THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1896.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT. The undersigned hereby announces himself as a candidate for the office of COUNTY ASSESSOR subject to the will of the county Republican convention.

H. H. SMITH.

FOR ASSESSOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of COUNTY ASSESSOR subject to the will of the county Republican convention.

J. A. VAN EATON.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I have consented to have my name borne before the Republican county convention for Representative.

E. W. CHAPMAN.

John H. Mitchell, Republicans and all citizens who are opposed to the domination of the old Portland ring in our state affairs should turn out to the Republican primaries in Marion county next Friday, March 20. See to it that delegates are elected to the county convention March 24 who will do their duty in nominating a Mitchell legislative ticket composed of five men who will not have to be paid with offices or otherwise to do their duty, and who cannot be hired to vote for a candidate of Wall street and the corporations. Let no minor issue defeat the paramount duty of choosing a people's senator and a legislature free from the corrupt domination of ring influences.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington letter in American Economist: The Gorman Tariff presents a bad record for its first 18 months of operations. Going into effect August 28, 1894, the close of the month of February, 1896, ended a year and a half of its existence. In that time it had fallen $75,000,000 short of meeting the running expenses of the government, had produced $60,000,000 less than the McKinley law did in its first 18 months; had cut down the receipts both in customs and internal revenue; had reduced the quantity of goods brought into the country free of duty; but had largely increased the importations of articles in competition with the productions of American workmen and women.

While there was a disposition to look with leniency on the operations of the law in its first few months, it would seem that, in eighteen months, it would be able to show what it could do. Yet its February receipts fell $4,000,000 below the monthly average expenditures, and in not a single month of the eighteen in which it has been in operation has its receipts reached the normal monthly average of expenditures. With the excessive importations of dutiable goods which followed its enactment, and with the extraordinary importations of the past two months, stimulated by the prospect of increased rates of duty under the Dingley bill, the customs receipts have fallen far short, the internal revenue receipts are many millions short to those in a like period of the McKinley law. In spite of the claim that this law was to give to the country foreign goods free of duty, or at low rates, the articles brought in free of duty have fallen more than $50,000,000 short of those brought in free in the last year and a half of the McKinley law, and the percentage of goods brought in free under the new law is far below that of the McKinley law.

The ways and means committee has before it more than a dozen bills that have been introduced proposing changes in the wool and woollen schedules of the tariff law. Agricultural and manufacturing states have sent in demands for changes in the law which shall restore the conditions of prosperity to the wool-growers and the manufacturers. The complete swamping of the American market with woollen goods made people do some thinking. They have concluded that they want no more of the free trade policy.

The increase in the importations of articles of food and live animals subject to duties, from $47,000,000 worth in 1894 to more than $98,000,000 worth in 1895, has caused the farmer to do some thinking. He has discovered that not only has his home market been reduced by foreign competition by just the amount represented by about $50,000,000 worth of products, but he has learned that the policy of inviting more competition for the manufacturers of this country has not resulted in opening new or additional markets for American goods and produce. There is probably no fact in our economic policy that has been more forcibly impressed upon the farmers of this country, by the costly experiences of the past year, than that our agricultural interests and our manufacturing interests are linked in a sympathetic bond of union. That an injury to one falls with almost equal force upon the other.

The lumber interests have appeared with measures proposing to increase the duties upon manufactured lumber. The Gorman law gave away to the foreigners a market for more than $6,000,000 worth of sawed boards alone, during the past year, and this result has fallen with special severity upon the lumber manufacturers, taken in connection with the general slump in their business caused by the demoralization of industrial interests throughout the country.

The sub-committee on reciprocity and reciprocal trade treaties has already had one or two hearings, but it expects to begin an active investigation in a few days. The Northwestern millers have already been heard on some points touching the decline in our exports of flour to the Southern countries since the treaties for reciprocal trade relations with those countries were annulled by the Gorman act. The members of the sub-committee have no doubt they will be able to convince the full committee, and the House that there is the very best of reason for restoring reciprocity treaties in the interests of our exports of agricultural and manufactured products.

Some strong effects are being made by heads of the departments to push forward the measure pending before the committee on coinage, weights and measures in favor of the adoption of the metric system. Those department heads who have been most industrious in advocating the system of low tariff duties and foreign competition in our own markets are now industriously at work setting forth arguments to show how much our foreign trade would be improved by the adoption of the metric system. The Gorman act has so signally failed in opening foreign markets of our products that the metric system had afforded one means of diverting attention from the failure of the Democratic policy to improve our trade interests abroad.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle at Fred A. Legg's Drug Store.

THE WOMAN—who takes the surest way to gain a beautiful color and a wholesome skin will not take the cosmetics, paints and powders which soon injure the skin. Sal-low or wrinkled face, dull eyes and hollow cheeks, together with low spirits, follow the deprivations, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to the sex. All women require a tonic and nerve at some period of their lives. Whether suffering from nervousness, dizziness, faintness, displacement of womanly organs, catarrhal inflammation of the lining membrane, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It's a medicine which was discovered and used by an eminent physician for many years in all cases of "female complaint," and those painful disorders that afflict womankind. If women are overworked, run-down, tired or sleepless, if they are irritable, morbid and suffer from back-ache, they should turn to the right means for a permanent cure. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription fits just such cases, for it regulates and strengthens the special functions, builds up and invigorates the entire female system.

DISEASE OF WOMB. Mrs. CORA S. WILSON, of Corvallis, Oregon, writes: "I cannot say too much for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I feel it my duty to say to all women who are suffering from that it is the medicine of the uterus I cannot praise it too highly for the good it did me. If any one doubts this, give them 'my name and address.'"

A pamphlet, containing a vast number of testimonials with reproduced photographs of those cured and giving full name and address of each, will be mailed to any address free of cost. Dr. Pierce's large Treatise (168 pages) profusely illustrated with wood engravings and colored plates mailed post paid on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.
