THE HOLIDAY TRADE

Was Better Than Expected by Salem Business Men.

Judicious Advertising Helped the Merchants to Do a Most Profitable Christmas Business.

Christmas has come and gone; the season of Christmas shopping is over, and Salem merchants are pleasantly surprised, on figuring up results, to find that their most sanguine expectations have been exceeded. This is the unanimous report from JOURNAL advertisers.

Three weeks ago there was something in the nature of a cold sweat prevalent among those merchants who had laid in large stocks of Christmas goods, and as late as 10 days ago they were doubtful and luke. But toward the last there was a steady increase of the business done, with the result that stocks were cleaned up and turned into money to a very gratifying extent.

One merchant says that this is the first Christmas since years when he had the money in his safe on December 26 to pay all his bills and leave a handsome surplus.

Much of this good result is due to judicious advertising on the part of Salem merchants. A glance over THE JOURNAL's columns for the last month will show that our advertising patrons have used printer's ink liberally and wisely in calling the attention of the public to their wares.

Instead of throwing a lot of money away advertising holiday goods in a "New Year's edition" to be issued after the holidays would be over, they took THE JOURNAL's advice to push their Christmas goods during the season when people were buying that class of goods.

The result has been a good liberal holiday trade, with a gratifying balance on the right side of the cash book.

The merchants will please accept THE JOURNAL's congratulations.

LANECOUNTY FARMER MISSING

August Fisher Went Hunting Friday and Has Not Returned.

Eugene Guard, Dec. 26.

August Fisher, a well known farmer, who resides about two miles south of Eugene, has been missing since Friday morning and various conjectures have been made as to his extended absence.

Mr. Fisher left home Friday morning about 8 o'clock telling his wife he was going to take a hunt for birds for the Sunday and Christmas dinners. Contrary to his usual custom Mr. Fisher tied up his dog before leaving, and took his rifle, a large 70-80 caliber instead of his shotgun.

Half an hour afterward Mrs. Fisher located the dog which immediately set out on the trail of his master, but returned after a time and for some time persisted in howling disconsolately. Whether the dog found Mr. Fisher and was sent home or not cannot yet be told.

Searching parties of 20 or more persons hunted for Mr. Fisher Sunday and yesterday without avail and a much larger one is out today, so that it is probable some trace of the man will soon be found.

The order was made by Judge Boise in Dept. No. 2, of the circuit court Tuesday upon the application of John Savage Jr., the senior partner in the S. T. & D. Co. and George Griswold was appointed receiver.

G. Sali, of London, and Sig. CHURCHILL ESCAPES

Climbed Over Pretoria Prison Walls in Safety

He Walked Nights and Hid Daytimes // Suffered Intensely for Days // Stole Rides on Railroad to Delagoa Bay.

By Associated Press to the Journal.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The Post publishes an account of the escape of Winston Churchill from the Boers, after having been made prisoner at Estcourt. The dispatch says:

"I left the prison in Pretoria by climbing over the wall when the sentries had their backs turned. I got through the pickets of the town guard and struck the Delagoa bay railroad. I waited for a train and hid under some sacks.

I jumped from the train before dawn, and was sheltered during the day in a small wood. I walked on at dusk. I had to make wide detours to avoid bridges, stations and huts, and progress was very slow. The outlook was gloomy, but I persevered with God's help lying up by daylight and walking by night.

The sixth day I managed to board a train beyond Middleburg, and concealed myself under a great pile of sacks. The Boers searched the train at Komatipoort, but did not search deep enough. After sixty hours of misery, I came safely here."

A TURNER HORSE TRADE.

Complications Arising Therefrom Being Unangled in Justice Court.

Justice of the Peace Johnson is wrestling with a damage suit this afternoon, wherein J. A. Kelly sues Solomon Baker and O. A. Pound each for $40.

The parties live in and near Turner and Pound is constable of that precinct.

The trouble arises from a horse trade. It is stated that Baker sold a mare to Kelly agreeing to take his pay in labor. Later Kelly, with Baker's consent, traded the mare off for a horse. In the fullness of time, the stipulated labor not having been performed by Kelly, Baker replevined the horse in the Annville justice court and obtained possession through Constable Pound. Then the matter was brought to circuit court and Judge Boise set aside the action of the Annville, J. P.

This left the horse in Baker's possession and he declined to give him up on Kelly's demand. Now Kelly sues Baker and the constable for $40 apiece, damages.

A crowd of witnesses and spectators are down from Turner, and the trial is proceeding before a jury of four, A. J. Basy, Scott Bosworth, Thos. Sims and W. M. Beckner.

STATE TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

Begins its Meetings at the Capital City This Evening.

The western division of the Oregon State Teachers' Association will hold its first meeting this evening at the state house and the meeting will be continued until Friday evening.

Teachers are expected to be here from all parts of the state, and though comparatively few have yet arrived, it is supposed that they will come in later.

The avowed object of this meeting of the pedagogues is the discussion of educational subjects, and there is no doubt that much good could result to the schools of the state from an interchange of ideas among the teachers.

The first session will open at 7:30 p. m. in the capitol, and the following program has been prepared for the evening:

Instrumental trio—Misses Leo Nicklin, Nellie Brown, Carrie Hurst.

Introductory remarks—J. H. Ackerman.
