

MONSIEUR RACES DELAYED BY FIRE

Feed and Implement Stables Burned, Causing Considerable Excitement.

Jacksonville, Fla., December 30.—Considerable excitement was caused at Monsieur Park this afternoon when, immediately after the finish of the first race, fire broke out in the assistant's feed and implement stables, along the back stretch. The heat was intense, and the smoke so dense from burning hay that it was necessary to delay the races for about an hour. Several horses stabled in the burning building were led to safety. The fire was allowed to burn itself out. The damage did not exceed $4,000.

Today's card was made up of five selling races and a breeders' purse affair, and some good sport resulted.

First race—five and a half furlongs—Morning Song (7 to 5) first, Dance Away (4 to 1) second, Eschach (2 to 1) third. Time, 1:09.

Second race—six furlongs—Hudac Flister (2 to 5) first, E. T. Shipp (2 to 1) second, Informo Queen (4 to 1) third. Time, 1:15 1/5.

ALBEMARLE CLUB'S CHRISTMAS HUNT

Large Field Follows Hounds Over Four-Mile Course, With Finish at Ingleside.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Charlottesville, December 30.—The social event of the holiday season was the Christmas hunt of the Albemarle Hunt Club. The favorable weather brought out a large field, and the sport was greatly enjoyed. The run was over a course of over four miles. Quartering stags were allowed the hounds and found the going quite fast. Many jumps were negotiated, and no falls were registered. The hunt was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators, including many visitors from the hunt clubs of this and adjoining counties. The meet was at Seven Crosses and was over a course of seven miles, through the farms of Will Durrett and Morris Watson, and back through Farmington to the first check. The remainder of the course lay through Farmington and the Coldhurst farm, with the finish at Ingleside.

Here the club and its guests were delightfully entertained at a hunt breakfast by Mr. and Mrs. Garth. Bountiful hospitality and real Christmas good cheer were enjoyed.

Among those who rode were: Arthur S. Craven, master, on Black; Miss Bertha on Lady Nicotine; Fred Campbell, of Richmond, on Tyrer; John Branch, of Richmond, on Powhatan; Lieutenant Rockwell, of Washington, on Orphan; Lewis Garth, on Ben Cole; Wharton Payne, on Retort; D. W. Fowler, on Pretty; and on Blackwell, of Oak Ridge, on Jack.

Miss Gillman, of Richmond; Mrs. Balckwell, of Oak Ridge; and Mrs. Toes, of Washington, assisted Miss Mary Garth in receiving. Miss Toes, of Washington, Miss Perry, of Miss Gillman, served punch and egg-nog.

Six: Boom! Ah! Peloton!
From a purely professional standpoint, it is always a treat to hear one of the glee clubs of the larger colleges. After the often affected work of the "pros," the whole-souled, hearty outpouring of amateur talent is a thing of pure delight.

Princeton, which is the nearest to us of Virginia of all the great Northern colleges, sent us last night its organization of glee, banjo and mandolin club, and we did not regret the opportunity of having one of the best musical clubs in the college world.

The Jefferson auditorium was well filled, but if it had been packed to the doors the warm and hearty enthusiasm of the audience could not have been greater or more sincere. Not a single number failed to elicit a happy reception, and every one was encored at least once, several of them two or three times.

Of the concerted numbers, the Mandolin Club's exceedingly artistic performance of Joyce's "Vision of Salome" was probably the best. And the Mandolin Club, which has for only two years, played mandolins and guitars, but also a cello, two violins and a trap man

CLUB CELEBRATION

Westmoreland's Christmas Entertainment
The Christmas entertainment of the Westmoreland Club took place last night at the Hotel. The program was excellent, and that has obtained for half a century being followed.

Members of the club and out-of-town guests were present, but the spacious rooms were crowded and few members were absent.

The dining-rooms were decorated with Christmas trees, brilliantly lighted, and the tables contained those delicacies dear to the heart of mankind, including such cold salmon, possum, oysters, cold turkey, Smithfield ham, huge saddles of mutton, and the same in fact, which have been served annually for fifty years. A band played melodies of Christmas days, and sang the evening hymns.

No Westmoreland celebration in the memory of any one present was pleasanter than the one of last night.

A number of Richmond clergymen of all denominations were guests of the club.

who would do credit to any orchestra. Mr. Drummond was unusually and delightfully in his own songs, and Mr. Smith made a hit with his declamations and imitations. But the big star of the evening was Gray, who not only played the xylophone with deft accuracy and correctness (it wasn't his fault that the middle notes were off pitch), but played the piano with a softness and beauty of touch that went to the heart of every musician in the house.

There was a chorus in the chorus who went down to the D below the bass clef, and a tenor who went up anywhere. Altogether, a thing of joy.

