SWINGING AROUND THE CIRCLE.

The Journal Man Visits Coxe's Temple on the Elkhorn.

Tuesday THE JOURNAL representative left Salem with a party to fill several appointments in the Santiam country and incidentally explore an alleged discovery of a cut stone structure seven miles northeast of Mill City in the Cascade mountains.

At Mehama a May day dance cut off the flow of eloquence, but the Republicans are well organized there and will poll a larger plurality than ever. We proceeded over the mountain range to Mill City where Joseph Fones had called a meeting of the Republican club and a well attended meeting was held. More speakers are wanted in his section. The streams are alive with trout and the woods are full of Republicans. There are some Democrats, more Populists, but few Penneyer or Cleveland men.

Crossing the mountain range to the north with packhorses we reached the site of the stone temple or pyramid of black sienite, a rock so hard that it is dull in fifteen minutes. N. P. Quinby and Sherman Barham made the discovery. It appears to have been a hundred feet high, standing on the point of a bench of land, on the south bank of the north fork of the North fork of the Santiam river. As it has no owner and is of no use on earth, we named it Coxe's temple.

We left a party with drills and dynamite to explore it further and await their report. It is a wonderful discovery, whether a work of nature or of art, though now badly in ruins, covered with moss and overgrown with reeds.

Coming back we addressed an enthusiastic Republican meeting at Cox's school house. Men came out from the valleys and off the mountains and Col. Baker of Mehama delivered a stirring address. At the close the benches were cleared out and fifteen or twenty of the young ladies proceeded to organize a dance.

The pleasant roaring of the bounding booming waters of the Santiam are still in our ears. Every drop of it makes a noise. It is like the Populist party.

There is a man up on the North Fork by name of Taylor who has been persuaded to join the Republicans. He lives on what was once the edge of deer belt and on several occasions Geo. Collins, Jap Minto and Bill Anderson have made headquarters at his place on their deer-slaying excursions. They will be pleased to learn that he has come out strong for the Republican side. Of course, it would not naturally be expected that there are many deer left in that section. But there are some. Taylor never lets a Salem man go hungry.

MARION COURT HOUSE.

Items of Interest in the Departments of County Government.

More county warrants are received this year than usual.

Regular quarterly examination of teachers at the court house begins next Wednesday at one o'clock.

There was the usual number of small boys in the clerk's office today with small lots of squirrel and gopher scalps.

Notices of appeal have been filed in Gregoire vs. Rourke and Hamilton; also Hughs and Arnold vs. Albert Cemens.

R. G. Brown, D. D. Coffey, Frank Waters, B. B. Herrick, of the court house force, went out to the Macleay meeting today.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL PEOPLE.

Conclusion of Proceedings of the State Convention.

The state Sunday school convention has come and gone and as usual voted Salem a grand convention city. Everything like the Methodist plan of salvation was free. The outgoing trains Friday afternoon bore away a happy and contented lot of delegates and all felt they had been benefited and the Sunday school cause promoted.

The name of Rev. Dr. Gue, of the Methodist church of Portland, was substituted for president in place of N. S. Dygert, of Salem, who had already been chosen.

The regular program was then taken up. Rev. F. H. Wallace, of Portland, D. D., gave a paper on "How to Increase in Spirituality," and this was followed by Mrs. W. P. Winans, of Salem, who read a paper on, "How to Increase in Knowledge and Zeal."

The closing paper was given by Mrs. Mary E. K. Edwards, of Newberg, whose topic was, "How to Increase in Missionary Spirit."

The closing address was given by Mr. Reynolds on "What to Do with the Boys During the Week."

A series of resolutions was adopted, thanking the people of Salem for entertainment, denouncing the liquor traffic, thanking the railroads and the M. E. church, and endorsing the following:

Whereas, From a circular issued by the Ministers' association of Salem, it appears that the state institutions of Oregon are without regular religious instruction, so helpful in begetting tenderness to the morally and mentally disordered; be it therefore

Resolved, That the legislature of the state of Oregon be memorialized by this convention to provide for these unfortunate members of humanity such spiritual instruction by means of a settled chaplaincy as their case demands

The different denominations were represented in the convention as follows: Baptist 58, German Baptist 4, Congregationalists 30, Christian 27, Cumberland Presbyterian 14, Evangelical 6, Independent Evangelical 9, Episcopal 5, Friends 34, Methodist 76, M. CAPITAL CITY COUNCIL.

More Developments About Salem City Bonds.

The Salem city council spent most of its regular session Tuesday evening discussing bonds and city hall contracts. Contractor Southwick stated, that $1300 cash and $18,000 warrants had been received so far, that the warrants could not be sold, and that they could not proceed under present conditions.

Mayor Gatch offered following motion which carried:

That the sum of the warrants which have been paid to date out of the general fund and were chargeable to the $60,000 which is soon to be placed in that fund, be diverted from that fund where the $60,000 shall be received by the city treasurer, and placed in the special city hall building fund.

Alderman Gray offered the following, which was adopted:

That the city proceed to raise the walls of the building, enclose and cover the same, and finish enough of the rooms to accommodate the present staff of city officers, the balance of the work to remain in abeyance for another year.

Albert moved that the city engineer be instructed to collect all road taxes in cash. Carried.

The new city license bill was considered section by section but not materially altered, when it was adopted.

Mayor Gatch announced the arrival of the new bonds of $60,000 and that his and Recorder Edes signatures had been attached thereto.

In connection with the bonds, as reported above, the mayor stated that the agent of Rollins & Sons had stated his house would not pay the amount of accrued interest on the bond issue to date, claiming their bid of "par, premium and interest, $62,510" was the sum total of their offer. This interest amounts now to about $1,210 and will lessen the sum of the premium to that extent. The mayor then moved, in this behalf, that the following telegram be sent to the purchasing bankers at once, which motion carried:

"E. H. Rollins & Sons, No. 53 State street, Boston, Mass.—

"Is agent Williams correct in saying no allowance to be made for accrued interest on bonds?"

Carried.

After considerable discussion the council adjourned to next Tuesday evening to consider city hall matters.
