Mill Creek Items

(Capital Journal Special Service)
 Mill Creek, Or., Sept. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wood and little daughter returned to their home in Eugene after spending two weeks visiting Mrs. Wood's uncles, J. H. and D. A. Osborn, Earl White, son of Rev. Oscar White of Montana M. E. Conference, spent last week visiting his grandmother, Mrs. A. B. Dewfer and other relatives at Turner.

Imogean Tohmanson motored to Salem on Friday of last week.

The little son of Chris Hanson has been quite sick for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Coas Allison of Harlan, Oregon, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Osborn.

Rockwell Tracy, an enterprising young farmer of this vicinity, is pushing the threshing to completion. Rockwell has had a good run with his machine and has given general satisfaction.

The road work east of Turner has caused some annoyance to travelers, but will certainly be appreciated when the rainy season sets in.

Rickey News

(Capital Journal Special Service)
 Rickey, Or., Sept. 24.—Mrs. L. Dickman and son, Paul, are visiting in Portland this week.

Misses Alice and Edith Drorbaugh were Salem visitors Monday.

W. J. Culver and M. M. Magee motored to Crooked Finger Sunday.

The Ostrins Bros. farm has been sold. The Ostrins will be missed but what is Rickey's loss will be some other neighborhood gain.

Eczema Is Conquered

Greasy salves and ointments should not be applied if good clear skin is wanted. From any druggist for 25c or $1.00 for extra large size, get a bottle of Zemo. When applied as directed, it effectively removes eczema, quickly stops itching, and heals skin troubles, also sores, burns, wounds and chafing. It penetrates, cleanses and soothes. Zemo is dependable and inexpensive. Try it, as we believe nothing you have ever used is as effective and satisfying.

Zemo, Cleveland.

Harris attended the shower given Miss Lena Matten of Bethel.

A. W. Binegar is spending his vacation at Oak Point, Wash.

Irvin Caplinger was in Salem Sunday.

W. Hagadora is off on his vacation.

Miss Sallie Dickman who has been taking a nurse's course is at home again.

Frank Harris is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. L. Baker of Oak Point, Wash.

Mrs. Whitney very narrowly escaped being captured by a wild man a few days ago. She started for the station to take the train for Salem and hearing a noise, she looked around and saw a man running at full speed. Mrs. Whitney started to run and was afraid the man would grab her if she stopped so ran past the station toward Salem. Some kind hearted motorist by breaking the speed limit overtook Mrs. Whitney and took her to Salem. Mrs. Whitney's wild man turned out to be a neighbor running to catch the train. Though badly frightened Mrs. Whitney has the consolation of making a speed record that will be hard to break.

Andy Parson is mourning the loss of his dog. Andy is working with the thrasher and is trying to find his dog and the dog is trying to find Andy but so far they have not met.

Intimates Someone Damaged the Organ

The following complaint has been handed the Capital Journal for publication:

A few days ago somebody got into the German M. E. church, corner Thirtieth and Center streets and it seems that the person or persons, whoever it was, escaped from the insane asylum, for it is hard to conceive that anybody with common sense would out of sheer meanness spoil an organ in the house of God or any place else, not saying anything about other meanness done in that church. Disturbances had been noted before but nothing was said in public. A closer watch will be kept from now on and if the guilty party is found out the officers of the congregation will use all their influence to have such a person or persons punished to the full extent of the law, providing the guilty party is responsible for his or her actions otherwise such people belong in the insane asylum.

GREAT ZEPPELIN

Two French flyers made the trip from France to Essen, where the great Krupp works are located, a journey of more than 250 miles, where they dropped 12 bombs and returned safely.

French reports also declare flyers of that nation brought 23 German flyers to earth. Great Britain adds a claim of five German aviators brought down, a total of 28. Berlin makes the statement that 24 allied machines were shot down—20 on the Somme front. The statement from Berlin admits the loss of six machines and London admits the loss of five.

Factories in the districts of Roubauch and Thionville, in Alsace-Lorraine were targets for 46 bombs, a French report says.

Calais reports the repulse of a Zeppelin which flew over that seaport and was driven off by anti-aircraft guns.

DEWEY ON THE WINE MESS ORDER

George Creel recently interviewed Admiral Dewey for the New York World. The Admiral gave his opinion about the "wine mess" in answer to the question, "What about the famous drinking order?"

"A good thing," his answer was instant. "There was some feeling about it at first, because the papers made fun of it, and there was also an attempt to make it appear that Secretary Daniels was charging officers with intemperance. I think that the feeling has disappeared completely. Every railroad, every great corporation, has long had an ironclad rule forbidding men to drink while on duty. Isn't a ship as important as a locomotive? Practically every European power has copied the order, by the way."