"The Firing Line"

An announcement that will be received with a healthy anticipation by all theatre-goers as well as book-lovers, will be that of the presentation at the Academy to-day, matinee and night, of "The Firing Line," the novel of Robert W. Chambers's famous novel, "The Firing Line."

There is no doubt that modern times who enjoy the wide popularity of Mr. Chambers. His celebrated books, which also include "The Fighting Line," "The Yellow Sign," "The Danker Mark" have been more widely read than any other works of fiction published in the country, and are accorded by the best critics the highest rank among the "best sellers."

The dramatization of "The Firing Line" is the work of Richard Walton Tully, co-author with David Belasco of "The Rose of the Rancho," and is the first that has been accepted by Mr. Chambers of any of his books, though many versions have been submitted to the author by well known playwrights, but they have failed to reach the standard demanded by the author.

The many readers of this absorbingly interesting novel will readily appreciate the dramatic possibilities, and, in a particularly high quality production has been provided and a carefully selected company of well-known metropolitan players, headed by Richard Walton Tully, who will present the play to the event should be of one of notable importance.

CHARGES AGAINST WILSON, BIRCHETT AND MRS. STULTZ DROPPED, AND ALL LET GO.

Robert Wilson, charged with maintaining an objectionable establishment at 1103 1/2 Street, and charged in the Police Court yesterday morning, Mrs. T. J. Stultz and Walter Birchett, found in the house when they were raided Thursday, and charged with disorder, were also dismissed.

Austin, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sol. Bernheim, 105 East Broad Street, was in the room with the couple. She was the chief witness against the three, and testified that all were intoxicated. The girl testified, however, that she had been induced to go to the house by Mrs. Stultz and Birchett, and that the latter had offered her $50 cents not to say anything to her mother. Officers in the case produced wine and whiskey, and also "found" glasses that are alleged to have been in the table when the policemen entered.

Mrs. Bernheim testified that she had no reason to believe that her daughter had been subjected to any indignity, but said that when she gave the alarm to the police she feared that the men would use themselves as a threat to her safety. The result of the fact that she was accompanied by Mrs. Stultz, who is her aunt.

HAVE NEW UNIFORMS

Richmond Blues' Band Will Be Reappointed on Lee's Birthday
Major E. W. Bowles told the Richmond Blues' Band at its second annual smoker, held at the Grand Hotel, that he has been promised the new uniforms in time for the celebration of Lee's birthday on January 19. The new uniforms, which are of a blue color, and will appear splendidly clad when the military organizations turn out in the parade on that day.

The major and his staff were guests of the band at the affair, which was given over to social enjoyment. The history of the organization was reviewed by its officers, and hope was expressed for the future. Reference was made to the fact that the band has been able to acquire itself creditably on several occasions, notably at the State Fair, where it was the first to receive an honor in earnest in their desire to build up the band.

W. Cummings, the former business manager, acted as toastmaster. President Alexander Ross and Leader Philip Colavia were among the speakers. A buffet supper was served.

EIGHT TEAM CIRCUIT STILL A MATTER TO BE DECIDED

Under Certain Conditions League Meeting Will Be Held January 10, Though This Is by No Means Positive—Fair Conclusion Is That Norfolk Conference Did Not Produce Results Expected. Bradley Optimistic, While Williams Is Reticent.

BY GUS MALBERT.

Norfolk, Va., December 30.—As a final solution of the present state of affairs in the Virginia League, caused by the stand taken by the Norfolk owners, it was decided at the conference held here, after sessions covering the better part of two days, that a meeting of the league would be called, to be held in Richmond on January 10, unless had been received from Newport News and Portsmouth that teams in those two cities would be conducted by the prospective owners during the entire season.

After palavering and haranguing for more hours than it is fair to state, Messrs. Consolvo, Cheshire and Gorman, of the Norfolk corporation, with advice from Mr. Van Patten, who represented the Portsmouth team, and A. C. Omohundro, who is recorded as president of the Norfolk aggregation, agreed to the proposition of an eight-club circuit, with Portsmouth as the new addition to the additional clubs. The wrangle had assumed such an aspect as foreboded disaster for the league, and it was only the action of the more sober-minded that finally succeeded in rescuing the conference from disaster.

Action Taken Not Final

It must not be presumed that the action at the Norfolk meeting is final. Nor must it be construed that President Williams will call a meeting of the league on January 10. None of this is fact. President Williams has in his only call such a meeting if he has in hand a guarantee from the two new cities that they will meet the demand for a $2,500 guarantee.

Reports to the contrary notwithstanding, the fact remains that the purpose of determining just what could be done at first it looked as if the answer would be "nothing." That was yesterday, when Consolvo and Cheshire and Gorman wanted more than could have been granted. They wanted a guarantee which would have deprived Richmond of the $2,500 guarantee for each season of games played, and they wanted other concessions too numerous to mention.

