SERBIANS ARE FACING FLIGHT OR CAPTURE

Are Almost Surrounded But Can Yet Escape Into Montenegro—Italians Bomb Goritz and It Is Burning Though Austrians Refuse To Abandon It—Monastir Is Reported To Have Fallen—Bulgarians Make Fierce Attack On The French But Are Repulsed with Great Loss

Berlin, Nov. 20.—The northern Serb army faces flight or capture. The Serbs can reach Montenegro if they move hurriedly. But if they delay for a last stand against the invaders, closing in on them, their retreat will be cut off. The Teutons have driven the Serbs to Kosovo Poye, the "plain of the black bird," where in 1389, Serbia lost her independence in an overwhelming defeat by Sultan Amurath I, and where the Hungarians were defeated under Hunyady by the Turks in 1448. From this historic point, Montenegro soil is only 20 miles west. This field may be again the scene of bloody and historically important battling.

The Germans are making a forced march from the Radan district, 30 miles northeast of the plain. At the same time the Austrians are driving southward along the Montenegrin frontier, while the Bulgars are moving northward along the same border. If these troops can get between the Serbs and the frontier, escape will be impossible. The Austrians have already taken Sienitz, while the Bulgars are 20 miles south of Pristina.

Many Serbs Prisoners.

Berlin, by wireless to Sayville, L. I., Nov. 20.—Rapidly swelling the horde of Serb prisoners already in their hands, the Germans have captured an additional 2,300 today's war office announcement said.

The Austrians, driving southward in the Thar valley, have occupied Dren and Prepolce.

Allies' monitors, said the statement, shelled the Germans in Belgium, but coast batteries drove them off.

Greek Situation Critical.

London, Nov. 20.—The Grecian diplomatic situation is regarded here as critical.

Private German advices from Copenhagen that the Athens government has ordered Greek vessels to leave French and Italian ports immediately, despite the allied order temporarily interning them, is regarded as a hint that King Constantine intends to defy the allies.

Other German reports that the allies have sent an ultimatum to Greece, however, are not confirmed.

Earl Kitchener was expected to see Constantine today unless the queen indeed the latter to refuse the audience. Her efforts in this direction, however, were expected to fail, for she could not induce the king to deny Denys Cochin, French cabinet official, a conference.

Monastir Has Fallen.

Paris, Nov. 20.—Monastir, in Southern Serbia, has fallen, according to reliable reports today.

With this city evacuated and crushed, it is believed that the resistance of the southern Serbs against the Bulgars ended. In the future, it is expected the French and British must do the fighting there, while the Serb guerrillas are campaigning separately, harassing the enemy as vigorously as possible.

Thus far no official announcement of the city's fall has been made, but reports of the Bulgar victory are from unquestionable sources.

The Bulgarians are not expected, however, to press their advance much south of Monastir, because it is less than 10 miles from Greece and the Bulgars probably will be careful not to violate Grecian neutrality.

Northwest of Monastir, the French and Bulgarians are reported in desperate combat. The French have resumed

TO TRY MAN WHO KEPT SOUL MATES ON TAP

When His Case Was Called Soul Mate Expert Was Sick From The Shock

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 20.—Investigation has been started today by the post-office department into the state case pending against William Overton, psychic, and R. Archer, alleged wreckers of homes.

When the case was called to trial today by Justice Otis Brinker, Overton was not in court.

He sent word to Deputy Prosecutor Palmer that he was ill, owing to "nervous strain and mental suffering due to newspaper publicity given his business."

Palmer informed Overton that he would demand a physician's statement regarding his illness.

An agent of the postoffice department appeared in the court room and questioned witnesses for the state as to Overton's methods.

He said the department would prosecute the psychic for misuse of the mails if the evidence justified.

The use of newspaper advertising columns, he said, to lure victims, constituted misuse of the mails, if the newspaper had a mail circulation.

Overton and Archer had been advertising extensively in newspapers here.

PORTLAND LOOKS OUT FOR HERSELF AND NONE OTHER

Has Better Rates Than Valley To All Points Except Northern California

BUT OBJECTS TO VALLEY HAVING LIKE TREATMENT

Wants To Lie Down In The Trough and Spoil What She Cannot Use

It was Portland against the country south of it in the lumber hearing at Portland yesterday and the sentiment of the Portland bunch seemed to be something like what Vanderbilt said about the public. The Portland bunch laid great stress upon the fact that several sawmills had been built outside of Portland in the past 10 years, which they seemed to think was a crime.

A. C. Dixon, manager of the Booth-Kelly company, presented the valley end of the case strongly among other things saying:

About three years ago, the railroad sent a number of investigators through the valley to interview the mill men on the subject of shrinking lumber shipments. These men learned, said Mr. Dixon, that the valley mills operate under strong competition from all sides; that they are at a natural disadvantage because they cannot ship by water, and that the rates in territory reached exclusively by rail will not permit them to compete effectively with the mills in Portland.

