FOURTH OF JULY.

The Salem Celebration a Huge Success in Every Particular.

A Fine Day; an Immense Crowd; A Great Program Without a Flaw.

Well, it's over; and Salem's big celebration may be written down in the chronicles of the time as the most brilliant success that she has ever achieved in that line.

A conservative estimate of the number of people on our streets through the day would place the number at 7000.

They began to stream into town early in the morning from every direction and by every mode of conveyance. The sidewalks of all the principal streets were crowded before 9 o'clock, and by the time the procession started, it was difficult to move along the walks on the business portions of State and Commercial.

The weather was nearly ideal. The morning, cool and cloudy, gave some slight uneasiness for fear of rain, but nothing so unfortunate occurred, and the weather was a happy mean between the two extremes, rain or boiling heat, one of which usually afflicts us on the Fourth.

The day's exercises went off without a hitch, and every number on the program was a good one. Chairman Judah and his assistants are entitled to unmeasured credit for the excellence of the day's exercises, and the smoothness and celerity with which the program was carried out.

The day was remarkably free from accidents, fires and fights. If there was any over-indulgence in the cup that inebriates as well as cheers, the evidence thereof was not visible. The crowds were orderly and happy and appeared to thoroughly appreciate the efforts put forth for their entertainment.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the parade started from the city hall under charge of Chief Marshal Pierce and his assistants, and after following a devious line of march through the principal streets, reached Marion Square where it disbanded shortly after eleven.

The formation of the parade was as given in Monday's JOURNAL, except that the bicyclist's portion failed to materialize, and each of the different features was good.

On the principal float, drawn by four handsome horses, appeared the Goddess of Liberty, Miss Lena Paine, supported by the Misses Emma and Myra Murphy, Anna Mann and Jeanette Wadsworth, as Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, and by Miss Jo Chase and Mrs. Cook M. Jones as stellar supports. The Angel of Peace, Miss Alice Davernport, occupied a chariot drawn by Basys four beautiful blacks abreast.

The Native Daughters, Misses Bertha Holman, Blanche Kantner, Alice Coleman, Ethel Sellwood, Winnie Byrd, Hattie Marshall and Maude Flagg, looked charming on a float skillfully guided by Mrs. Carey Martin.

One of the striking features of the parade was the float on which appeared the typical Uncle Sam being patted on the back by the typical Johnny Bull; and it was a suggestive fact that when Johnny took one of the reins to help drive, the action met with the disapproval of the crowd.

The new militia company, K. O. N. G., under Captain Leato and Lieutenants Lyon and Young made a fine soldierly appearance, doing remarkably well for a newly organized body.

The Chemawa Indian school was one of the best features of the parade, as the bright looking boys marched along in their uniforms, headed by their own excellent band.

The kids known as the Malabar cadets also did themselves honor in their blue uniforms, and showed that the military spirit awakes early in Young America.

The intrepid bearing of the youthful animal trainer in the cage of the stuffed bear was something beautiful to see.

The morning exercises at Marion Square commenced upon the arrival of the procession, and occupied something over an hour. There were over three thousand people in the grove and they stayed in a body throughout the exercises, which followed the program already published. There was not a dry number, and everything was well received. The musical part of the program was without a flaw. Mrs. Hinges, the Salem Choral Society under the leadership of Prof. Seeley, and The Novello Quartet, each acquitted themselves in a way to more than meet the highest expectations of the crowd.

The Novello Quartet although it has a state reputation, is comparatively new to Salem; and they made a decided hit, being encored repeatedly. It is made up of Prof. W. A. Gunn, Dr. C. H. Eppley, S. W. Doughty and Jay F. Powell. They all have fine voices which blend perfectly together, and they can handle anything from a coon song to an anthem.

Hon. John A. Jeffrey, orator of the day, also made a hit and his remarks were well received and often applauded. His talk was a sensible and patriotic review of the history of this country up to the present time, with some sensible suggestions as to the future. Contrary to the reprehensible custom, which sometimes prevails, he took no advantage of the occasion to slip over with partisan zeal. He promised not to talk politics or religion and he kept his word, steering through the difficulties of the situation without a word to wound the sensibilities of any American present.