Nothing Doing First Day

Naturally the meeting of the first day resulted in nothing. The eight-club circuit was discussed, but even Norfolk failed to respond to the suggestions made. Portsmouth was the stumbling block, because Norfolk would be considered in which Portsmouth was regarded as a possibility. The several questions were discussed, but still no agreement could be reached.

Finally it was decided that an eight-club circuit was the solution of the entire situation. But on arrival at the Norfolk meeting President Williams stated that he was unwilling to call a meeting of the league for the purpose of talking over chimerical propositions. He added that what he wanted was a guarantee from the prospective cities that they would be prepared to carry out their contracts, providing, of course, that the other cities of the league would also agree to this proviso and would deposit a similar amount.

Guarantee Furnishes Trouble

The next stumbling block came when the question of guarantee was uncovered. Norfolk wanted as a minimum amount $200. To this neither Mr. Bradley nor Mr. Williams could agree. The latter followed, and then followed more talk. This was to-day. The early morning session was held, but it was held without Williams, who was unavoidably absent. His absence did not mean a success in the fact, however, that he had been subjected to an indignity, but said that when she gave the alarm to the police she feared that the men would use themselves as a threat to her safety. The result of the fact that she was accompanied by Mrs. Stultz, who is her aunt.

Work in Southside

Bids were opened Thursday night for the work of repairing and enlarging the old police station in Washington Ward. James Fox & Sons offered to do the work for $993, but the successful bidder was F. L. Bass, with a bid of $985. The sum of $1,900 has been appropriated by the Council for the improvement of the old building, and the actual work will begin in the near future.

J. J. Smith & Co., the firm which was the successful bidder for the contract of grading and graveling the Petersburg Turnpike from Hull to Manly Streets, and Manly from the turnpike to the Atlantic Coast Line tracks, have announced that the work will be undertaken immediately. The work, for which $2,500 was voted by the Council, was a part of the contract of the annexation.

Matters Still Unsettled

Regardless of how optimistic we may be, we must still regard the status of the Virginia League as unsatisfactory. If the meeting is called in January, it remains to be seen whether or not the two additional clubs will come up with the money. If they do, then it is plain sailing; but if they do not, then what? George Booker, who declared openly that he stood with Consolvo, met the train yesterday at Newport News on which W. B. Bradley and C. R. Williams happened to be, both Richmond-bound. He said that so far as he was concerned, the guarantee proposition was against his own heart. Mr. Van Patten, of Portsmouth, made the same statement.

Eight-Club Circuit Not Settled

All reports leading to a different opinion are misleading. It has been the Richmond team, and of President Williams, of the Virginia League, to this effect. It was simply a question of time, and it is hoped by every one that the meeting should be held, but when it comes right down to hard pan absolutely nothing has been really accomplished.

Simply at the hour named everybody was in his place, including the presiding officer. Now imagine the spirit of desperation which brought a body of men, a large number of them Richmond team, and of President Williams, of the Virginia League, to this effect. It was simply a question of time, and it is hoped by every one that the meeting should be held, but when it comes right down to hard pan absolutely nothing has been really accomplished.

Schedule Yet to Be Arranged

GOOD CHRISTMAS BEHAVIOR NOTED

Prisoners in Penitentiary Passed Through Season Without Punishment.

MANY WEAR CONDUCT BADGE

Most Prisoners Have No Black Mark—Man Pardoned for Christmas.

Twelve hundred men in Richmond passed through the Christmas season without a single infraction of the ordinary rules of conduct. These were not a band of church workers, nor were they a Bible class organization. They were the convicts in the State Penitentiary.

From time immemorial Christmas has been a difficult season for the prison keepers. A spirit of unrest seemed to get possession of the men, and very many of them were unruly. Violation of rules was common, and punishments were necessarily frequent. The recurrence of the holidays has always been a time of dread for the keepers.

This year it was very different. Superintendent James B. Wood, in an address delivered to them a few days before Christmas, told the prisoners that he hoped they would make no trouble, and he appealed to them for good order. As a result there was not a single punishment through the holidays.

Reduced Punishments

Commenting on this condition of affairs yesterday, Rev. T. Mastin, secretary of the State Board of Charities and Correction, attributes it to the humane administration of Mr. Wood. The results of the rule never to punish a convict by stripes except as a punishment for a serious offense, and a personal investigation, are characterized by Mr. Mastin as nothing short of wonderful.

