GRANT'S TOMB DRAWS MANY

Visitors From Every Part of the United States Pay Homage to Great Soldier's Memory.

Since the war there has been a great increase in the number of visitors to Grant's tomb. They come from all parts of the United States, from Alaska to Florida. It would seem that no stranger to New York city fails to visit the shrine to pay homage to the great general. They arrive singly, with their families or friends, or in delegations organized especially for such a pilgrimage. Between 900 and 1,100 persons visit the tomb daily, and about 400,000 a year.

The tomb is taken care of by a custodian, an assistant custodian and two attendants. George D. Burnside, whose father was a cousin of General Burnside of Civil war fame, is the custodian. He has more than an official interest in the sacred edifice. When it was being built he was foreman of construction, and it was his duty to see that the blocks of stone and marble were laid with proper care and precision. Because he had a great part in building the tomb and understood its construction better than most men, the Grant's Tomb Memorial association selected him as custodian, and when the structure was completed in 1897, he entered upon his duties. When it was dedicated by President McKinley, General Horace Porter handed Burnside its keys, and it was Burnside who sealed with his own hands the great sarcophagus containing the remains of General Grant.

"During the past year," he said, "many soldiers and sailors visited the tomb. Indeed, about one-quarter of our visitors were men in the service."

Since the tomb has been opened a regular visitor once a year is the aged woman who for years served as maid to Mrs. Grant. She comes every year on Mrs. Grant's birthday bearing a wreath of flowers. One day an aged negro hobbled into the mausoleum. He explained to Mr. Burnside that he had served General Grant during the Civil war. He told with a great deal of pride how he had held the general's horse, and what a good boss the general always had been. Grant, he said, was a most modest and unassuming man. The old negro knelt reverently before the sarcophagus and wept bitterly.

"He treated me all right," he sobbed. "He treated me all right, 'deed he did. I see eighty-seven, I is, and I see a pore old man, but I see glad I come here and see this beautiful tomb, 'deed I am. It's grand, but it ain't none too good for de general, God bless and rest his soul."

He Gave Up His Monocle.
A certain Australian regiment had among its officers an old regular who was settled in Australia when war broke out. The battalion to which he was posted duly arrived in Egypt, and the first night in Cairo the major staggered the mess by appearing with a monocle.

No one in Australia had ever suspected him subject to such an optical or social weakness, but with his return to the Old World the major returned to the ways of his youth.

The next day an audacious Anzac subaltern went into Cairo, purchased two dozen monocles, and that evening at mess the major found every officer, including even his C. O., solemnly sporting a single eyeglass.

The next night nobody—not even the major—wore one.—London Chronicle.

THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL DISEASES

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Danger is in sight.
Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back, wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

SAD DAY FOR CAPITALISTS

Even the Bloated Monopolist at the Newspaper Desk is Victim of Vicious System.

What are we coming to, and whither are we drifting? Alas, these be parlous times, and sadly out of joint. Whoever it was let loose the "got to have more money" bacillus started something there seems to be no stopping. It has spread like an epidemic; it is not confined to any particular class of people or limited to any particular age. Witness this over the telephone to us yesterday morning from our own daughter:

"Hello, that you, daddy?"
"Yes."
"This is Marjorie."
"Well?"
"You're going away tomorrow?"
"Yes."
"Well, I just called you up to let you know that before you go you'll have to increase my wages."
We promised to do so, and then said with a sigh: "These are certainly sad days for us capitalists."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Cards in the House.

The fourth-grade teacher had a great deal of trouble with Fred's attendance. He was absent so often that she got suspicious and wrote a note to his parents, as follows:
"I am afraid that Fred is playing truant and I would like your co-operation in securing a better attendance record from him."

This was the reply:
"Dere Teecher—If Fred is playing truant he didn't lern it at home. We air church people and hain't got a card in our house."

Dead Loss.

"Then your dream book is a total loss?"
"Seems so."
"How's that?"
"Can't seem to dream nothing that will fit it!"

Every man is capable of doing his best and it's up to him to do it.

MERRY-GO-ROUND FOR CHINA

Celestial, Long Resident in Hawaii, Has Planned Triumphant Return to His Native Land.

Twelve years ago Chang Chau coiled his queue on top of his head, donned the garb of the Occident in order to facilitate speed, and hied himself out of China between two sons. Chang Chau had made a bad guess and had allied himself in 1907 to the forlorn hope of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, late president of China, but in that year overwhelmingly defeated by the troops of the Manchu dynasty. So it was that Chang Chau arrived in Honolulu. But the Manchus now are no more, and take it from Chang, his is to be a triumphal return.

He has bought a merry-go-round, which for untold years has been adding to the hilarious enjoyment of Hawaiian natives, and intends to set it up in Peking, an exchange says. Before many moons the blatant wall of "Je-er-er-u-s-s-alem—Je-e-e-r-u-s-s-alem." will be floating out from the mechanical organ of the giant swing and mingling with the thousand and other noises of the Orient, while staid Chinese mandarins rock dignifiedly on the gaudy wooden horses, their queues and robes flying out behind them as they make the dizzy circuit. Cynics might be tempted to say that Chang's return smacks something of revenge.

Italian Forests Small.

The total area of Italy, including the islands of Sicily and Sardinia, consists of about 71,500,000 acres, which is equivalent to the combined area of the states of New York and Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey, says the Forestry Magazine of Washington. Within this comparatively small area a population of 96,000,000, more than equivalent to one-third of this country, is congested. Of the total area of Italy only 17.64 per cent is now covered with forests.
