

'HAS BEENS' AFTER INDIANS' SCALPS

THE ALL-COACH ELEVEN WILL CLASH WITH REDSKINS

Merrill, Acker, DeLappe, the McFaddens, Hempel and Hamilton Expected to Work in Tomorrow's Game

Several days of hard and consistent training has put the All-Coach football team into good condition and they are going into the game tomorrow confident of their ability to take the measure of the Indians. The fact that every man on the eleven is an old player who thoroughly understands the points of the game has enabled them to get into form much quicker than a college eleven.

While every position will be filled by a player who is a real football man there are certain men who, outclass their team mates, and who are counted on to win the game.

The fullback and the man on each side of him are unquestionably the three best backs that ever lined up behind a Southern California line. "Big Ed" Merrill, last year's Occidental coach, and for four years one of Beloit's stars, will play left half. He is a giant and in spite of his weight he is the fastest man on the team, with the possible exception of Hamilton.

Acker and DeLappe, the great U. S. C. backs, stand in a class by themselves and are expected to do great work. If the line can give the backs the proper support the Indians will have to look to their laurels.

McFadden at tackle will prove a tower of strength to his team and the Shermanites will probably steer clear of his side of the line after a few tries, for he proved the waterloo of some of the greatest line plungers Berkeley ever produced, when he guarded the left side of Stanford's line for four years.

His brother will play the end next him and this assures the safety of that flank of the coach team. Hempel will hold down the other end, with two of his Pomona stars between him and center. In case one of the backs is knocked out Hempel will shift and Hamilton, who was for four years the star end of the University of Pennsylvania, will take his place.

The remainder of the team are decidedly the fastest company they have ever played in, but they are all consistent and heady players and can be counted on to do their share.

Following are the weights of the men and the positions they will occupy:

Hempel, left end, 168; Moorman, left tackle, 185; Lull, left guard, 153; White, center, 176; Handel, right guard, 185; McFadden, right tackle, 180; McFadden, right end, 176; Roesch, quarter, 148; Merrill, left half, 205; DeLappe, full, 172; Acker, right half, 180.

Officials for the game: Tappen, umpire, and Traeger referee.

JEFFRIES NEVER HITS AS HARD AS HE CAN

Champion Jim Gauges His Blows, as He is Not Booming the Undertaking Business

Champion Jim Jeffries was in a story telling mood the other evening, during which he said:

"You know that fellow Munroe knew right down in his heart that he did not have a ghost of a show and that his part in that fight was a gigantic bluff. I tried to put him out in the first punch, but the lucky dog ducked in time to keep me from knocking his head off. He saw I meant business and as we clinched he said: 'Say, Jeff, don't make a sucker out of me, let me make a little showing.'"

"I stepped back, looked him square in the eye and replied: 'You did knock me down in Butte, did you?' and then, whang, I caught him square on the jaw, knocked out two teeth and sent him down for the count. I had to laugh at the big dud, as he slowly got up in time to stop my right, which closed one of his eyes and broke his nose. I rushed him again, intending to give him the haymaker, but the gong sounded for the end of the round.

"When we got up for the second round I hit him again and sent him to the floor. Just then I saw Graney look at Munroe and I saw what was coming. I tried hard to get him again before Graney could stop the fight, but Eddie was too quick for me, and I didn't have the satisfaction of seeing just how hard I could hit him."

Jeff was then asked if he ever hit a man as hard as he could. The champion held up his right arm, and doubling his fist, replied: "No, I never did. I don't want to go to jail. I am afraid if I ever let that fist go as hard as it was there would be a funeral. No, I generally gauge my blows and make them just hard enough to make the other fellow know he was hit."

When asked who had stopped the hardest blows from his fist, Jeffries said that he guessed it must have been Sharkey, for the ex-sailor had his ribs done up in a plaster cast for several weeks and he has never been able to fight since.

THREE GREAT BACKS TO BUCK HEAVY INDIAN LINE

ED MERRILL, THE GIANT BELOIT COACH, WHO WILL PLAY A HALF ON THE ALL-COACH TEAM IN TOMORROW'S GAME

CALIFORNIA PRODUCES GREATEST FIGHTERS

Coast State Has Turned Out the Best Scrappers During Past Years.

An expert on fistie affairs figured out the other night just what state has turned out the best pugilists during the last ten years. It took him just ten minutes to hit on California. Not being satisfied with this, he calculated what state came next, and he picked out Massachusetts, and chose New York for third place.

Pugilists are usually developed in the localities where boxing is allowed by law, or where the sport has plenty of encouragement. Little fellows with ring ambitions, who want to see their names in the newspapers and enjoy the praise that is the lot of the successful fighter, take to the game quicker than the big men, and consequently the business has more representatives among the smaller fry than among the heavies.

