Are the solid, substantially built fellows that cut any kind of grass you have to handle, and do it with the least labor for man and team. There are too many points of advantage to cover in an ad, but we want you to look at every mower in sight, get all the features clearly in mind, then come in and see the McCormick.

Sharples Cream Separators

Are moving out three times as fast as last season; $20 out in price a splendid record for service, and a good dairy season are doing the work. Remember we have but one part inside the bowl to clean, the supply tank is so low a child can pour in the milk and the gears are enclosed in a dust-tight case and run in oil. Call and inspect.

BACK FROM COOS

Salemites Who Attended the League Meeting Returned Monday Night

Last evening's train brought home part of the Salem delegation who attended the Coos Bay Development Convention, including President F. N. Derby, of the Commercial Club, Col. L. K. Page, C. F. Lumsden, J. O. Beardsley, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stockton and Mrs. W. S. Mott. They went down and returned on the steamer Alliance, and had a pretty rough trip coming home, but they had such a good time they didn't mind the rolling sea or the feeding of the fishes.

Col. Hofer did not return with the party, as he is filling a number of appointments for the Republican central committee in the coast counties, and will return overland. President Derby, of the Commercial Club, says the Salem delegation not only had a good time, but did some good for this part of the state.

The 50 delegates were received most heartily. North Bend was decorated to a finish with evergreens, flowers and flags, rhododendrons being predominant in the decorations, from the pier to the city limits. They were given elegant music, fine speeches and royal enthusiasm. The pavilion at the park was packed at every meeting. Mr. Derby thinks the meeting also had a splendid result in bringing the towns of North Bend and Marshfield in closer harmony, and both vied with each other in making it pleasant for the visitors.

The clambake in the park was a fine spread, and the excursion over the bar, as well as that by rail to Coquille, were magnificent events. The visitors were shown the factories and all the good things at these thriving coast towns, and the whole event was concluded with a magnificent banquet, that would have done credit to the Hotel Portland. All speak in the highest terms of the event, and give special thanks to Mayor Simpson, of North Bend, for his generous efforts. Mr. Derby thinks the delegates have brought back with them a spirit of enthusiasm which will help the entire Willamette valley.

R. circle, in City View cemetery, where regular ritualistic memorial services will be held by the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. The exercises at the cemetery will close with the firing of a salute to the dead and the sounding of "Taps" from the bugle by a detail from Company M, O. N. G.

The column will then return to the G. A. R. Post room and be dismissed.

Acres of Flowers.

The City View, the I. O. O. F. and the Lee Mission cemeteries are gardens of flowers. Many of the family lots have been especially decorated for the occasion, and tomorrow larger crowds will pour in at the gates of the various cemeteries to pay respect to those who have gone before.

COUNCIL BACKS BAYNE

The Only Matter up Last Night Was South Commercial Street

A chapter in the story of the South Commercial street improvement was closed at the council meeting last evening when the Bayne resolution was adopted, after having heard the opinion of the city attorney, A. O. Goodit, regarding several points contained in the resolution. Councilman Bayne's resolution instructs the Warren Construction Company to make the improvement on the aforesaid street strictly in accordance with the contract and to the grade established according to the ordinance. Councilman Bayne's resolution instructs the Warren Construction Company to make the improvement on the aforesaid street strictly in accordance with the contract and that the grades be established according to the ordinance. Councilman Bayne after a strong fight for his constituents, has finally won out.

After the reading of the city attorney's opinion Councilman Gesner moved that it be adopted in order to bring the matter up for discussion. The councilmen appeared to be satisfied with the opinion rendered, and on further motion of Mr. Gesner, the report of the city attorney was ordered placed on file.

Councilman Jacobs then called for the reading of the Bayne resolution, that the council might understand it thoroughly before a vote was taken.

After the resolution had been taken up for discussion, upon motion of Councilman Jacobs the resolution was adopted by the council, and so ended one of the most exciting chapters in the story of the South Commercial street improvement.

Councilman Low announced that the fire committee had purchased a new team of horses for the fire department, at a price of $325, and that the gray mare formerly worked on the engine was given as part of the payment. A warrant for $325 was ordered drawn in favor of W. L. Skipton, from whom the horses were purchased. The council ratified the action of the fire committee on this matter.

Councilman Gesner made a brief report on the condition of the East State street bridge, and the bridge committee was instructed to investigate and report as to the cost of the necessary repairs at the next meeting of the council.

Mayor Waters presided, and the following councilmen answered to the roll call: Wallace, Low, Jacobs, Frazier, Arbeson, Bayne, Haas and Gesner.

State Schools.

To the Editor of the Leader: In the general rush of a political year, I find few persons giving attention to our state schools. A short time ago the Oregonian in an editorial called the attention of the people to the fact that we have not one first class school in the state and that our young people are compelled to go to neighboring states for an education. While this is overdrawn, it is in a great measure true. The Washington university has an attendance of 1000 or more compared to Oregon's 225, and the same is true with respect to the agricultural and normal schools.

California is similar to Washington. Why this difference? Why should our boys and girls be compelled to depend upon other states for an equal preparation with those with whom they must compete?

The educational advantages in these states, accounts in a great measure for their rapid growth and development. Last year we went to great expense to attract people to Oregon and at the same time were closing our schools. We have a good system in Oregon but we fail to supply the funds to operate it. Washington spent $375,000 or more on its university; Oregon's school is compelled to work on $60,000 and rustle for that. Each of three normal schools of Washington received more by $5000 than was asked for by the four of Oregon combined.

I believe in the boys and girls—the men and women of a great tomorrow; but where shall they prepare to meet this tomorrow? California has just completed a normal building at a cost of $500,000 (more than all of Oregon's six institutions have ever received for buildings.) We so frequently hear the statement that "We want to school in a log cabin." Yes and you thrashed your grain with a flail, and you cut the wheat with a cradle, and harrowed the ground with a brush.

The Grange is demanding a course in agriculture in our public schools. Where are your teachers? You refuse our normal schools support. Where and how shall the teachers be trained?

There is little or no objection to educating doctors, lawyers, journalists, civil, mechanical and mining engineers, merchants, and even preachers, at the state schools—(and this is all right). But why draw the line on the teacher? Of all persons a teacher needs professional training. The state receives more, dollar for dollar, in trained teachers, than any other school investment.

Why should the child in Portland have a better teacher than the child in the country? All of the large cities maintain training schools for their teachers. If it is a good policy in cities why not for the state?

We hear the cry that the schools are taken advantage of by the people in some particular locality. Well, what are schools for if not to be attended? I have always supposed the purpose of a school to be to secure students and train them. The records of the normal schools will show that they are attended from all parts of the state and are not mere local institutions.

Normal schools are not a part of a college system but a part of the grammar school system. Their purpose is to train teachers for the common public schools. A certain amount of academic work is advisable in connection with the theory.

I believe the normal schools should be under one general board of a uniform course of study; the preparation to be in a special school on its merits. Equip the school good work—and require it.

Those calling for one or two schools do not realize what is lost in the practical attempt of a small school over a large one. The social element of the teacher is of more advantage to the student than few dollars saved—the personal expense of the student is large as is about the mere limit. The school expense of the student is less than in large schools and over 90 per cent of our students are paying their way.