Following the visit of these men, explained Mr. Dixon, officials of the Southern Pacific, including William Sprague, president, and C. W. Luce, freight traffic manager, made a tour through the valley, also visiting various mills and lumber camps.

Portland Has Big Advantage.

"Mr. Sprague told us," he added, "that the railroad wanted to help build our country; that it depended upon our business for its earnings in Oregon, and told us that they would do something to help our mills. These results, I suppose, are the fruits of that promise."

Mr. Dixon detailed the condition of the lumber industry in the Willamette valley. He pointed out first that the mills in that territory are unable to ship at all by water and for that reason are shut out of the San Francisco market; that Portland has an advantage in the territory served out of Los Angeles as well as in Nevada; that the valley has an adverse differential of 2 1/2 cents in Idaho and 11 cents in Spokane territory. They are shut out of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Bur-

SAY BRITISH USE RED CROSS FLAGS

Claim Made That British Transports Use the Flag to Conceal Identity

By Carl W. Ackerman.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Berlin, by wireless to Sayville, Nov. 20.—Charges of fraudulent use of the Red Cross flag by English transports bound to the Orient, were made today by an admiralty official.

"Our submarines wireless that when English ships reach the submarine danger zone," he said, "they drop Red Cross flags over the white space painted on the side of the vessel. Seventy English transports passed Gibraltar for Salonika, heavily laden and painted like hospital ships.

"One can tell whether a vessel is heavily laden by the water she draws. These ships carried to the limit of their capacities. Surely, England is not sending 70 hospital ships to Greece within a few days. They were undoubtedly carrying troops and munitions."

"This is the biggest fraud, and it is illustrative of the lengths to which our enemies will go."

WOMEN MORE INTERESTED.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Out of 65,000 women registered for the recent city election here, 41,401 voted, while only 75,600 out of 113,320 men voted.

GOVERNOR SPRY IS AFTER I. W. W. GANG

Says He Will Drive All Law-Breakers Out of the State at Any Cost

Salt Lake City, Nov. 20.—With Governor Spry planning a campaign to rid Utah of I. W. W. members and revolutionaries in general, authorities today set their plans to guard against an I. W. W. outbreak Sunday when the funeral of Joe Hillstrom, executed murderer, is held from an undertaking chapel here.

Without a priest, any with only the services of the order to which he belonged, last rites for Hillstrom will probably be conducted by Ed Rowan, secretary of the local organization. Police saw in the funeral ceremony the possibility of a wild outbreak. Just as New York police jammed Union Square when I. W. W.'s held services for their bomb men, so Salt Lake City officers will be out in force to prevent any bomb outrages here. The body will be sent to "Bill" Heywood at Chicago, where probably efforts will be made to have a bigger funeral.

The governor is in deadly earnest in his threat to rid the state of the organization. His life has been threatened repeatedly, by members of this body. They have said they would destroy the capitol and other public buildings as a result of Hillstrom's execution.

Salt Lake City has gone for weeks in fear of them. Now Spry intends to clean the state of the last I. W. W. if he has to use the militia to effect this.

"The fight has just begun," says the governor. "I will drive out every law-breaker and every man who defies law and order, no matter what he may call himself."

The executive has called upon the police to enforce his mandate, but he proposes to act independently—and thoroughly—if their campaign does not bring results.

He is incensed at what he regards as an obvious "plant" by I. W. W. members to free Hillstrom at the eleventh hour by getting the William Busky affidavit at Seattle. He has notified the Seattle authorities to investigate Busky's story, declaring that Utah desires to prosecute Busky if he was with Hillstrom on the night the latter committed the double murders for which he was shot yesterday.

At the same time, Spry wants an investigation of the record of the man who signed Busky's affidavit.

HARVARD BEATS YALE WITH SCORE OF 40 TO 0

The Crimson Made Points In Every Period, 50,000 Watch Game

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 20.—Harvard scored a touchdown in the first quarter of the Harvard-Yale game today. Goal was missed.

First quarter: Guernsey kicked off to Boles, who ran the ball into Harvard's 25 yard line. Mahan promptly kicked. VanNorstrand was downed in his tracks and Guernsey took up the challenge offered by Mahan's kick by booting 50 yards to Watson. Mahan kicked again and again. VanNorstrand was dumped in his tracks by the Harvard ends.

Yale then opened up the play. Following a sensational forward pass and slight gains around each end, Wilson, on a fake kick, placed the ball on Harvard's 25 yard line. Things were going well for Yale and the Yale supporters were frantic with joy.