At this point he handed to Mr. Creel an article by Hector Rwyater, the famous naval expert, written for a British journal "After a careful study of the American navy. The Admiral had the following paragraphs marked:

"It need hardly be said that the political head of the United States Navy possesses infinitely more power than the civilian First Lord in Great Britain. And there is every indication that Mr. Daniels has been using his power to the utmost. His friends say he has accomplished wonders; his enemies, who are very many, declare that his personal fads and prejudices have undermined the morale of the naval personnel and made the service a laughing stock. But this charge is not borne out by the evidence. Those best qualified to speak assert that the last four years have witnessed a remarkable all-round improvement in the quality of the personnel. Thanks to the Secretary's drastic order, shortly after he came into office, intemperance has disappeared from the Navy, and although the drink prohibition excited ridicule and bitter opposition at the time, the majority of naval officers now agree that it has had a most beneficial effect on efficiency and discipline."

"Do you stand for that?" Mr. Creel asked, looking up after reading the paragraph aloud.

"I would be dishonest if I didn't," the Admiral answered.—The Voice.

"William!" she shouted in a voice fit to command a regiment, "take your feet off the table this very instant."

"Margaret, I want you to know," he said, in a voice that was surcharged with many determination, "that there is but one person in the world that I will allow to talk to me in that way."

With an irate mien she arose and looked into his eyes.

"And who is that, sir, may I ask?" she thundered.

"Why, you, my dear," he gently answered, as he removed his feet from the table.

Many a man is so disagreeable it's a wonder he can keep on such good terms with himself.

The Defabrity Family Has Hot Time with Heads Kidnaping the Children

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—Legal proceedings for the possession of her three year old son are to be instituted today by Mrs. Thomas Defabrity, wife of prominent Los Angeles musician, if she can locate him and their two children. This follows sensational developments yesterday, including two abductions and escapes in automobiles and two frustrations of attempts to secure police intervention.

Mrs. Defabrity left Los Angeles, taking her son with her, following trouble with her husband, said to be a nephew of the Marquis DeFabry, an Italian nobleman. Following with the five year old daughter, DeFabry located his wife here, and yesterday he attempted to take the boy. Police were summoned and while DeFabry was explaining, his wife escaped in a taxicab with the son. On her way to the ferry, she lost her purse, and had to abandon her intended flight by railroad.

Pursuing DeFabry had her apprehended at Emeryville. While she was giving her explanation to the police there, DeFabry turned the tables, and snatching the child, fled in a waiting automobile. His wife's efforts to locate him have been in vain.

What Portland Should Do.

(Daily Astorian)
 If the Portland Chamber of Commerce accepts the advice of its president and adheres to his announced policy of doing "everything in our power for outside cities," the metropolis of Oregon has big things ahead for it, because it will become a metropolis of a rehabilitated Oregon—the Oregon that should have been twenty years ago.

Somehow or other, Portland has never been able to understand that a city can be no greater than its environment. It is as plain as two and two that you can't build a metropolis in the center of a desert and yet, for the past decade, Portland has been endeavoring to make a desert out of Oregon, and herself the one oasis.

And no Portlander, no matter how apathetic he may be, can escape noting the result: A big settlement, stretching over miles of territory—block after block of empty houses—a $20,000,000 decrease in assessed valuation—loss of commercial prestige to Seattle—these are just a few evidences of the futility of adhering to a policy of "all for me or nothing for anybody."

But President Clark says there is to be an end to this. The trade-governing body of Portland is to pursue a new policy of help-the-other-fellow and every city in the state will rejoice in the news.

"We're going," says Mr. Clark, "to do everything in our power for the outside cities, because what benefits any neighboring city benefits the state and the state cannot be benefited without Portland sharing."

That is the logic of the ages; that is the key to success which will open the door of material development for any city. The feudal days are no more; the time when a city could wax rich and prosperous with a high wall around it passed into oblivion with the broadsword and the coat of mail. The city that patterns after China will ever occupy a relative position to cities as China does to nations—and Oregon has had a China within its borders far too long.

Mr. Clark's policy, if put into effect, will not be long in showing results. Oregon should be the most populous and prosperous state in the Union—considering the age of her settlement—and with the proper encouragement from those in a position to give them a helping hand, the hundreds of small towns will soon develop into cities. The result is certain. If Oregon had half a dozen cities of 50,000 population,

New Orleans, La.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough, for I know my daughter never would have been so well if she had not taken it. For more than a year she had suffered agonies from irregularity, backache, dizziness, and no appetite, but is now well. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters and you can publish this letter."—Mrs. A. ESTRADA, 129 N. Galvez Street, New Orleans, La.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"My daughter was feeling tired and all run down with no apparent cause. She had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before and knew its value so she again purchased it and she was able to keep to work, her eyes became bright and natural, and her system was built up completely. We generally keep the Vegetable Compound in the house for it is to be relied on."—Mrs. E. J. PURDY, 5131 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Portland's empty houses would be filled today and her assessed valuation would show a material increase instead of a $20,000,000 fall.

You cannot maintain a 100 per cent developed city and depend for its support upon a 10 per cent developed country. If you plant a tree in infertile soil, it will grow sick and finally starve to death. And the growth of a city is best likened to the growth of a tree.

We suggest that the Portland Chamber of Commerce take for its slogan "Develop Oregon"—and live up to it.
