 o'clock for the prohibitionists. Singing—the wonderful musical prodigies, the little Robertson boys will play on their cornets. By order of the SECRETARY.

Notice.

I have sold my Photograph Gallery and entire interest in the photograph business to M. E. Sperry, of Ohio. All persons who owe me for pictures, will please call at the gallery and settle within sixty days from date. All unsettled accounts after that date, will be placed in an attorney's hands, for collection. W. P. JOHNSON.

SALEM, OR., Aug. 13, '88.

Cheap School Books.

As the time draws near for the public schools to commence, the question of the expense of school books again touches paterfamilias' sensitive nerve that centers in the pocket book. Where a parent of but moderate income has several children to educate, it is no joke to hear the oft repeated statement, "Pa, will you get me some books, here's a list of them." "Pa, teacher says I must have another book," or "Now I'm promoted, you must buy me some new books." All these desires are accompanied with such smiles of delight, and with such an innocent ignorance of the cost that the parent represses the sigh and furnishes the funds or has it "charged."

In California, the state prints and publishes the school books furnishing them at the following rates: Cost price by mail or at retail stores, First Reader, 20 cents; Second Reader, 40 cents; Third Reader, 66 cents; Speller, 30 cents; Primary No. lessons, 15 cents; Advanced Arithmetic, 50 cents; English Grammar, 50 cents; U. S. History, 80 cents.

This is said to be about half the ordinary cost of such books.

It is supposed that this covers the cost to the state. They are about to put up a costly warehouse for storing them.

A movement was made in the last Oregon legislature, in favor of the state publishing its own school books, but it did not carry. It will likely be renewed at the coming session. The subject is well worthy of consideration.

The Insane Asylum.

The water works at the penitentiary not working satisfactorily for the insane asylum, Dr. Lane has ordered a large auxiliary pump for the new large well at the latter institution so that they can raise a million gallons a day. They expect to use enough water for all household and garden purposes, supply the penitentiary, the orphans' home and the state fair and have a good surplus. Certainly that was a lucky hit of the doctor's to sink that well. Wonder if he isn't a water witch. The health at the asylum just now is exceptionally good. The influx of new patients has been small of late.

Sunday Service at the Pen.

On Sunday the lady superintendent of the W. C. T. U. flower mission, composed of young girls under her care, took out 260 small bouquets with a neat card with a scripture text attached to each. Elder J. W. Webb happened out to preach to the prisoners and he took occasion to say to them that the flowers were not brought because they were thought to be martyrs or only worthy of pity and not blame, but to remind them of their mothers and sisters and homes and gardens with the hope that it might help to stimulate them to good thoughts, and resolves to reformation. Miss Parmenter sang a solo, two of the girls sang Home, Sweet Home; one of the prisoners played while many joined in singing gospel hymns. A brief, practical, hopeful discourse and prayer closed the service for which more than one expressed thanks as breaking the usual dread monotony.