Bingham spoiled Yale's advance by fumbling on Harvard's 20 yard line and Harvard recovered the ball. Mahan promptly punted out of danger. The kick was a beauty, and traveled 53 yards. VanNorstrand had no chance to run the ball back and was downed on his own 15 yard line.

Harvard, 6; Yale, 0.

Bingham's understatement was evident again, this time paying the Yale for Harvard's final score. The Yale half-back took the ball on an end play, but it slipped from his grasp and went twisting to the side. Out of the whirl of players that plunged for it rolled Harte, the Crimson's right end. Four Yale tacklers flung themselves at his heels in desperation. Harte sprinted the remaining 35 yards to the line for the first touchdown. Mahan failed to kick the goal. Score: Harvard, 6; Yale, 0.

Guernsey kicked off to King, who was downed on Harvard's 35 yard line. Harvard was unable to gain, and Mahan punted, Yale attempted to gain through the line, but was thrown back twice. A forward pass failed. Guernsey dropped the ball to the right, and the ball passed over Guernsey's shoulder, out of reach. Guernsey recovered and snapped another kick which was received by Watson in mid-field. After short line gains Harvard was forced to punt and Mahan's kick rolled over the Yale line. The ball was brought out. Waldron replaced J. Sheldon for Yale. Harvard's 3 yard line. The Harvard backs then began a march toward Yale's goal. King tore through the blue line for short but consistent gains. Mahan gained 12 yards on two end plays. Guernsey was hurt tackling King and was replaced by Taylor.

NUDE BODY OF MAN FOUND IN A TRUNK

Portland Develops Murder Mystery—Trunk Found In River Contains Body

Portland, Ore., Nov. 20.—With work now but confusing clues to work on the gruesome task of trying to identify the body of a man, probably murdered, found in a trunk in the Willamette river, was continued by the police today.

The trunk was found by Fred Hartman, a hotel man, when he rowed a boat to the foot of West Flanders street last night.

Unable to move the trunk by himself, Hartman summoned a man to help him. Both lashed the container.

After opening the trunk and removing the tray, which contained a hat, coat, trousers and other wearing apparel, Hartman poked his hand inside. He was horrified when it came in contact with cold flesh.

The police were summoned. An examination of the body revealed that the head had been crushed and the neck swollen with welts, apparently made by a rope.

The body had been doubled up and stuffed into the trunk. Then a quantity of clothing had been packed around it. Several articles of women's wearing apparel added mystery to the case.

Sealed in the pockets of different coats were the names "W. B. Flanigan, Palestine, Texas," and "Charles Wagner, 173 Summer street, Boston."

On a piece of black ribbon was the name "F. Lind," worked in silk. In the sweatband of a hat were the initials "G. B."

The body was wrapped in a sheet. The victim was apparently about 40 years old, with dark, but thin hair, and a deep crease on the lip. The hands were soft.

According to Deputy Coroner Smith, the man had been dead probably 36 hours.

The police believe the body may have been brought to Portland from some other place.

Wagon tracks led up to the dock under which the body was found.

WANT TESTIMONY OF ORTIE M'ANIGAL

State Working Hard To Make Dynamiters' Testimony Admissible

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Ortie McManigal, confessed dynamiter, will probably be called to the witness stand early next week when the murder trial of M. A. Schmidt, alleged McManigal accomplice in the blowing up of the Times building is resumed.

McManigal and his wife, with whom he is reconciled, are living here, making no attempt to conceal their identities. McManigal frequently visits the court of Judge Willis, where the trial is in progress.

By introducing evidence of an alleged nationwide conspiracy to destroy buildings, bridges and other steel structures with dynamite, the state hopes to lay a foundation for the testimony of McManigal, which the district attorney claims will link Schmidt with the Times building disaster.

Villa's Army Is Just "Melting Away"

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Hundreds of Villista troops are deserting the rebel leader, according to refugees arriving here today from the Sonora battlefields, where General Obregon and his Carranzistas are seeking to eliminate Francisco Villa from the Mexican situation.

Short of ammunition and supplies, Villa is reported still desperately maneuvering his troops in an effort to escape the Carranzista trap, which is trying to close in on him from three sides. Many of his men, believing capture imminent, are said to have deserted to Carranza. Others have departed into the mountains and become bandits.

A number of slightly wounded men have arrived at border points. They say many other wounded are suffering great privation in Sonora.

General Von Nuber May Be Prosecuted

Washington, Nov. 20.—Further indications that the department of justice is contemplating criminal prosecutions against Consul General Von Nuber of New York, and other alleged Teuton agents was seen here today in announcement that the department's investigators hereafter will deal with probes of pro-German activities in this land.

Any evidence obtained by the treasury department secret service officials will be turned over to the justice branch. In announcing this centralization of investigations, both departments denied there was any friction between them over the subject.