The singing of "Peerless Oregon" by the Salem Choral Society, was exceptionally fine, and Clifford Kantner the author expresses his high appreciation and warm thanks to Professor Seeley

EDITORS IN PORTLAND

Four Hundred Arrived On the Fourth and More Coming.

Given Splendid Receptions All Along the Line—What is Being Done at Salem.

Oregon is entertaining the National Editor's Association, and as this is the most perfect season of the year, and as all our doors never looked finer than at this season our visitors will receive very favorable impressions. If it does rain here, it fairly pours with good will and entertainment in Oregon.

The movement to give the National Editorial Association a fitting reception at Salem next Tuesday, July 11, is well under way. By the efforts of H. G. Sonnenmann the sum of $300 is being subscribed to defray the expenses of an entertainment—and there are quite a number of $5 people left in Salem after all the drafts that have been made on them.

The first editorial special train of 300 delegates in 10 Wagner palace cars reached Huntington at 11 a. m. Saturday. The welcoming delegation from Portland met the special train there, and inserted its gaily decorated car into the middle of the train. The Portland committee invited the editors to breakfast at the hotel, and some short speeches of welcome were made. President Gault and E. L. E. White had gone on and met the editorial train in Idaho and returned on it. It was met with cheers and given a warm welcome to Oregon.

Soon as a hurried breakfast was taken the train sped on, and then the delegates were pleasantly reminded that they were in Oregon by being helped to an abundance of Oregon fruit. The members of the Portland reception committee passed through the car and distributed boxes of large and luscious Oregon strawberries, Oregon cherries, Oregon "souvenirs," etc., and amid these pleasant surprises the run to Baker City was made.

At Baker City the chamber of commerce had arranged matters in advance, and the entire party of visitors was escorted to the leading hotels and restaurants and regaled with a good dinner, a special feature of which was a plentiful supply of Oregon fruits. The party then gathered at the armory, where six tables, each 100 feet long, were covered with one of the best mineral exhibits ever seen in the Northwest. On one table were 600 fine specimens of quartz, each containing gold worth $5 to $25. There were two gold bricks, each containing $12,500 and $100 worth of specimens from the Great Northern mine at Canyon City, and nuggets and gold dust from placers. The exhibit was made up of average specimens of quartz.

The complete collection had actual value of $100,000, and was an agreeable surprise to the visitors, who thus had their eyes opened to a realization of some of the sources of Oregon's greatness.

At LaGrande they were shown the best sugar industry and handsomely treated.

The editors were tendered a reception at the Marquam Grand opera-house this morning when addresses of welcome were delivered by Governor Geer, Mayor Storey, President Gault, of the Oregon Press Association; H. W. Scott, of the half of the Portland Press Club, and L. I. Hawkins, president of the citizens' committee. In the evening the Field memorial exercises will be held at the First Baptist church. Wolf Londoner, of Denver, will preside, and will be introduced by President Marvabe. The program will include an invocation by Dr. Blackburn, the pastor, the singing of "Little Boy Blue," by 100 schoolboys, an address on "Eugene Field as I Knew Him," by M. E. Stone, president of the Chicago Associated Press, and five-minute addresses by Frank M. Bristol, D. D., Metropolitan church, Washington, D. C.; Slason Thompson, Times-Herald, Chicago; Rev. F. W. Gunsalus, D. D., pastor Central church, Chicago; Page M. Baker, Democrat, New Orleans, La.; and Edmund C. Steelman (Banker-Post) New York City, interspersed with readings by Miss Mary Field, from her father's writing.

The second day will be devoted entirely to routine business.

Valuable Testimony
Is at hand in abundance to establish the claim of extraordinary durability, and to prove the satisfaction experienced by Victor riders, they do more to sell Victors than any other item of advertising. A well-known gentleman said in our hearing today: "I cannot conceive why people will buy other wheels, unknown and untried, paying nearly as much for them as would buy a Victor. They do not seem to realize that they spend many times the difference in the first cost in repairs, besides never having the satisfaction of a good reliable mount." At the same time he showed his wheel, a "99 Victor," which had been subjected to the most unmercifully hard treatment, upon which not a cent had been spent for breakage, though ridden by a speedily, heavy-weight rider, over country roads, stubble fields and ditches.

"99 Victors" are better than ever, sold by H. S. Gile & Co., Insurance Bldg., Victor Spinnoller's can now be had with only a few days' delay.
