Pacific Coast League Standings table with columns for Team, W., L., Pct., and games played.

Yesterday's Results At San Francisco 10 Portland 4. At Sale Lake 6, Oakland 10. At Los Angeles 3, Vernon 5.

Bunny Brief smote two homers for the Salt Lake Bees, making his record 30 for the season. P. Bodie made that number in 1910.

Despite Brief's willow work, the celarite Oaks walloped Salt Lake 10 to 4. Al Sothoron of Portland after having hurled 14 straight victories was beaten by San Francisco, 10 to 4. The Seals found him for 13 swats, and Al's hopes of cracking Pete Browning's record—16 straight—faded away.

Fleischmann of Vernon hit 1000, getting four singles out of four trips to the rubber. His swats beat Los Angeles 5 to 3. There were large gods of ennut around the field all afternoon.

found ran out I went back to the Philippines. For a while we lived in Jamaica. Then back to the Philippines, where he threatened me with a razor. Then we went to Atlanta and finally to Berlin. Wherever he was with me he subjected me to horrible cruelties.

"In spite of these things I clung to him for the sake of the children. When he became involved in difficulties, I went to Washington and saw Secretary of War Garrison."

Describing the death scene between them, Mrs. Beutinger, crying all the time, gave the gaping court room the details rapidly, almost hysterically:

"He came toward me very fast, saying, 'I'll kill you! I'll kill you!' I saw his eyes glaring. He grabbed at me. Then I fired and screamed for help. That is about the last I remember. When I came to he was dead."

Concluding her testimony Mrs. Beutinger said: "Before he entered my room for the last time I let him see me conceal the revolver under the pillow. I did it to frighten him."

As she stepped down from the witness stand Mrs. Beutinger covered her face with her hands and wept. A couple of the jurors hastily turned their gaze out of the window and more than one of the 12 furtively wiped their eyes.

Direct testimony for the defense was concluded at 1 p. m.

SOME BIG JUMPERS

Portland, Or., Oct. 26.—A carload of blooded British Columbia hunters and jumpers arrived in Portland today to compete in the horse show, which opens tomorrow night. One of the best contenders is Credential, owned by W. S. Holland of Vancouver, B. C. This horse will attempt to break the world's record by clearing a bar 7 feet, 10 inches above the turf.

against the bandits necessitated by military reasons, as there are far reaching, encircling movements of forces in the field, converging toward the objective point at Santa Ysabel."

Another official Carranzista announcement today told of small skirmishes yesterday on Hearst's ranch at Babicora, between a marauding band of Villistas and a Carranzista patrol. Four of the bandits, including Major Marrazo and Captain Lopez were made prisoners, according to the statement, with several killed on both sides.

Every one in Chihuahua City with sufficient funds to reach the American border is fleeing the city, according to United States government agents here. It became known that the families of General Trevino and other Carranzista officials had left the city, a panic seized the people. Another train bringing 400 refugees, reached Juarez during the night.

New Chief of Division

Washington, Oct. 26.—Brigadier General William A. Mann has been appointed chief of the division of militia affairs of the war department, Secretary Baker announced today. General Mann is now in command of the American forces at Laredo, Texas. He is from Pennsylvania.

CINCINNATI GIVES

Cincinnati. He was given a noisy reception.

Mayor Puchta said Cincinnati has a citizenship deeply interested in the affairs of the United States—"a citizenship deeply loyal to the United States and its governing officials. It is deep in its obedience and loyalty to you."

Replying President Wilson said: "I can't say I have the least feeling of strangeness in Cincinnati. My father was born in Ohio and so was my uncle. I spent much of my time in the great state of Ohio during my more irresponsible days."

"The dignity of my office limits me now. Even a Scotch-Irishman can't let go and say what he wishes."

The president paid tribute to Ohio, saying in this state much of the zest of history, much of the energy of the country got its start here.

"There is no zest in secrecy or monopoly. Real zest is joining your zest with that of your fellow man. This zest has marked the great tidal wave of American history."

"Now the problem is to see that a genuine spiritual unity binds it together from coast to coast. Unless there is spiritual unity, America cannot find herself. America is now finding herself. It is the great movement now. Every man must exemplify himself in spirit and action what he would want all the world to know. America stands for. We must all pull together now and move forward the great chariot in which rides the goddess of liberty."

Big Crowds Greet Him

Parkersburg, W. Va., Oct. 26.—Carrying a lucky piece, given to him by a workman at Philadelphia yesterday, "to be returned after your second inauguration next March," President Wilson today passed through here en route to Cincinnati where a busy day awaits him. He is down for four speeches there today.

Last night the president remained up late greeting crowds that surged about the train when brief stops were made along the route. The president finds what he believes the best evidence of support in these gatherings.

"It shows a large number of my fellow citizens believe in me, anyway," he said today.

More than 1,000 persons greeted him at Martinsburg, a strong republican stronghold late last night, clamoring loudly for a speech, but the president refused, saying, "I would much rather work than talk about it."

Welcomed in Ohio

Chillicothe, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Several thousand people greeted President Wilson at 8:15 a. m., including seven hundred shopmen given liberty in order to see the president.

There also were many railroad men in the crowd that gave the president a big demonstration.

"I had a lot of fun through here when I was a youngster," the president said. The crowd laughed and many called out: "Better stop off and look us over again."

peace," one woman shouted.

"I certainly hope so," he replied.

Speaks to Women

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 26.—In a spirited address before the women's city club here this afternoon, President Wilson referred sarcastically to those who are "trying to throw fear into the hearts of American business by predictions of economic disaster to America at the close of the war."

Europe will be so absolutely exhausted at the war's end, the president declared, that "the entire budgets of each country will barely be able to pay the debts of these countries."

He scoffed at the idea that belligerent countries are manufacturing goods "to dump" for these alarmists' love to call it dumping—on American shores. "These men," he said, "have silly imaginations."

He assailed those who, he said, are complaining because we are not fighting. "They say our spirit is not the same as that of other countries because we won't place our army and navy at the disposal of special interests. And should we do this so soon as we did we would join the chaos of competing and hostile conditions."

"One Touch of Nature Makes the World Akin"

Mrs. W. B. Morgan, who lives in the Popcorn district of the Polk county hills, whose husband was killed on the railroad near the fairgrounds two years ago, is much happier today because her friends and neighbors yesterday gathered at her home and saved, split and piled her winter's wood in her woodshed. The affair was what is known as a "wood frolic" and the neighbors brought their lunches and had a jolly time. Mrs. Morgan was left with three small children when her husband was killed. Mr. Oscar Fry donated the gasoline wood saw that did the hard work. Mrs. J. B. Smith was responsible for the gathering of the neighbors. About 50 men, women and children were present.