In the annual report of the State Board of Charities and Correction, which will soon be issued from the press, figures are given concerning the number of convicts punished by whipping during the eight months ending September 30, 1910, with those dealt with in the same manner during the corresponding period of the preceding year. The showing is as follows:

Punishments	1909	1910
February	77	48
March	110	23
April	192	8
May	133	9
June	112	11
July	127	7
August	126	6
September	166	8
Totals	564	132

Nearly All Behave Well

In addition, Mr. Wood has adopted the practice of awarding good conduct buttons for perfect behavior for six months. The offer of the buttons was made the latter part of May, and at that time there were 1,199 men in the prison. At the end of the six months a total of 951 buttons were awarded.

Nearly all behave well. This result is still more remarkable as showing the discipline at the State penitentiary when it is considered that all who were punished during the holidays lost their chance of a button, including those who went to the State Farm, those who died, those who were paroled, and those whose terms expired. Prisoners who entered the penitentiary after May 30 had not spent six months since the offer of the buttons was made, and consequently were not eligible for the award. The good behavior men comprise nearly the entire prison population.

A hitherto unnoticed incident marked the holidays at the prison. The Governor desired Mr. Wood to name one man who, by his especial good conduct, deserved a Christmas pardon. The superintendent had so many good men that he did not know what to say. At last he pitched on a negro who, by reason of his weak physical condition, was employed to disinfect cells. He observed every rule and was a model prisoner. There were hundreds more just as good, but the superintendent decided to recommend him for the pardon by reason of the fact that he had been very ill for a long time in prison. He was released, and sent Mr. Wood a Christmas card from his home, writing across its face, "A merry Christmas for me."

ALL-STAR TEAMS BATTLE TO A TIE

Harvard Aggregation in Game With Vanderbilt-Sewanee Eleven.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Nashville, Tenn., December 30.—Captain Hamilton Fish's eleven of Harvard All-Stars, composed of Harvard players who returned to the States after a term in the Vanderbilt-Sewanee game, in which neither side scored, on the Vanderbilt University field last afternoon. In spite of a muddy field the game was fast from start to finish, and the feature was the run of Hamilton who, by his steady play, led the Vanderbilt-Sewanee team in pursuit. Browne caught up with Fish and downed him towards from the Vanderbilt-Sewanee goal.

Harvard used forward passes to much advantage, and played a magnificent defensive game. The Sewanite and Vanderbilt forces were assisted by Smith and Schultze, the Michigan players, and Yost, the Michigan coach, coached the Tennessee players.

McGuire, the Vanderbilt coach, predicted a close game for the locals, and did much brilliant punting.

PEACEMAKER INJURED

Well Known West Asheville Citizen Struck in Right Lung
Asheville, N. C., December 30.—With a knife blade stuck in his right lung to a depth of four inches and still protruding from the wound, John Davis, a well known citizen of West Asheville, staggered into his home early to-day and informed his wife that he had been cut. The injured man did not know the knife was still embedded in his lung until pulled out by his horrified wife.

The stabbing resulted from an affray between the young son of Mr. Davis and a young man named Mahon, in which the father, who endeavored to act as peacemaker, was stabbed. After the cutting, which is believed to have been done by Mahon, the latter made his escape, but later was captured.

The physician pronounced Davis's condition as critical.

POLITICAL PLUM TREE TO BE SHAKEN

Coming Week Expected to See Interesting Developments in Virginia Politics.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, December 30.—It is rumored here that the Virginia political plum tree may be given a good shake early next week, and that there will be a goodly number of the faithful on hand to secure the results. Just what this turn of the political pot means or who is to be rewarded is not now definitely known, but it is almost an assured fact that the coming week will see some interesting events in Virginia political matters.

Just before the holidays Representative Slem and National Committeeman Alvah H. Martin, of Norfolk, called several times to see the President, and upon coming away declared that they would be in a position to make a positive announcement regarding the matter of some Virginia appointments at an early date. It is expected that they will bring from either Mr. Martin or Mr. Slem what the nature of the appointments would be or who would receive them, many persons in Virginia, however, that appointments would be made. That was all that either would say at that time.

Mr. Martin Silent

Mr. Martin usually is a good friend of the newspapers and willingly discusses any matters that bring him into papers and give them valuable suggestions. Recently, however, he stated that he thought it better to make no announcement regarding pending matters until after the holidays, but that he felt certain when the news did come from the White House it would be of a nature to please many persons in Virginia.

After next Monday, which is really New Year's Day in Washington, some announcement is expected from the President regarding the visits of Mr. Martin and Congressman Slem to the White House.

Diligent Inquiry Here Has Failed to Throw any Light on the Question of when the Parsons-Saunders Contested Election Case is to Come before the House for Trial.

Some time back it was thought that Mr. Parsons would be eager to have the case taken up and decided immediately, but the House's decision is not in sight. The fact that Judge Saunders is going to South Carolina about the middle of the coming month to deliver the annual address before the Bar Association would seem to indicate that the matter is not giving him any trouble just now.