Natives of California California has been the stamping ground of bruisers for years, and that is one of the reasons why that state produced so many of the boxers who have made fistie history. Natives of that state point with pride to the fact that Jim Jeffries, Jim Corbett and Joe Choynski came from California. Jeffries was born in Ohio, but he was so young when he left that state that he objects to being called anything but a Californian. Jeffries is a champion—the best man, experts admit, that the ring has seen, or will see in many a day.

California has contributed to the ring such fighters as Solly Smith, who at one time fought George Dixon for the feather weight championship of the world at Coney Island; George Green, the original Dal Hawkins; Jack Clancy, the hero of many contests in England; Al Neill, a clever middleweight; Alec Greggains, who fought over eighty rounds with Martin (Buffalo) Costello during the good old fighting days at Coney Island; Dai Hawkins, the lightweight who could punch like a heavyweight, and others.

Of the recent men who have done well with the gloves it has produced Frankie Nell, the former bantam; champion of the world; Abe Attell, as good a little man as ever put up his hands; Jimmy Britt, the pride of San Francisco; Eddie Hanlon, the youngster with the heavy blow, and Monte Attell, brother to Abe, who many think will shine as a boxing star later on. This is an array that no other state can boast of.

Massachusetts Looms Up Coming east, Massachusetts looms up as the locality where some great fighters came from. First we have the once mighty John L. Sullivan; then the late George Godfrey, the good negro and the pride of his race; Patsy Sheppard, a kingpin in his day; Dick O'Brien, a corking good middleweight, and Mysterious Billy Smith.

BASEBALL FANS ARE STARTLED BY RUMOR

It is Hinted That Boston Club Will Offer Mike Fisher a Job—Angeles Hears Story and Talks

This is no joke or pipe dream. It is straight stuff, though many won't believe it. There was a real live rumor on the street yesterday that Mike Fisher would be tendered the position of manager of the Boston National club. Others besides Fisher heard the rumor, so it is not a piece of press-agent work on the part of the club. Fisher was called upon by two correspondents of eastern papers yesterday and interviewed in regard to the offer. Fisher freely imparted to the seekers of news all he knew, which was not a terrible lot. He said he had heard that Boston wanted his services, but as yet no offer had been officially tendered him. "I want them to understand that I'm no cheap guy," observed Angelo, lighting a fresh Owl. "Mind you, Boston as yet has not asked me for my terms, and it may not. However, if it does I will come high. I am not a petty king, who can be bought for 10 cents."

"Would you go if they offered you Mugsy McGraw's salary, $10,000 a year?" asked the writer, to feel Mike out.

"I can't say that I would, but I would consider it," retorted the tiger tamer with a serious face. "Because McGraw is willing to work for $10,000 don't think that I would jump at the chance. I'll bet if I go back there I'll be before the limelight oftener than McGraw. I would shake that Boston club up and give the fans something to talk about."

"Would you take back any of the Tigers?" he was asked.

"Now wait until I have been offered the job and I have accepted before you ask me to discuss plans," said the king. "Then it will be time enough to devote my time to the interests of the Tacoma club."

NO TROUBLE TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

HOW "SILK" O'LAUGHLIN GOT HIS NICKNAME

"There seems to be a general impression that I got my nickname of 'Silk' through some quality I may possess as an umpire," said "Silk" O'Laughlin, in response to a query. "When I was a boy I had long ringlets, of which my mother and sister were very proud. Boy-like, however, I never exactly liked the adornment and many a scrap I had with the other kids over the curls. "At last, I begged so hard, my mother decided that I might have the offending curls cut off, much to my delight and the grief of my sister. "To the barber's we went then and the scissors man made his attack on my pate. As he was clipping the curls my sister, a few years older than I, began to cry. "It's a burning shame to cut off the beautiful silk," she said, stroking one of the fallen curls. "Next day, as I was passing the shop, the barber spoke to me and, not knowing my name, called me 'Silk.' The name stuck and it's still with me, as the boys who were with me at the time passed it on to others."

Operations Not Always Necessary

Doctors Frequently Mistaken. "I suffered untold agony with piles for over three years. Two doctors told me nothing but an operation would cure me. I tried different remedies, but nothing did me any good until I used Pyramid Pile Cure. I bought six fifty-cent boxes at the drug store and now I can do my work and go out where before I spent most of my time lying down. I thank God for giving the discoverer the knowledge to make such a cure. I recommend it to all my friends, and if I ever have piles again will certainly use this remarkable remedy. You can use this in any way you wish to make known the wonderful merit of Pyramid Pile Cure."—Mrs. Wm. Mucky, 81 Marshall Street, Elizabeth, N. J.
